New York plunged into darkness

New York City was plunged into darkness Wednesday night when lightning struck power lines, leaving the nation's largest city virtually cut off from the rest of the country.

The power failure hit at about 8:30 p.m. Chicago time, leaving millions helpless in elevators, on subways, in cars, public buildings and homes. .

Reports from the city said crowds appeared to be calm, although off-duty police and firefighters were called out immediately for standby duty.

As of 12:15 a.m., Chicago time, power had not been restored.

In Brooklyn looting was reported in at least one shopping district of 40 to 50 stores. People with sticks were knocking out windows, grabbing television sets and other goods.

Two dozen police officers had been patrolling the area and reporters said shots rang out. Later police abandoned the scene leaving looters alone.

Thousands attending the New York Mets-Chicago Cubs baseball game at Shea Stadium were left in darkness when the power outage hit, forcing a delay in the game. Both New York airports, La Guardia and Kennedy International, were closed, and airline and FAA spokesmen said flights were being diverted to the Newark, N.J. airport.

Reports said lighting struck power lines between Niagara Falls and Manhattan, knocking out all power to the city of New York and parts of Westchester and Putnam counties. Consolidated Edison Co. in New York City reportedly attempted to divert power to the area in an emergency move which failed.

THE BLACKOUT was a repeat of the 1965 outage that affected New York and most of the East Coast for nearly 10 hours. Wednesday night's blackout was said to be not nearly as severe as the 1965 incident.

The temperature in New York was a steamy 91 degrees when the blackout occurred.

The three major television networks switched all network programming first to a New Jersey power station built two years ago because of the 1965 blackout. Programming was lost in Chicago for about 10 minutes during the switching.

Eventually all network programming power was transferred to Hollywood, Calif., because the New Jersey power station signal was too weak.

NEWS WIRE SERVICES and local television and radio stations were using auxiliary power as was the city subway system in an attempt to keep operations running.

Other communications outlets, including the Bell Telephone system, also were affected by the outtage although telephone lines remained open.

"We're in total darkness here," a director assistance operator in New York said Wednesday night. "We can't see a thing. We can't help you."

In Greenwich Village, people were reported congregating calmly in the streets and traffic was moving slowly and cautiously through the streets and city intersections.

Spokesmen for the major airlines said regularly scheduled flights to New York continued, although the flights were being diverted to the Newark airport.

JIM KENNEDY, director of public relations for United Airlines in Chicago, said Wednesday night three New York bound flights, including a 7:45 p.m. flight from Chicago continued on schedule and were diverted to Newark.

"As far as tomorrow's (Thursday) operations are concerned we haven't made a determination yet because we don't know what the situation will be," Kennedy said. He said the FAA and the airlines would consult each other on the flight situation for today.

The outage hit as hundreds of diners and theater-goers were beginning evenings out. Audiences poured out of Broadway theaters stranded in the darkness.

The problem was compounded because switching equipment normally used to bring emergency power from upstate New York was damaged as part of the outage.

ONLY LIGHTS from ships in the harbor and auxiliary lights from a building are showing during New York's blackout. The New York skyline stands dark.

Sprinkling law fails to slow usage

New lawn sprinkling regulations in Arlington Heights have reduced peak demands on the village's water supply but have failed to reduce over-all water consumption.

A report is now being prepared for the village board to show the effects of an ordinance passed June 6 limiting lawn sprinkling in the village to from 5 to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"The figures I've gathered so far indicate over-all consumption has increased since the new ordinance was passed, even though we've lowered some of our peak days," Public Works Director Gene Willroth said Wednesday.

THE NEW LAW was passed following a 10-day ban on all lawn sprinkling, which was enacted after 14 million gallons were pumped in a single day, causing large reductions in the village reserve water supplies.

Normal water usage on nonsprinkling days was about 7 million gallons, but on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays when lawn sprinkling was allowed under the old ordinance, water usage usually exceeded 12 million gallons.

The new regulations, designed to spread more evenly the heavy water usage, have not been totally effective, Willroth said.

The average water usage is now 9.3 million gallons and has reached a high of 12.9 million gallons. On June 27, more than 5 million gallons of water were used during the four-hour sprinkling period, causing both of the village's elevated storage tanks to empty, he said.

"For the most part, the peaks are

Sodium-vapor streetlight test urged in village

A six-month streetlighting test will be recommended before Arlington Heights adopts local streetlighting standards.

The community services committee has recommended to the village board that 20 poles on Kennicott Avenue between Palatine and Rand roads be converted from white mercury vapor to orange sodium-vapor fixutres for six months, Trustee Robert Miller, committee chairman, said.

The test would cost $4,000 and determine the committee's recommendations for standards on existing streets.

The committee also recommended that standards for new subdivisions include sodium-vapor fixtures with flat-bottom refractors mounted on 26-foot poles and lantern-type sodium-vapor fixtures mounted on 22-foot poles.

Helicopter shot down over Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American military cargo helicopter with a crew of three was forced down by North Korean fire north of the demarcation line on North Korean territory, the White House said this morning.

Press Sec. Jody Powell, in a statement read in the White House briefing room, said:

"We are deeply concerned about the incident and are requesting a prompt explanation from North Korean authorities. Any penetration of North Korean air space that may have taken place would have been unintentional and regrettable."

President Carter had not been informed when National Security Chief Zbiegniew Brezinski passed the word to Powell. Brezinski later informed the President, Sec. of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Sec. Harold Brown. Brown and Vance then left a dinner for German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to review the development in Korea.

Powell said the fate of the crew is not known. He said, "We have requested that every attention be given to the crew and requested their prompt return."

Nurses guilty of poisoning patients

DETROIT (UPI) — Two Filipino nurses were convicted Wednesday of poisoning patients at a veterans hospital two years ago in one of the most bizarre medical crimes in the nation's history.

However, the jury, which deliberated a record 94 hours in two weeks after the three-month trial, threw out the only murder charge in the case.

Filipina Narciso, 31, and Leonora Perez, 33, their attorneys and most spectators in the crowded federal courtroom were stunned by the decision.

"I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE it," said a dazed Miss Narciso as she left the federal building accompanied by her attorneys and tearful friends. Mrs. Perez started crying as she walked away.

Prosecutors said the convictions meant the baffling case was closed. But the motive behind a month-long wave of sudden breathing failures among patients at the Ann Arbor VA hospital remained a mystery.

The 52 breathing failures — 12 fatal — were blamed on injections of a potent muscle relaxant, Pavulon. The drug was injected into the intravenous tubing of the patients, immobilizing their nervous system.

The nine women and three men on the jury returned the verdict 90 minutes after showing up for their 15th day of deliberations. They acquitted Miss Narciso of the murder charge and one other poisoning but found both nurses guilty on one conspiracy count and five poisoning counts.

NONE OF THE convictions involved the patients who died. Prosecutors acknowledged the government's case was based entirely on circumstantial evidence and alleged the nurses could not explain why they were near each victim just before a breathing seizure occurred.

Each poisoning count carries a maximum life sentence and the conspiracy charge has a five-year maximum prison sentence. Sentencing was scheduled in four to six weeks.

Defense attorneys promptly filed motions with U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt to overturn the verdict.

The women, both dressed in vests and slacks with white blouses, were stoic when the verdict was read at 9:36 a.m. Disbelief covered the faces of numerous spectators in the crowded but quiet courtroom.

THE WOMEN WERE accused of a series of crimes lasting from July 18 through Aug. 15, 1975, at the VA facility.

Originally, they were indicted a year ago for five murders and 15 nonfatal poisonings. But legal moves and dismissal of some charges by Pratt whittled down the indictment before and during the trial.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Richard Delonis, who once called the case "the most heinous and bizarre series of crimes"

Judge here tells Uganda officials to testify in suit

by TONI GINNETTI

Two former Ugandan officials have been ordered to testify in a controversial $173 million lawsuit charging three airlines with lax security which allowed terrorists in 1976 to threaten 103 Jewish passengers and led to the murder of an elderly woman during last year's Entebbe Airport hijacking.

Cook County Curcuit Court Judge Louis J. Giliberto Wednesday issued the order sought by attorney John J. Kennelly, who is representing 88 of the 103 Jewish hostages in an unprecedented lawsuit against three airlines involved in the hijacking.

The order authorized Kennelly to take depositions from Henry Kyemba, former Ugandan minister of health; and Godfrey Lule, former Ugandan minister of justice, on the treatment of 103 Jewish passengers on an Air France jet held for seven days in the Ugandan airport by Palestinian terrorists.

IT FURTHER SEEKS their testimony concerning the death of Dora Bloch, a 73-year-old Jewish passenger who allegedly was murdered while in an Ugandan hospital.

Kennelly Wednesday said the two ministers have defected to England. He said he will go to London July 20 to take their depositions.

Kennelly declined to comment whether depositions will be sought from other officials of the African country headed by controversial President Idi Amin.

Kennelly is representing the hostages, including the families of five who were killed during the incident, in a $173 million lawsuit charging the three airlines on which the hijackers flew enroute to Entebbe were negligent in failing to detect weapons the terrorists allegedly carried on board.

The airlines include Air France, Gulf Airlines and Singapore Airlines, all of which carried the four Palestinian hijackers just before the seizure of the Air France jet which was en-

'Luck of a lifetime' from a postcard

by NANCY GOTLER

Three weeks ago Marty Schreiber was a bachelor who lived with his parents in their Arlington Heights home. He had no big plans for the future.

Today Schreiber, 24, expects to be married next spring and move into his own $50,000 home, all because he spent 9 cents on a postcard.

Schreiber's card, one of 20,000 mailed to WLS radio in a home giveaway promotion, was selected from 28 finalists on the AM Chicago show by disc jockey John Landecker.

"I COULDN'T believe it," said Schreiber of 1832 N. Patton Ave. "John Landecker was supposed to pick one card from the drum, but because it was so humid and sticky he pulled out three of them. Mine was the one he held on to."

Schreiber and his fiance, Julie Oney, 22, of Bloomington, to whom he became engaged June 26, will begin this weeknd selecting the colors and fixtures for their new home in southwest suburban Woodridge.

Marty Schreiber

He already has settled on the three-bedroom brick ranch style with a stone fireplace. "Now we have to pick out the lot, the colors of paint and carpeting and light fixtures. It's really going to be fun."

It's also going to be expensive because Schreiber doesn't own any furniture and will have to pay taxes on the $50,000 gift. But he said he doesn't plan to sell the house once it's built.

AND HE SAID he will keep his job as office coordinator with Chemplex plastics manufacturers in Rolling Meadows and commute from his new home.

His finance hoped to complete another year of study at Illinois State University in Normal, Ill., before their marriage. "But now," Schreiber said, "she'll probably just quit next winter and we'll get married in the spring as soon as the house is finished."

The only other prize he's ever won is $20 in the Illinois State Lottery, he said, but luck is how he met Miss Oney.

She was one of hundreds of women who replied to his ad in a singles magazine. They made a date and soon afterward decided to get married.

"I never considered myself lucky before," Schreiber said, "but I do now. I've had more luck in the last couple of days than most people do in a lifetime."

Hostages freed, safe after their 8-hour ordeal

KINNELON, N.J. (UPI) — Four suspected robbers held a 12-year-old boy and a service station attendant hostage at gunpoint for eight hours Wednesday and released them unharmed after a long talk with authorities about racial prejudice.

While a force of 30 persons with rifles and shotguns ringed the service station, the suspects — two women with pink curlers in their hair and two men in jeans — surrendered to a negotiating team.

The hostages — Walter Courter, 19, and Neil Ziem, 12, the son of the station owner — were taken to the municipal building in the affluent suburban community to discuss their ordeal with the police.

"We were frightened," Courter said. "But they didn't rob us. The money is all back in the cash register."

THE POLICE LODGED armed robbery charges against Walter Sykes, 43, of East Orange; Robert Moore, 33, of Newark; Gloria Mullens, 19, of Newark, and a 17-year-old girl who was not named because of her age.

Authorities said the men carried a .22-caliber pistol, a hunting knife and a machete.

Sykes and Moore told the negotiators they stopped to have a flat tire fixed at Frawly's Texaco Service Station on Rte. 23, not to stage a robbery.

Morris County Prosecutor Peter Mahanan said a policeman who responded to a motorist's report of a holdup at midnight found the service station lights out and Courter gagged in the office.

The negotiators said Moore told them, "We were not there to rob the place. When the cops came, I panicked."

Sykes told negotiators, "We knew they wouldn't believe us, black faces in a white world. This is a white community, and when they see blacks they get trigger-happy. So I said to myself, if I'm going to die I'm going to take somebody with me."

Train causes 40-minute tieup

A freight train on the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks in Arlington Heights blocked traffic in the downtown area for about 40 minutes Wednesday night while workers repaired a mechanical problem on the train.

Mount Prospect police said the train lost air pressure in its braking system and was stopped on the tracks while the problem was corrected.

Arlington Heights police said the incident did not hamper emergency vehicles. It was not known if any citations were issued to railroad officials as a result of the incident.

Yale charged with sexual harassment

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI — Yale University has been charged in a federal class action suit with allowing some faculty members to pressure women students into sexual acts.

Attorney Ann Simon Wednesday said the suit was filed July 6 on behalf of four Yale women, two of whom graduated this year, and a male faculty member who said he was unable to do his job properly because of the actions of some of his colleagues.

Ms. Simon seeks an injunction in U.S. District Court to stop what she called the sexual harassment of women at Yale. No money damages are sought, just an end to the alleged practice which she said was not uncommon. No date for a hearing was set.

"I WOULD SUSPECT that throughout the whole university there are 75 such episodes per semester. This is a conservative guess on my part," Ms. Simon said in a telephone interview from her New Haven law offices.

Yale, a male only bastion for 269 years, began admitting women in 1969.

The suit accuses Yale of condoning sexual pressures on coeds by failing to establish adequate disciplinary procedures. It alleges one of the women, a member of the Yale Concert Band, had to abandon private study of the flute after an instructor made repeated sexual advances.

The plaintiff suffered "great mental anguish" and almost dropped out of school, Ms. Simon said.

Ms. Simon, a 1976 Yale Law School graduate, said in another incident, a woman student was the victim of "coerced sexual intercourse" by a male faculty member.

ATTORNEYS FOR the university referred inquiries about the suit to a Yale spokesman who labeled the allegations as "totally unfounded." He said, "It's untrue and scurrilous. We will fight these charges vigorously. It's simply not true," the spokesman said.

He said a dismissal motion would be filed soon and he also warned of the possibility "of a potential counter suit."

An instructor named as a party in the suit said, "The whole thing is entirely unfounded," when asked Wednesday to comment on the court action.

The suit charged the university's "refusal to address the problem has caused the school to discriminate against the plaintiffs and other members of their class on the basis of sex in education."

Hostages freed, safe after their 8-hour ordeal

KINNELON, N.J. (UPI) — Four suspected robbers held a 12-year-old boy and a service station attendant hostage at gunpoint for eight hours Wednesday and released them unharmed after a long talk with authorities about racial prejudice.

While a force of 30 persons with rifles and shotguns ringed the service station, the suspects — two women with pink curlers in their hair and two men in jeans — surrendered to a negotiating team.

The hostages — Walter Courter, 19, and Neil Ziem, 12, the son of the station owner — were taken to the municipal building in the affluent suburban community to discuss their ordeal with the police.

"We were frightened," Courter said. "But they didn't rob us. The money is all back in the cash register."

THE POLICE LODGED armed robbery charges against Walter Sykes, 43, of East Orange; Robert Moore, 33, of Newark; Gloria Mullens, 19, of Newark, and a 17-year-old girl who was not named because of her age.

Authorities said the men carried a .22-caliber pistol, a hunting knife and a machete.

Sykes and Moore told the negotiators they stopped to have a flat tire fixed at Frawly's Texaco Service Station on Rte. 23, not to stage a robbery.

Morris County Prosecutor Peter Mahanan said a policeman who responded to a motorist's report of a holdup at midnight found the service station lights out and Courter gagged in the office.

The negotiators said Moore told them, "We were not there to rob the place. When the cops came, I panicked."

Sykes told negotiators, "We knew they wouldn't believe us, black faces in a white world. This is a white community, and when they see blacks they get trigger-happy. So I said to myself, if I'm going to die I'm going to take somebody with me."

Train causes 40-minute tieup

A freight train on the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks in Arlington Heights blocked traffic in the downtown area for about 40 minutes Wednesday night while workers repaired a mechanical problem on the train.

Mount Prospect police said the train lost air pressure in its braking system and was stopped on the tracks while the problem was corrected.

Arlington Heights police said the incident did not hamper emergency vehicles. It was not known if any citations were issued to railroad officials as a result of the incident.

Yale charged with sexual harassment

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI — Yale University has been charged in a federal class action suit with allowing some faculty members to pressure women students into sexual acts.

Attorney Ann Simon Wednesday said the suit was filed July 6 on behalf of four Yale women, two of whom graduated this year, and a male faculty member who said he was unable to do his job properly because of the actions of some of his colleagues.

Ms. Simon seeks an injunction in U.S. District Court to stop what she called the sexual harassment of women at Yale. No money damages are sought, just an end to the alleged practice which she said was not uncommon. No date for a hearing was set.

Dark easier to handle than in '65

by DOUG RAY

John Wade sat in the comfort of his home late Wednesday night, his wife and children in bed. He had the transistor radio on, listening to the latest news on the power outage.

He said the candles were burning low, but he didn't mind a bit.

Wade and his family were in the midst of New York's darkness, but he felt secure this time. He'd made it home and was reading the paper when the lights fell dim.

HIS HOME is in Mamaroneck, an 18,000 population suburb in Westchester County. His fate was like that of thousands of his fellow New Yorkers — they weren't upset much, just wondering when the lights would flash back on. But he has a memory that he says he won't forget, about another blackout 12 years ago. Wade recalls that 10 hour blackout in 1965 as if it happened yesterday.

"I feel good this time, not worrying about anything. I'm home with my kids and they're asleep. By morning we won't need the lights.

He wasn't so lucky in 1965. "It was like a madhouse. I was at 125th Street and Park Avenue at the train station. When the lights went, it was a madhouse."

"I worked in a fur storage house and was going home, but there was no way to get there. There was talk of looters. People were going crazy. They didn't know what to do," he said.

"I FOUND SOME other guys standing around and we started looking for a cab. It was a long time before we found one and when we did you wouldn't believe what it cost us. It cost me $25."

So on Wednesday night, he worried little. There was a bit of excitement in his voice, but still relaxed.

"It'll come back on, sooner or later. And in this neighborhood we don't worry much about people stealing or looting," he said.

"Anyway, the lights have come on a couple of times but they go right back out. So I guess they're about to find out what's wrong."

It was after midnight in New York. There were hundreds of people stranded in the city and suburbs, many of them in the same shape Wade was in 12 years ago.

But this time, he is just going about his business.

Was he concerned that they might not come on? He laughed. "Not a bit."

He laughed again.

"I've got to go now."

Like his neighbors in the security of their suburban homes, John Wade had this thing licked. He was going to bed.

San Quentin riot ringleaders target of probe

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — The state of California sent a team of investigators to San Quentin Prison Wednesday to look for ringleaders of a chain of racial battles that left three convicts dead and four badly hurt in the big prison's worst violence in six years.

State Director of Corrections Jerry Enomoto confirmed that a team of experts in race relations and "conflict resolution" would join in the investigation of Tuesday's repeated outbreaks.

Meanwhile, inmates were placed under close watch and confined to their cells, with all visiting privileges canceled.

PRISON SPOKESMAN Mike Luxford said, "There are sure to be some inmates transferred to other institutions, but we don't know how many, or from what groups. That will be part of what the investigators will determine."

The deaths of two whites and a black brought to five the number of San Quentin killings so far this year and came during the worst violence at the institution since black activist George Jackson and five others died trying to escape in August 1971.

Luxford said that Tuesday's battles were mainly between the Nazi-oriented American Nationalist Socialist gang of whites and Black Muslims.

Tuesday's trouble began in the morning with a stabbing attack on a black inmate by two whites in an exercise yard, the first time prisoners had been allowed out of their cells since a general lockdown was imposed following earlier violence.

Senate OKs money for neutron bomb

The Senate Wednesday night voted to give President Carter the money to produce neutron weapons, but stipulated a final presidential go-ahead could be over-ruled by both houses. Ending nearly 11 hours of debate, the Senate adopted 74-19 an amendment by Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and Republican Howard Baker to give to the House and Senate the right to overturn within 45 days, by a concurrent resolution, a White House decision to produce the controversial weapons. Carter told Congress earlier in the day he favored retaining $14.4 million in a public works bill to produce the weapons and artillery shells which kill human beings by radiation but minimize damage to property. The Senate passed the $10.4 billion public works appropriations bill by a vote of 85-3 and sent it to a House-Senate conference committee.

The Senate defeated 58-38 a motion by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to block entirely funds for the neutron weapon.

A NEW YORK daily news reporter who luckily doesn't have an electric typewriter, writes a story about Wednesday night's blackout while a fellow newsroom employe holds flashlight. Light area on map shows where blackout occurred.

in history, said the verdict — despite the lack of a murder conviction — ended the two-year federal investigation.

"Any part of that whole situation not included in this trial is closed out," Delonis said.

Defense attorneys said the jury shook their faith in the federal justice system.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE it is possible to convict innocent people in this country," Thomas O'Brien said, his voice breaking with emotion. "I can't believe that with the scanty evidence the government presented that the jurors could convict them."

Richard Yanko, another prosecutor, said the conviction was the result of the "substantial evidence" that produced 58 exhibits and 6,500 pages of transcripts from 100 witnesses.

During the trial some Filipino observers predicted a guilty verdict could sour public opinion in their country toward the United States.

S. I. HAYAKAWA

- S. I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., says he's a strong believer in civil liberties so he never has spoken in favor of efforts to block cigaret smoking in public places. But Wednesday, as the Senate Human Resources Committee was debating legislation to block government efforts to pull saccharin from the market, Hayakawa said he had had enough. Glancing around the room at members and observers puffing away, he said it was "preposterous of us to sit here smoking, contaminating the atmosphere and subjecting those of us who do not smoke" to smoke-filled air while discussing the cancer risks of saccharin. When Hayakawa asked that smokers leave the room to "clear the air," a decision was made to have the smoking cease for the duration of the committee meeting.

Larry Stotts plays waiting game

by DANN GIRE

Larry Stotts isn't doing much of anything lately except waiting.

The 20-year-old Mount Prospect man spends his time on Tier B-2 in the Cook County Jail in Chicago on charges he murdered a Mount Prospect grocery clerk, Nargis Alvi, Feb. 20.

"I get up at 5 in the morning and I work in the stock room until about 1 o'clock," Stotts says, his voice ringing with enthusiasm to speak with someone from "the outside."

"ABOUT FROM 2 to 4, I get to watch T.V. Then the next couple hours I play cards. Then, from 7 to about 10, I play chess." His voice takes on a sarcastic tone. "Wow, just think. I get to do that seven days a week in this place."

Stotts doesn't get many visitors in the jail. None, except for an occasional visit from his mother or father and daily letters from a family friend.

What visitors Stotts does get have to stand in a special visiting booth, not designed for privacy or intimacy. Stotts must speak through a thick screened area in the wall, next to a slender unbreakable window smudged and grimy with fingerprints of earlier visitors.

At times, Stotts must shout to be heard above the other noise in the jail. Smells reminiscent of an unventilated high school locker room permeate the air on Tier B-2, but the inmates seem used to it.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE this place. Last night we had people laying all over the floors, asleep on tables. It was really something," Stotts says, his blue-steel eyes widening.

The sandy-haired Stotts, whose youthful face could pass for 16-years-old, isn't happy with the way his court hearings have progressed. Wednesday, Stotts' case was again continued to Aug. 10 in the Des Plaines branch of the Cook County Curcuit Court.

A trial date is expected to be set for Stotts at that time. It's possible the trail could begin at that date, something that would please Stotts, who says it would at least get things moving.

"These continuations are ridiculous," he mutters.

STOTTS, WHO dropped out of Prospect High School in Mount Prospect his senior year, was formerly employed by Bell Finer Fuels, Busse and Algonquin roads in Mount Prospect. He was fired from the job "without explanation" the morning before Mrs. Alvi's murder, Stotts said.

Ironically, Stotts, of 1701 Dennis Pl., received a commendation three years ago this month from Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph J. Doney for "alert action" in saving the life of a man who had fallen into a plate glass window outside his home on Judith Ann Drive.

In his underwear, Stotts ran from his home to the man's side, preventing him from bleeding to death by wrapping his arms in towels and calling paremedics.

Stotts placed another phone call to authorities Feb. 20, this time to report he had "found" the stabbed body of Mrs. Alvi in a cooler at the K. & G. Foot Mart, 1760 W. Algonquin Rd.

The following day, he was charged with her murder.

U.S. cholesterol levels down: study

First results from a nationwide study suggest cholesterol levels in the blood of Americans have dropped in recent years but that young women using birth control pills have more fats in their blood than nonusers, it was reported Wednesday. The study conducted by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute also found that better educated men and women in high managerial or professional occupations had lower levels of fats in their blood than did people in lower socioeconomic categories.

Another finding was that the amounts of fatty substances in the blood of children drop for some unexplained reason during adolescent years and then increase with age.

Cholesterol in the blood is considered a major risk factor for the development of artery disease which accounts for half of all the deaths of Americans. Still unanswered, however, is whether lowering cholesterol levels with diets can reduce the risk of heart attacks.

THE NEW DATA came from 12 lipid research clinics established by the NHLBI in 1971 and 1972 to study the relationship of blood fats to environmental factors and to test the theory that if blood fats are reduced, heart disease also would be reduced.

The clinics, 11 in the United States and one in Canada, have examined 60,000 people so far. The initial results of those examinations were reported at a briefing at the institute by a team of project officials.

Dr. Robert Levy, director of the institute, said one of the major findings was that cholesterol levels on the blood of Americans appeared to have dropped 5 to 10 per cent from findings of earlier studies two decades ago.

SCIENTISTS SAID this may be related to other data which show that the diets of Americans appear to be shifting away from foods rich in cholesterol.

route from Athens to Paris.

KENNELLY SAID the suit, filed several months ago in Cook County Circuit Court, charges the four hijackers carried a machine gun, four revolvers, at least 10 hand grenades and boxes of dynamite when they boarded the airlines' planes enroute to the eventual hijacking.

It charges the three airlines all failed to detect the weapons and seeks $173 million in compensatory and punitive damages for the hostages.

Kennelly said the suit was filed in Illinois because it is one of the few jurisdictions in the world in which all three airlines carry on business and therefore can be sued.

The hijacking began June 27, 1976, with the terrorists demanding the release of 40 Palestinians then being held in Israeli jails.

The terrorists threatened to kill the 250 passengers if the demand was not met, but within the next seven days all but 103 of the passengers were released. The remaining hostages were Jewish.

Those hostages were freed when Israeli commandos stormed the airport July 4, 1976, in a controversial raid known as "Operation Thunderbolt."

The four terrorists as well as 20 Ugandan military men were killed in the raid.

He laughed again.

"I've got to go now."

Like his neighbors in the security of their suburban homes, John Wade had this thing licked. He was going to bed.

San Quentin riot ringleaders target of probe

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — The state of California sent a team of investigators to San Quentin Prison Wednesday to look for ringleaders of a chain of racial battles that left three convicts dead and four badly hurt in the big prison's worst violence in six years.

State Director of Corrections Jerry Enomoto confirmed that a team of experts in race relations and "conflict resolution" would join in the investigation of Tuesday's repeated outbreaks.

Meanwhile, inmates were placed under close watch and confined to their cells, with all visiting privileges canceled.

PRISON SPOKESMAN Mike Luxford said, "There are sure to be some inmates transferred to other institutions, but we don't know how many, or from what groups. That will be part of what the investigators will determine."

The deaths of two whites and a black brought to five the number of San Quentin killings so far this year and came during the worst violence at the institution since black activist George Jackson and five others died trying to escape in August 1971.

Luxford said that Tuesday's battles were mainly between the Nazi-oriented American Nationalist Socialist gang of whites and Black Muslims.

Tuesday's trouble began in the morning with a stabbing attack on a black inmate by two whites in an exercise yard, the first time prisoners had been allowed out of their cells since a general lockdown was imposed following earlier violence.

Senate OKs money for neutron bomb

The Senate Wednesday night voted to give President Carter the money to produce neutron weapons, but stipulated a final presidential go-ahead could be over-ruled by both houses. Ending nearly 11 hours of debate, the Senate adopted 74-19 an amendment by Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and Republican Howard Baker to give to the House and Senate the right to overturn within 45 days, by a concurrent resolution, a White House decision to produce the controversial weapons. Carter told Congress earlier in the day he favored retaining $14.4 million in a public works bill to produce the weapons and artillery shells which kill human beings by radiation but minimize damage to property. The Senate passed the $10.4 billion public works appropriations bill by a vote of 85-3 and sent it to a House-Senate conference committee.

The Senate defeated 58-38 a motion by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to block entirely funds for the neutron weapon.

in history, said the verdict — despite the lack of a murder conviction — ended the two-year federal investigation.

"Any part of that whole situation not included in this trial is closed out," Delonis said.

Defense attorneys said the jury shook their faith in the federal justice system.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE it is possible to convict innocent people in this country," Thomas O'Brien said, his voice breaking with emotion. "I can't believe that with the scanty evidence the government presented that the jurors could convict them."

Richard Yanko, another prosecutor, said the conviction was the result of the "substantial evidence" that produced 58 exhibits and 6,500 pages of transcripts from 100 witnesses.

During the trial some Filipino observers predicted a guilty verdict could sour public opinion in their country toward the United States.

S. I. HAYAKAWA

- S. I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., says he's a strong believer in civil liberties so he never has spoken in favor of efforts to block cigaret smoking in public places. But Wednesday, as the Senate Human Resources Committee was debating legislation to block government efforts to pull saccharin from the market, Hayakawa said he had had enough. Glancing around the room at members and observers puffing away, he said it was "preposterous of us to sit here smoking, contaminating the atmosphere and subjecting those of us who do not smoke" to smoke-filled air while discussing the cancer risks of saccharin. When Hayakawa asked that smokers leave the room to "clear the air," a decision was made to have the smoking cease for the duration of the committee meeting.

Larry Stotts plays waiting game

by DANN GIRE

Larry Stotts isn't doing much of anything lately except waiting.

The 20-year-old Mount Prospect man spends his time on Tier B-2 in the Cook County Jail in Chicago on charges he murdered a Mount Prospect grocery clerk, Nargis Alvi, Feb. 20.

"I get up at 5 in the morning and I work in the stock room until about 1 o'clock," Stotts says, his voice ringing with enthusiasm to speak with someone from "the outside."

"ABOUT FROM 2 to 4, I get to watch T.V. Then the next couple hours I play cards. Then, from 7 to about 10, I play chess." His voice takes on a sarcastic tone. "Wow, just think. I get to do that seven days a week in this place."

Stotts doesn't get many visitors in the jail. None, except for an occasional visit from his mother or father and daily letters from a family friend.

What visitors Stotts does get have to stand in a special visiting booth, not designed for privacy or intimacy. Stotts must speak through a thick screened area in the wall, next to a slender unbreakable window smudged and grimy with fingerprints of earlier visitors.

At times, Stotts must shout to be heard above the other noise in the jail. Smells reminiscent of an unventilated high school locker room permeate the air on Tier B-2, but the inmates seem used to it.

"I CAN'T BELIEVE this place. Last night we had people laying all over the floors, asleep on tables. It was really something," Stotts says, his blue-steel eyes widening.

The sandy-haired Stotts, whose youthful face could pass for 16-years-old, isn't happy with the way his court hearings have progressed. Wednesday, Stotts' case was again continued to Aug. 10 in the Des Plaines branch of the Cook County Curcuit Court.

A trial date is expected to be set for Stotts at that time. It's possible the trail could begin at that date, something that would please Stotts, who says it would at least get things moving.

"These continuations are ridiculous," he mutters.

STOTTS, WHO dropped out of Prospect High School in Mount Prospect his senior year, was formerly employed by Bell Finer Fuels, Busse and Algonquin roads in Mount Prospect. He was fired from the job "without explanation" the morning before Mrs. Alvi's murder, Stotts said.

Ironically, Stotts, of 1701 Dennis Pl., received a commendation three years ago this month from Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph J. Doney for "alert action" in saving the life of a man who had fallen into a plate glass window outside his home on Judith Ann Drive.

In his underwear, Stotts ran from his home to the man's side, preventing him from bleeding to death by wrapping his arms in towels and calling paremedics.

Stotts placed another phone call to authorities Feb. 20, this time to report he had "found" the stabbed body of Mrs. Alvi in a cooler at the K. & G. Foot Mart, 1760 W. Algonquin Rd.

The following day, he was charged with her murder.

U.S. cholesterol levels down: study

First results from a nationwide study suggest cholesterol levels in the blood of Americans have dropped in recent years but that young women using birth control pills have more fats in their blood than nonusers, it was reported Wednesday. The study conducted by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute also found that better educated men and women in high managerial or professional occupations had lower levels of fats in their blood than did people in lower socioeconomic categories.

Another finding was that the amounts of fatty substances in the blood of children drop for some unexplained reason during adolescent years and then increase with age.

Cholesterol in the blood is considered a major risk factor for the development of artery disease which accounts for half of all the deaths of Americans. Still unanswered, however, is whether lowering cholesterol levels with diets can reduce the risk of heart attacks.

THE NEW DATA came from 12 lipid research clinics established by the NHLBI in 1971 and 1972 to study the relationship of blood fats to environmental factors and to test the theory that if blood fats are reduced, heart disease also would be reduced.

The clinics, 11 in the United States and one in Canada, have examined 60,000 people so far. The initial results of those examinations were reported at a briefing at the institute by a team of project officials.

Dr. Robert Levy, director of the institute, said one of the major findings was that cholesterol levels on the blood of Americans appeared to have dropped 5 to 10 per cent from findings of earlier studies two decades ago.

SCIENTISTS SAID this may be related to other data which show that the diets of Americans appear to be shifting away from foods rich in cholesterol.

KENNELLY SAID the suit, filed several months ago in Cook County Circuit Court, charges the four hijackers carried a machine gun, four revolvers, at least 10 hand grenades and boxes of dynamite when they boarded the airlines' planes enroute to the eventual hijacking.

It charges the three airlines all failed to detect the weapons and seeks $173 million in compensatory and punitive damages for the hostages.

Kennelly said the suit was filed in Illinois because it is one of the few jurisdictions in the world in which all three airlines carry on business and therefore can be sued.

The hijacking began June 27, 1976, with the terrorists demanding the release of 40 Palestinians then being held in Israeli jails.

The terrorists threatened to kill the 250 passengers if the demand was not met, but within the next seven days all but 103 of the passengers were released. The remaining hostages were Jewish.

Those hostages were freed when Israeli commandos stormed the airport July 4, 1976, in a controversial raid known as "Operation Thunderbolt."

The four terrorists as well as 20 Ugandan military men were killed in the raid.

Seith expected to battle Percy for Senate seat

SPRINGFIELD — Chicago Attorney Alex Seith is on the verge of announcing plans to try to unseat U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Illinois, next year.

Seith, chairman of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals and a past president of the prestigious Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, is expected to make an announcement before the end of July.

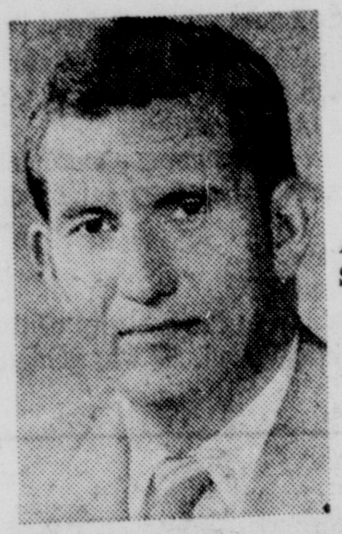
While declining to declare his candidacy Wednesday, Seith said he is "very close to making a decision," adding all the signs pointing to his candidacy are "very encouraging."

Seith already has had pollster Peter Hart survey Illinois and at least two campaign staffers have been hired. Springfield radio newsman Thom Serafin and Paul Kedrox, formerly employed by the foreign relations group, will begin working for Seith next week.

SEITH HAS BEEN meeting with Downstate Democratic officials and making some public appearances in recent weeks to assess his chances against the well-known Republican incumbent.

Seith said he was in Champaign Sunday and has made earlier trips to Decatur and Springfield to discuss next year's election.

While unwilling to discuss the specifics of Hart's poll, Seith said it identified the issues people are concerned about.



Alex Seith

"They don't want a lot of phony-baloney from a politician. They want the government is running out of control and they want someone to take charge of it," he said.

In addition to his county post, Seith, who never had sought elective office, has worked closely with the Carter administration on several projects. He was a member of the blue-ribbon advisory commission that offered recommendations to the President on possible ambassadorial appointments.

SEITH ALSO represented Carter in a trip to several European capitals following the President's 1976 election victory.

Seith is expected to start the campaign as an underdog because he is not well-known outside the party circles. But he said his meetings around the state have shown that people want better representation in the U.S. Senate than Percy has been providing.

He also said he was "satisified" that sufficient money can be raised to run a creditable campaign. Using several 1976 U.S. Senate campaigns as a barometer, Seith said at least $1.2 million would be needed for the campaign. He said reports have shown Percy spent about $1.6 million in 1972.

So far the only announced candidate for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination is political gadfly Anthony Robert Martin-Trigona, who most recently ran last in the Chicago mayoral primary.

Trigona, who is best known for campaigning with his pet St. Bernard, Grumpy, appeared at the same gathering with Seith on Sunday in Champaign.

$6 million for RTA salaries

The Regional Transportation Authority, which recently approved a 5 per cent gas tax for the six-county area, has budgeted more than $6 million in salaries and fringe benefits for its employes this year. That figure is more than double the $3.7 million budgeted for salaries and fringe benefits in fiscal 1977 or the $3.1 million actually paid. Lou Dombrowski, spokesman for the RTA, defended the figures.

"The total adminitrative budget of the RTA amounts to only 4½ per cent of the total budget, one of the lowest for any government agency in the country," Dombrowski said. "That includes the additional employes to be taken on this year." The $6,280,500 budgeted for fiscal 1978 includes $200,000 in compensation for the RTA board of directors, he said. Each of the eight board members is paid $200 a day for each day he is involved in RTA business, with a maximum of $25,000 each. In fiscal year 1976, $175,000 of the $200,000 appropriated was paid to the board members, Dombrowski said.

Burnham Corridor gets final OK

The Chicago City Council Wednesday authorized construction on the "Burnham Corridor" segment of the Crosstown Expressway, ending more than a decade of bitter wrangling over the highway. The council, on a vote of 41-3, also approved a $50 million bond issue to pay for part of the city's cost. Aldermen appropriated $500,000 from the city's share of the motor fuel tax fund to pay for engineering studies. The vote also authorized bus lanes along the Stevenson Expressway. The Crosstown originally was conceived as a semicircular route running from the South Side along the western edge of the city, linking the expressway routes radiating out from the Loop.

The late Mayor Richard J. Daley took the project to heart and pushed hard for it, despite complaints from neighborhoods in the proposed expressway corridor and, later, bitter opposition from Gov. Daniel Walker.

Judges uphold bet service ban

Two Cook County Circuit Court judges Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of a new state law banning race track betting messenger services. Judge John F. Hechinger upheld the law's constitutionality in hearing a case filed by Finish Line Express Inc. He acted just hours after Judge L. Sheldon Brown refused to issue a temporary injunction forbidding enforcement of the law against three Chicago messenger services — Pick A Winner, Metropolitan Messenger Service Inc., and A.W.B. Inc., the firm that had sought the injunction. Hechinger ruled the law is a "legitimate exercise of the power of the state by the general assembly" in its duty to protect its citizens.

Continental bank sues ex-officers

Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago filed suit Wednesday against two former officers, charging they defrauded the bank of at least $617,853. Continental Illinois charged in a suit filed in U.S. District Court that F. Gaylord Nance and Richard T. Fogle, both living in Dallas, "personally profited" by concealing their interests in two companies which did business with the bank and its customers. Nance and Fogle set up Arrow Oil Corp. in Oklahoma and Texoil Exploration Co. in Texas, the suit said. The bank already has had to pay its customers $617,853 for oil and gas interests the men bought for themselves instead of bank customers, the suit said.

English not native tongue of 5%

Nearly 5 per cent of students in suburban Cook County schools speak a language other than English, a survey released Wednesday by county Schools Supt. Richard J. Martwick said. Martwick said the census showed 1.69 per cent of the 433,186 enrolled in suburban public schools speak Spanish. The second most common foreign language was Italian, followed by Greek and German. The census showed 550 students do not speak, write or understand English at all, while another 606 are only marginally fluent in English, Martwick said.

Two nursing home firms fined

Two companies which run three Chicago area nursing homes admitted in court Wednesday they had participated in a Medicaid fraud scheme and were fined a total of $40,000. The companies were Pure Hotels Inc., which runs the Chapman Hotel and Traemour Home on Chicago's North Side, and Pleasantview Convalescent and Nursing Center, Niles. U.S. District Court Judge John Crowley fined each company $20,000. Pure Hotels and Pleasantview admitted receiving kickbacks in 1974 from the Glick Pharmacy, Chicago, in return for sending Medicaid patients to the drug store. Cook County Circuit Court Judge John Grady fined Uptown Medical Supply Inc., Chicago, $15,000 Wednesday. Uptown pleaded guilty to paying a kickback to a nursing home.

Dist. 214 students now are able to study abroad

High School Dist. 214 students will be able to study abroad next summer and earn high school credit in a program co-sponsored by the school district and the American Institute of Foreign Study.

Students will have the opportunity to study art and music in Italy; English literature and Elizabethan drama in England; native language and culture in France, Spain and Germany; and European history in various European capitals.

Each five-week program will consist of morning classes, afternoon cultural activities and time for recreation, shopping and sightseeing.

THE DETAILS OF the summer study abroad program, paid for by the individual student, will be worked out by Dist. 214 administrators and the foreign study institute based in Greenwich, Conn. The board of education approved the cooperative venture Monday.

A district steering committee will be established and charged with overall planning and the selection of teacher counselors for the tour groups.

Recruitment and orientation of students interested in studying abroad next summer will take place during the fall and the winter. The program will be open to all students.

Courses will be taught by native teachers and professors, but Dist. 214 teachers will accompany the students.

Standard programs offered by the foreign study institute cost the student between $1,300 and $1,700, but administrators said they are confident the cost can be reduced because of the number of students expected to enroll and modifications in the program.

Satisfactory completion of the five-week program will earn students one credit.

In the past years, students usually have not received academic credit for non-district sponsored study abroad programs and the district has sponsored few such programs.

in May which called for trustees to approve a standard of sodium-vapor lights mounted on 26-foot poles.

Scarsdale subdivision was not included in that proposal because the village board earlier approved a request by area residents for coachlight lanterns mounted on 15-foot poles using mercury-vapor lights.

"I personally don't think another test is needed," Miller said. "There are 200 different kinds of lights we can test forever if we want to.

"We made a recommendation for new subdivisions because it was needed quickly," Miller said, "but we did not feel it is that critical to make a decision for existing lights right away."

Earlier tests with sodium-vapor lights have been conducted in the Surrey Ridge subdivision, Scarsdale and the central business district.

down, but total consumption is up, so our pumping levels (in the village's underground wells) continue to drop," Willroth said.

DROPS IN THE water levels of the wells since last summer vary from 10 to 70 feet, he said.

"We don't have enough on the books yet to gauge the total effect of the new sprinkling ordinance or to make recommendations but I think we're going to have to do more to educate the public on the total water problem," Willroth said.

Arlington Heights police and public works employes will continue to issue tickets to residents who violate the ordinance. Violators may be fined from $25 to $500.

The ordinance does exempt residents using hand-held hoses and sprinkling cans to water vegetable gardens if the gardens are not for commercial use.

"For magazines, motor oil, radios or insect spray, I go to a drug or discount store; for prescriptions, I go to my Medicare Pharmacy."

Right!

There is a difference between a drug or discount store and a Medicare Pharmacy. And you should be aware of it.

Most of these stores sell prescriptions and garden tools and toys and photo supplies and cigarettes and paper backs and . . . The Medicare Pharmacies don't. All Medicare Pharmacies offer is professional prescription service and health care needs.

Medicare Pharmacies are dedicated to the single objective of filling your prescription and health care needs with the highest quality products, at the lowest cost. Ask any Medicare Pharmacy customer how well that objective is met. Better yet, find out for yourself.

Next time you need a prescription or health care product, stop in or call the Medicare Pharmacy near you. Shop for price . . . count on quality.

Begin wins Israeli peace plan backing

Prime Minister Menahem Begin Wednesday won cabinet support for an Israeli peace plan and said he is going to talks with President Carter next week "with a good hope in my heart." Begin declined to disclose any specifics of the plan, saying, "Out of respect for the President of the United States he should be the first to hear from me about the decisions of the government of Israel." "I go with a good hope in my heart," Begin told reporters two days before his departure for the United States and talks with Carter July 19. After a 2½ hour debate, the cabinet voted unanimously to approve the plan, which government spokesman Arye Naor said would be given to Carter in writing "to make matters more exact." Newspaper reports said Israel would tell the U. S. administration it is willing to give up chunks of the Sinai Peninsula and the Golan Heights, while holding on to West Bank of Jordan as long as possible.

In Egypt, meantime, President Anwar Sadat told four visiting U. S. congressmen he would recognize Israel five years after a Middle East peace accord but he will not end the state of war until the last Israeli soldier leaves Arab soil. Sadat also asked the American congressmen for U. S. weapons to defend Egypt against the Soviet infiltration of Africa, especially Ethiopia. Sadat offered to set up diplomatic and trade relations with Israel five years after a peace treaty is signed and said the "time is ripe" for concluding an Arab-Israeli peace treaty at Geneva. He said if Middle East peace was not realized this year, this will create a "dangerous situation" in the region.

Big 3 begin nuclear talks

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain began new talks in Geneva Wednesday in an effort to break a 20-year deadlock on a total ban against nuclear tests. Arms control negotiators from the three leading nuclear powers began exploratory consultations on whether there is now sufficient common ground to start drafting such a comprehensive test ban agreement. The preliminary round of talks will probably last about two weeks, Western officials said. "If these exploratory talks are satisfactory we can move ahead within a reasonably short period of time" on full-fledged negotiations, said U. S. delegation leader Paul Warnke.

The nation

Schmidt welcomed at White House

President Carter and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt agreed Wednesday the Soviet Union should become more involved in such multinational activities as economic aid to developing nations, the White House said. Carter gave Schmidt a scale welcome on the White House lawn Wednesday before the first of their two scheduled meetings, assuring him "there are no differences between us." Schmidt said, "Our two nations are joined in a very strong bond of friendship. That friendship has never been closer than today."

Presidential Press Secretary Jody Powell said during Carter's one hour meeting with Schmidt in the Oval Office "there was a mutual agreement that it would be beneficial for the Soviet Union to become more involved in multinational activities . . . particularly in the North-South area." Powell said he could not be more specific about what form the suggested Soviet aid might take.

Bill delaying saccharin bar OKd

A Senate committee Wednesday approved legislation delaying for 18 months government efforts to pull saccharin from the market, but requiring print and broadcast warnings of a possible cancer link. The bill cleared the Senate Human Resources Committee on an 11-3 vote and was referred to the Senate Commerce Committee, which will review the proposed advertising restrictions and report the measure to the floor for action by July 27. The legislation would bar the Food and Drug Administration from executing its plan to ban the sale of all saccharin products effective this fall. That ban was announced after Canadian tests showed saccharin caused cancer in rats.

Panel kills funds for B1 bomber

The Senate Appropriations Committee, agreeing with President Carter's decision not to go ahead with the B1, Tuesday killed funds for production of five of the bombers. During a closed session, the committee, by a 9 to 5 vote, stripped about $1.4 billion from the $111 billion defense appropriations measure earmarked for the B1 before Carter announced his decision. The decision by the committee, although significant, does not preclude backers of the B1 from seeking to restore the money for the aircraft when the bill gets to the Senate floor for action.

Gas-fleeing residents back home

Residents of Rockwood, Tenn. returned to their homes Wednesday while troubleshooters gingerly moved a cracked tanker truck leaking the deadly gas which drove them away Tuesday night. The rig crashed with 1,800 gallons of liquid bromine Tuesday, spilling half the "very lethal" substance down Roosevelt Mountain. The town's 5,200 residents were forced to flee, many leaving with only the clothes they wore. Chemical experts dressed in rubberized suits used a crane to lift the tractor's twisted wreckage onto an open trailer Wednesday. Then they moved the trailer slowly up a steep mountain road to an isolated airport eight miles away. One observer said the tank, a 30-foot cylincer, "was bent like a banana."

Begin wins Israeli peace plan backing

Prime Minister Menahem Begin Wednesday won cabinet support for an Israeli peace plan and said he is going to talks with President Carter next week "with a good hope in my heart." Begin declined to disclose any specifics of the plan, saying, "Out of respect for the President of the United States he should be the first to hear from me about the decisions of the government of Israel." "I go with a good hope in my heart," Begin told reporters two days before his departure for the United States and talks with Carter July 19. After a 2½ hour debate, the cabinet voted unanimously to approve the plan, which government spokesman Arye Naor said would be given to Carter in writing "to make matters more exact." Newspaper reports said Israel would tell the U. S. administration it is willing to give up chunks of the Sinai Peninsula and the Golan Heights, while holding on to West Bank of Jordan as long as possible.

In Egypt, meantime, President Anwar Sadat told four visiting U. S. congressmen he would recognize Israel five years after a Middle East peace accord but he will not end the state of war until the last Israeli soldier leaves Arab soil. Sadat also asked the American congressmen for U. S. weapons to defend Egypt against the Soviet infiltration of Africa, especially Ethiopia. Sadat offered to set up diplomatic and trade relations with Israel five years after a peace treaty is signed and said the "time is ripe" for concluding an Arab-Israeli peace treaty at Geneva. He said if Middle East peace was not realized this year, this will create a "dangerous situation" in the region.

Big 3 begin nuclear talks

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain began new talks in Geneva Wednesday in an effort to break a 20-year deadlock on a total ban against nuclear tests. Arms control negotiators from the three leading nuclear powers began exploratory consultations on whether there is now sufficient common ground to start drafting such a comprehensive test ban agreement. The preliminary round of talks will probably last about two weeks, Western officials said. "If these exploratory talks are satisfactory we can move ahead within a reasonably short period of time" on full-fledged negotiations, said U. S. delegation leader Paul Warnke.

The nation

Schmidt welcomed at White House

President Carter and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt agreed Wednesday the Soviet Union should become more involved in such multinational activities as economic aid to developing nations, the White House said. Carter gave Schmidt a scale welcome on the White House lawn Wednesday before the first of their two scheduled meetings, assuring him "there are no differences between us." Schmidt said, "Our two nations are joined in a very strong bond of friendship. That friendship has never been closer than today."

Presidential Press Secretary Jody Powell said during Carter's one hour meeting with Schmidt in the Oval Office "there was a mutual agreement that it would be beneficial for the Soviet Union to become more involved in multinational activities . . . particularly in the North-South area." Powell said he could not be more specific about what form the suggested Soviet aid might take.

Bill delaying saccharin bar OKd

A Senate committee Wednesday approved legislation delaying for 18 months government efforts to pull saccharin from the market, but requiring print and broadcast warnings of a possible cancer link. The bill cleared the Senate Human Resources Committee on an 11-3 vote and was referred to the Senate Commerce Committee, which will review the proposed advertising restrictions and report the measure to the floor for action by July 27. The legislation would bar the Food and Drug Administration from executing its plan to ban the sale of all saccharin products effective this fall. That ban was announced after Canadian tests showed saccharin caused cancer in rats.

Panel kills funds for B1 bomber

The Senate Appropriations Committee, agreeing with President Carter's decision not to go ahead with the B1, Tuesday killed funds for production of five of the bombers. During a closed session, the committee, by a 9 to 5 vote, stripped about $1.4 billion from the $111 billion defense appropriations measure earmarked for the B1 before Carter announced his decision. The decision by the committee, although significant, does not preclude backers of the B1 from seeking to restore the money for the aircraft when the bill gets to the Senate floor for action.

Gas-fleeing residents back home

Residents of Rockwood, Tenn. returned to their homes Wednesday while troubleshooters gingerly moved a cracked tanker truck leaking the deadly gas which drove them away Tuesday night. The rig crashed with 1,800 gallons of liquid bromine Tuesday, spilling half the "very lethal" substance down Roosevelt Mountain. The town's 5,200 residents were forced to flee, many leaving with only the clothes they wore. Chemical experts dressed in rubberized suits used a crane to lift the tractor's twisted wreckage onto an open trailer Wednesday. Then they moved the trailer slowly up a steep mountain road to an isolated airport eight miles away. One observer said the tank, a 30-foot cylincer, "was bent like a banana."

138-home plan gets village approval

Plans to construct 138 homes at the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Ill. Rte. 53 were approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The 45-acre site will be developed by Romanek, Golub & Co., Chicago, and be called Arlington Meadows.

Jordan Glazov, senior vice president of Romanek, Golub & Co., said the houses will be sold for prices ranging from $85,000 to $100,000, yet still result in a loss of about $500,000 for the developer.

Glazov said about $2.5 million has been invested in the property and only about $2 million will be recovered through the salt of the homes.

"The question is only how much we will lose. It could potentially be $500,000 with this type of development," Glazov said. "We'd like to lose that amount of money, lick our wounds, and never hear about the property again," he said.

Th original proposal for the site in 1970 was to build 600 apartments. That project, to be called Chelsea Square, was dropped after homeowners in the adjacent Greenbrier subdivision mounted a campaign against it.

Plans for the site were revised in 1973 to call for the construction of 150 condominium units, 170 townhouses and 30 single-family homes. The developers later decided that plan was uneconomical.

"We realize this is not the best use of the property, but single-family is selling faster than they can be constructed, so this way we can have the problem out of our hair more quickly. We're just trying to get out in the most expeditious manner possible," Glazov said.

Condo request sent to plan panel

A request from the developer of the Frenchmen's Cove condominium development south of Dundee Road to modify plans for its next building was sent to the plan commission by the village board.

Joseph Ash, attorney for the developer of Frenchmen's Cove, asked permission to make units in the development's third building larger than those in the two buildings already completed and sold. Ash said the size of the building would be increased by about three feet in length but the number of units would be decreased from 75 to 67.

A motion to approve Ash's request failed when the village board voted 3 to 3. Trustees who voted against the request said they did so because it had not been studied by the plan commission.

Eatery OKd on Palatine Road

Permission to build a restaurant on vacant property northwest of the intersection of Arlington Heights and Palatine roads was granted by the village board to Angelo and John Selis.

The restaurant and cocktail lounge will have a seating capacity of 218.

The Selis brothers now operate the Valois Restaurant, 1518 E. 53rd St., Chicago.

Ryan reelection funds of $8,320 pass VIC aid

James T. Ryan, Arlington Heights Village president, raised $8,320 for his April 5 reelection bid, nearly $3,000 more than the unsuccessful Village Independent Coalition, according to records filed with Stanley Kusper, Cook County clerk.

The final campaign finance reports show that while Ryan raised $8,320, he spent $8,628. The additional funds came from a $456 surplus from his 1975 mayoral campaign. He also received a $200 contribution June 17 from Barbara Craig, one of the former owners of the Arlington Inn Motel, to keep his campaign from going into deficit spending.

The VIC party raised $5,400 for the April 5 election and have until mid-July to file their expenditure report.

THE BULK OF Ryan's itemized contributions came from five auto dealers in the village.

Contributions to the VIC campaign primarily came from the candidates on the slate and major organizers of the party.

Ryan reported spending $2,484 on printing, $1,798 for postage and $2,046 for political consulting fees.

Ryan reported receiving $3,570 in non-itemized contributions, donations of less than $150.

He also reported $213 in sales of tickets and $430 in other contributions, including the use of office space for a campaign headquarters.

The merchant donations included Sullivan Pontiac, $500; Colonial Car Wash, $500; Klehm's Nursery, $250; Cook Buick, $250; Roto Lincoln Mercury, $250; Lattof Chevrolet, $250; Kelly Oldsmobile, $250.

Nicholas Lattof also made a personal $250 contribution to the campaign fund.

Major contributions to the VIC party included $250 each from Douglas Cannon, candidate for village president, and Ralph Clarbour and Charles Swanson, both candidates for village trustee.

Arabian chief praises Carter peace effort

SALTSJOBADEN, Sweden (UPI) — Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said Wednesday President Carter is doing all in his power for a Middle East peace and called for an 18-month freeze on OPEC oil prices as a reward.

Speaking at the end of the semi-annual meeting of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Yamani also warned that oil prices would soar in the 1980s but by that time "the problem will be not the price but availability."

Yamani praised Carter's Middle East policy and said: "He is a man dedicated to peace."

Asked if Carter should be doing anything more in the Middle East he was not already doing, Yamani replied, "Nothing to my knowledge."

Yamani also praised Carter's overall energy proposals as "a step in the right direction," but criticized Congress for not giving the President's energy plan its full support.

Yamani said he would do his best to convince the others of the need for moderation on oil prices.

Arabian chief praises Carter peace effort

SALTSJOBADEN, Sweden (UPI) — Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said Wednesday President Carter is doing all in his power for a Middle East peace and called for an 18-month freeze on OPEC oil prices as a reward.

Speaking at the end of the semi-annual meeting of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Yamani also warned that oil prices would soar in the 1980s but by that time "the problem will be not the price but availability."

Yamani praised Carter's Middle East policy and said: "He is a man dedicated to peace."

Asked if Carter should be doing anything more in the Middle East he was not already doing, Yamani replied, "Nothing to my knowledge."

Yamani also praised Carter's overall energy proposals as "a step in the right direction," but criticized Congress for not giving the President's energy plan its full support.

Yamani said he would do his best to convince the others of the need for moderation on oil prices.

I don't notice any real difference but he has a lovely bedside manner.

THE HERALD editorials

"Our aim: To fear God, tell the truth and make money."
H.C. PADDOCK, 1852 - 1935

Business key to economy

The nation's economic problems have proved to be more persistent than Pres. Jimmy Carter's election campaign rhetoric implied and, though some progress has been made, more is needed.

Figures released by the U.S. Dept. of Labor last week for the month of June contained the usual mix of good and bad news. The wholesale price index dropped 0.6 per cent, the largest drop in four years. At the same time, however, the unemployment rate nationally climbed to 7.1 per cent, although it remains lower than it was at the beginning of the year.

Such zigs and zags in economic performance are probably to be expected as the nation digs its way out of the long period of recession and inflation. However, it is now clear that Carter's administration has not found any magic solutions to economic problems.

One of the things that has held back economic recovery, as pointed out this week by Herald business columnist Louis Rukeyser, is the fact that business investment still has not picked up.

Such investment is slow for several reasons, including the fact that businessmen remain wary of the Democrat in the White House, despite his tendency toward fiscal conservatism.

Another problem that has slowed business investment, Rukeyser pointed out, is the fact that corporate profits have not bounced back as fast as they appear in statistical reports. The reason is misleading accounting procedures that inflate corporate earnings' pictures and the amount of tax companies pay.

One reason for the overstatement is that companies depreciate equipment based on its original cost — not its replacement cost. In inflationary times this results in the appearance that companies are doing better than they actually are.

The accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst has proposed changes in accounting procedures to eliminate the problem. Such changes are worthwhile if, as Rukeyser says, they will create a more favorable situation for business to expand.

The solution to the problem of unemployment must, after all, come from business, not from government. Government jobs programs can and have helped during periods of recession, but those jobs are of necessity stopgap measures.

The future of the nation's economy — and the success of Carter's economic program — is going to hinge on the ability of business to provide needed jobs. The change in accounting procedures for tax depreciation might be one step toward helping business and in the long run all of us toward a stronger economy.

Water rate study a waste

Eight months ago Mount Prospect had a problem:

Its water rate structure did not encourage water conservation and in fact penalized condominium dwellers, who share common meters. Try as those people might to save water, they were charged as large users because of thier shared meters.

Faced with a complex problem requiring much planning, the village did what many governments do: Mount Prospect hired a consultant.

Following eight months of study and deliberation, it's clear the village wasted the $5,000 it paid the consultant. The consultant has failed twice to come up with a solution.

The first time the consultant came to the board in June one village trustee pointed out that the minimum charge for water he proposed actually encouraged more water usage than before. The consultant went back to the drawing board.

On July 5, the revisions were presented to the board. The minimum charge problem was corrected, but no solution was provided for the condominium dwellers. They still would be charged unfairly for their water.

The board once again expressed disappointment with the plan and sent the consultant back to the drawing board for the third time.

It's hard to excuse such apparent ineptness on the part of an "expert" hired to solve a particular problem. In addition to the cost of the study, the village has lost about $12,000 in revenues in each of the last eight months by charging a low flat water rate while waiting for acceptable revisions.

At the rate things are going, perhaps the village trustees, though amateurs, should take the problem out of the expert's hands and try to find a sensible rate structure themselves.

Nabakov: Lolita supported novels of artistic success

Paul Greenberg

If he was not the greatest living writer in the English language, as John Updike and many another excellent judge claimed, or perhaps not a great writer at all, he was surely the most dazzling literary performer in the language and perhaps in one or two others. For Vladimir Nabokov, among his many vocations, was linguist as well as writer. In the end that may have been as great a handicap as an asset, luring him into vast, interconnecting echo chamber of language, each with its own hidden word games and private jokes.

This Russian-born, English-educated German exile and unabashedly American student of French literature was, in addition to being linguist, writer, translator and master of such associated arts, also a chess master and a distinguished lepidopterist with one moth (Nabokov's Pug) and two butterflies named after him. (When he first went to Wellesley to lecture on literature, he also held down a part-time job at Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology.)

ALTOGETHER, VLADIMIR Nabokov was a man of civilized tastes, as admirable in his lapses as his attainments. In a period when it was considered a civic obligation to worry about America, in the midst of Watergate and the ordeal of Vietnam, he was asked by some overly solicitious reporter, "Do you worry about the future of America?" He responded:

"Political squabbles and awkward wars will soon be forgotten. Let us prepare new weapons and whistle softly as we work. Let me write my new novel in peace. This is my work, my duty. America does not need my worrying about her. The jitters I leave to other countries, and the worse they are, the better."

That is vintage Nabokov at its idiosyncratic, peremptory, undreary, astringent best. Among other things he would not do were dance, fish, cook, co-sign declarations, endorse books, eat oysters, go to church, get drunk, go to analysts or take part in demonstrations. He had his own code and would thank the government and everybody else to leave it alone. That is, Vladimir Nabokov was an American, probably long before he became one officially.

HIS MOST FAMOUS book, the one that he came to be almost identified with, was Lolita. She had supported him since 1952. His other books were essentially artistic successes. It should have been expected that Vladimir Nabokov would write the most prurient book of his time without using a single obscenity; it was the kind of word game he enjoyed and often set for himself. It was another of his private jokes that the world was welcome to share if it could. To have preserved in this century of revolutions, world wars and genocidal horror a private world of whimsy and a personal code of honor essentially unchanged from old St. Petersburg was itself a formidable triumph and a contribution to sanity.

For my money the cracking-up, funniest book Vladimir Nabokov ever wrote was Pale Fire, in which the modest, scholarly footnotes rise up inexorably like some lunatic demon, to absorb the entire brittle text. As with his mountainuous chains of puns upon puns, one laughs or groans and then, immediately after promising never to forgive the perpetrator, runs off to retail the story to someone else.

Vladimir Nabokov's was not a stream of consciousness but a network, a canal system, a Venice of consciousness, each lucid rivulet beckoning to another until one is back abruptly at the first, still wanting more.

HIS LITERARY judgments were more satisfying. He spoke of the "not quite first-rate Eliot and definitely second-rate Pound." His list of "formidable mediocrities" sounded like a register of past idols, including Camus, Lorca, Gorky, Faulkner, Balzac, Brecht, Stendhal, Galsworthy, Thoms Wolfe and E. M. Forster. One feels the stirring of defensiveness, perhaps prejudice, at the inclusion of William Faulkner and Garcia Lorca, but his grand immunity to any touch of the sentimental or the theatrical commanded authority.

He had the grace to abhor Joseph Conrad, especially when he was compared to Conrad on the purely coincidental ground that English was a second language to both. He admired John Updike (the admiration was mutual.) And also Herman Melville and of course the encyclopedic and unquenchable Marcel Proust; they had in common an unboundable appetite for the feel of things and even the memory of the feel of things.

But in one respect Vladimir Nabokov was as much a romantic as Thomas Wolfe. He loved, unashamedly and provocatively, America. This Russian aristocrat of rarefied tastes and cool appraisals was not immune to every immigrant boy's endless infatuation with America. He loved the orange colored, plastic coated, air conditioned, anonymous luminescence of things American, and paid his income tax proudly from his Swiss villa. He came by his devotion honestly, having been run out of Russia by the Communists and out of Germany by the Nazis, having lost his father to Fascist thugs and the family valet to Bolshevik ones.

HE WAS NOT UPST when academies tried to read deep meanings into Lolita, but when the jerks claimed the book was anti-American his contempt gave way to temper: "Whether or not the critics think that in Lolita I am ridiculing human folly leaves me supremely indifferent, but I am annoyed when the glad news is spread that I am ridiculing America."

Vladimir Nabokov had as much patience with such critics as he did with the evanescent little worriers about the future of America. Perhaps the one definitive, unqualified statement one could make about this exceptional person would be to describe Gospodin, Herr, M. and Mr. Nabokov with his own dry, quizzical and of course perfect simile. He was as "American as April in Arizona."

'Why's our neighborhood singled out?'

An open letter to the homeowners between Euclid and Kensington and Arlington Heights Road and Regency Drive West:

Stand up and be counted. Is it a lack of knowledge or a lack of concern for the area in which you live that keeps you silent?

On Thursday, our Arlington Heights Dist. 25 school board is considering a junior high school closing. They may choose Miner Junior High. North Elementary School, which was attended by a number of area children, has already been closed by our school board. Two school board members have stated if Roosevelt University wants Windsor Elementary School in addition to Miner, that would be a normal growth. I ask you how a residential area can remain healthy and viable if all of its schools are closed?

Do you want Dist. 25 school board to rent an empty Miner Junior High building in the Fall of 1978 to Roosevelt University knowing we the taxpayers of Arlington Heights will be paying for new traffic lights, police protection, library services, etc., for a private university? The Miner Junior High playing fields would be made into lighted parking lots to accommodate college students. Our children do not need fewer play areas.

Have you heard that our Arlington Heights Park District board is planning to build a $60,000 bandshell which will seat about 1,200 persons at Recreation Park? Naturally, the structure will extend from the west end of the existing fieldhouse to engulf the small playground our children now use. Evidently it is unknown to the board that nowhere near that number of people attend the concerts presented at Recreation Park.

Does the park board intend to make this entire area into a parking lot for the cars which would be driven by the "1,200?" persons to the concerts?

Our director of parks and recreation, Thomas Thornton, stated at the last park board meeting, "This area is going down anyway, it's a changing neighborhood." (So who cares if we construct a bandshell at Recreation, the site judged among the least desirable in a feasibility study.)

Yes, Mr. Thornton, our area is changing. We see changes as our neighbors install aluminum siding and paint their homes. Remodeling and room additions are considered home improvements. Neatly kept lawns and attractive plantings are an asset to a neighborhood. Our area is looking better everyday. I would hardly call that a step down.

The Park District board has given the Mascoutin Society of Chicagoland its permission to hold a three-day (Aug. 26, 27, 28) "Powwow" for at least 500 people (says a Mascoutin organizer), using Recreation Park's "camping and dancing facilities complete with water, latrines and a swimming pool on the grounds."

Did you know Recreation Park has camping facilities? Where will these campers park their cars for three days? Were you planning to use our park on this last weekend before our children go back to school?

I ask the village board, the planning commission, the park district board and the Dist. 25 school board, why our area has been singled out for all this harassment? Perhaps these boards feel we are of no value to the Village of Arlington Heights. I would disagree.

Do you care about what is happening to the area in which you live? If you are concerned, now is the time to speak to our various village boards.

'Aldermen—follow problems' trail'

It's a well-known fact that it takes two to make an argument, complaint or fight. Problems in the police department could be caused by employer, employe or city fathers.

When you put Chief Case on the stand use his record against him and not whether or not he is a friend of the mayor. Also note that some of his men are the ones spreading around words behind blank names.

And as some of the city employes have joined a union or wish to, I'd say it was a strong hint of a problem with city fathers. City employes are employed for all areas other than politics. The world of politics is that of the aldermen. If the problem is such that a representative is needed to give the employe freedom to do his job, the union is needed.

As we are cleaning closets, I'd say Alderman Ahren's stage act needs to be shortened and cleaned up. I agree, he is no prude.

Alderman take out your ear plugs, put on your glasses, mount your horses and follow the trail of problems to the answers and peace within the city; safety for the cows from the rustlers.

'Why build when water's short'

Last week lawn sprinkling in Wheeling was restricted to limited periods during two days a week. After our water problems last summer this was not a surprise.

In the June 10 issue of The Herald an article appeared stating a Mr. August Stavros received a zoning variation that will allow him to build 300 new homes in Wheeling.

Wednesday evening, June 29, one of the two days we were allowed to sprinkle, a fire engine was touring the streets of our area telling residents to turn off sprinklers "immediately" because of low water.

I would like to know why the members of the village board, people who are supposed to be working for the welfare of Wheeling residents, have allowed new building in recent years to surpass existing water supplies. I would also like to know why the members of the village board would even consider allowing Mr. Stavros to build 300 new homes, adding at least 600 more people to the population of Wheeling, when there obviously isn't even enough water to properly supply those who now live here.

In my opinion, as a 10 year resident and taxpayer of Wheeling, if the members of the village board were doing the job they are supposed to do, the job the people who voted for them expected them to do, they would have put a stop to multiple family dwellings long ago.

Business key to economy

The nation's economic problems have proved to be more persistent than Pres. Jimmy Carter's election campaign rhetoric implied and, though some progress has been made, more is needed.

Figures released by the U.S. Dept. of Labor last week for the month of June contained the usual mix of good and bad news. The wholesale price index dropped 0.6 per cent, the largest drop in four years. At the same time, however, the unemployment rate nationally climbed to 7.1 per cent, although it remains lower than it was at the beginning of the year.

Such zigs and zags in economic performance are probably to be expected as the nation digs its way out of the long period of recession and inflation. However, it is now clear that Carter's administration has not found any magic solutions to economic problems.

One of the things that has held back economic recovery, as pointed out this week by Herald business columnist Louis Rukeyser, is the fact that business investment still has not picked up.

Such investment is slow for several reasons, including the fact that businessmen remain wary of the Democrat in the White House, despite his tendency toward fiscal conservatism.

Another problem that has slowed business investment, Rukeyser pointed out, is the fact that corporate profits have not bounced back as fast as they appear in statistical reports. The reason is misleading accounting procedures that inflate corporate earnings' pictures and the amount of tax companies pay.

One reason for the overstatement is that companies depreciate equipment based on its original cost — not its replacement cost. In inflationary times this results in the appearance that companies are doing better than they actually are.

The accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst has proposed changes in accounting procedures to eliminate the problem. Such changes are worthwhile if, as Rukeyser says, they will create a more favorable situation for business to expand.

The solution to the problem of unemployment must, after all, come from business, not from government. Government jobs programs can and have helped during periods of recession, but those jobs are of necessity stopgap measures.

The future of the nation's economy — and the success of Carter's economic program — is going to hinge on the ability of business to provide needed jobs. The change in accounting procedures for tax depreciation might be one step toward helping business and in the long run all of us toward a stronger economy.

Water rate study a waste

Eight months ago Mount Prospect had a problem:

Its water rate structure did not encourage water conservation and in fact penalized condominium dwellers, who share common meters. Try as those people might to save water, they were charged as large users because of thier shared meters.

Faced with a complex problem requiring much planning, the village did what many governments do: Mount Prospect hired a consultant.

Following eight months of study and deliberation, it's clear the village wasted the $5,000 it paid the consultant. The consultant has failed twice to come up with a solution.

The first time the consultant came to the board in June one village trustee pointed out that the minimum charge for water he proposed actually encouraged more water usage than before. The consultant went back to the drawing board.

Carter decision on bomber showed political courage

by JOSEPH C. HARSCH

The most interesting thing to me about President Carter's decision on the B1 bomber is that it came as a surprise to the majority of the members of the Washington press and diplomatic corps. Indeed, I have not discovered a single member of either community of Washington watchers who claims to have expected President Carter to stand up against the domestic political pressures which were aimed at that decision.

Journalists and diplomats alike simply assumed that when a major corporation backed by several of the big trade unions wants a contract which they claim would provide direct work for some 70,000 persons and involving two major cities — Los Angeles and Cincinnati — and secondary work for an estimated 120,000 more — in 48 of the 50 states in the American union — no president would dare to say no.

President Carter said no.

THIS PROVES two things.

It proves that Carter has more political courage than has been realized among those people whose job it is to watch the White House and be able to anticipate more or less what a president will or won't do.

It also proves that most of these same watchers have been conditioned for a long time to think that the White House will usually and normally give in to a combination of big corporation and big labor pressures, particularly when the contract involved is for building dams or weapons. Both have long since become "sacred cows" for the logrollers of Capitol Hill.

Perhaps the watchers should have been forewarned by the original Carter stand against the usual appropriations for building more dams across more rivers — for questionable return to the general American community from the investment.

IF A PRESIDENT can refuse to build an unneeded dam why should he not also dare to say no to a weapon which is probably obsolescent and may indeed already be obsolete in this age of unmanned missiles? Anyone who reasoned that way would have expected Carter to do what he did do. But few if any did reason that way, so few if any anticipated the B1 turndown.

There have been presidents in the past who would have said no to a make-work project as expensive and technically controversial as the B1. President Eisenhower certainly would have been one of them. But since his time Washington's reporters and diplomats have been conditioned to expect what Carter did not do.

The Soviets are among those who were surprised. And they give every evidence of being bitterly disappointed, because the alternative to the B1 is to be the cruise missile, and the cruise missile is something they have not mastered, do not understand, and cannot calculate. Also, it is so much cheaper (by 20 to 1) than the B1 that they must now face the prospect of many hundreds of American cruise missiles aimed at them unless they are willing to trade off something valuable against it. The B1 was a conventional weapon, well understood by all air forces around the world, and so of lesser value as a bargaining chip.

OF COURSE the politics of the decision were not all one-sided. Rockwell International shares dropped four points on the stock exchanges after the decision was announced. But Boeing and General Dynamics shares went up. Both companies are working on cruise missiles and hence have improved prospects from the decision.

There is a political angle involved here. Boeing's main plants are in Seattle. Seattle is in the State of Washington. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson represents Washington in the Senate. Senator Jackson was made unhappy by the cancellation of the SST which was to have been built by Boeing. That was in 1971. Boeing and hence Senator Jackson will benefit from the substitution of the cruise missiles which they will presumably be building in place of the B1s which would have come from Los Angeles.

Relations between the White House and the Jackson office should improve.

Also, if there is a net employment loss from the shift from B1 to cruise missiles there will also be a big money saving which could be used in other ways to take up some of the slack. The B1 was probably the most expensive make-work project ever conceived. More jobs could be provided for less money by other kinds of work.

But the fact remains that it would have been politically easier for Carter to go ahead with the B1 than to say no to it. He did the harder thing. He is proving to be a toughminded and determined President.

Carter decision on bomber showed political courage

by JOSEPH C. HARSCH

The most interesting thing to me about President Carter's decision on the B1 bomber is that it came as a surprise to the majority of the members of the Washington press and diplomatic corps. Indeed, I have not discovered a single member of either community of Washington watchers who claims to have expected President Carter to stand up against the domestic political pressures which were aimed at that decision.

Journalists and diplomats alike simply assumed that when a major corporation backed by several of the big trade unions wants a contract which they claim would provide direct work for some 70,000 persons and involving two major cities — Los Angeles and Cincinnati — and secondary work for an estimated 120,000 more — in 48 of the 50 states in the American union — no president would dare to say no.

President Carter said no.

THIS PROVES two things.

It proves that Carter has more political courage than has been realized among those people whose job it is to watch the White House and be able to anticipate more or less what a president will or won't do.

It also proves that most of these same watchers have been conditioned for a long time to think that the White House will usually and normally give in to a combination of big corporation and big labor pressures, particularly when the contract involved is for building dams or weapons. Both have long since become "sacred cows" for the logrollers of Capitol Hill.

Perhaps the watchers should have been forewarned by the original Carter stand against the usual appropriations for building more dams across more rivers — for questionable return to the general American community from the investment.

IF A PRESIDENT can refuse to build an unneeded dam why should he not also dare to say no to a weapon which is probably obsolescent and may indeed already be obsolete in this age of unmanned missiles? Anyone who reasoned that way would have expected Carter to do what he did do. But few if any did reason that way, so few if any anticipated the B1 turndown.

There have been presidents in the past who would have said no to a make-work project as expensive and technically controversial as the B1. President Eisenhower certainly would have been one of them. But since his time Washington's reporters and diplomats have been conditioned to expect what Carter did not do.

The Soviets are among those who were surprised. And they give every evidence of being bitterly disappointed, because the alternative to the B1 is to be the cruise missile, and the cruise missile is something they have not mastered, do not understand, and cannot calculate. Also, it is so much cheaper (by 20 to 1) than the B1 that they must now face the prospect of many hundreds of American cruise missiles aimed at them unless they are willing to trade off something valuable against it. The B1 was a conventional weapon, well understood by all air forces around the world, and so of lesser value as a bargaining chip.

OF COURSE the politics of the decision were not all one-sided. Rockwell International shares dropped four points on the stock exchanges after the decision was announced. But Boeing and General Dynamics shares went up. Both companies are working on cruise missiles and hence have improved prospects from the decision.

There is a political angle involved here. Boeing's main plants are in Seattle. Seattle is in the State of Washington. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson represents Washington in the Senate. Senator Jackson was made unhappy by the cancellation of the SST which was to have been built by Boeing. That was in 1971. Boeing and hence Senator Jackson will benefit from the substitution of the cruise missiles which they will presumably be building in place of the B1s which would have come from Los Angeles. Relations between the White House and the Jackson office should improve.

Also, if there is a net employment loss from the shift from B1 to cruise missiles there will also be a big money saving which could be used in other ways to take up some of the slack. The B1 was probably the most expensive make-work project ever conceived. More jobs could be provided for less money by other kinds of work.

But the fact remains that it would have been politically easier for Carter to go ahead with the B1 than to say no to it. He did the harder thing. He is proving to be a toughminded and determined President.

Four Cubs on NL team

Sparky Anderson, leaving himself open to second guessing, named two relief pitchers — Cub Bruce Sutter and San Francisco's Gary Lavelle — among his staff of eight hurlers for the National League All-Star squad announced Wednesday.

Anderson, the Cincinnati manager who will be handling his third straight All-Star team next Tuesday in the mid-summer classic at Yankee Stadium, selected three veteran All-Stars to the team — the Reds' Tom Seaver (9-5), Los Angeles' Don Sutton (10-3) and Philadelphia's Steve Carlton (11-4).

In addition to Sutter and Lavelle, three other newcomers to the All-Star game were chosen — Houston's Joaquin Andujar (9-5), Pittsburgh's John Candelaria (8-3) and Chicago's Rick Reuschel (12-3).

REUSCHEL AND Sutter, the best pitchers on the Cubs' beleaguered mound staff, will join fellow teammates Manny Trillo and Jerry Morales on the All-Star squad. Second baseman Trillo and centerfielder Morales will reportedly be named to the team by Anderson, although neither received enough votes from the fans to qualify for the starting lineup.

Notable among those left off the team were Los Angeles' Doug Rau (10-1) and Rick Rhoden (10-5) and St. Louis' Bob Forsch (11-4).

Anderson's choices of the right-handed Sutter and the left-handed Lavelle may arouse some criticism from baseball purists who prefer only starting pitchers in the All-Star game but in an era of specialization, the two relievers are among the best in the league.

Sutter has only a 5-1 won-loss record, but he boasts a league-leading 23 saves and 1.05 ERA. Lavelle has a more modest 6-4 won-loss record with 11 saves, but his sparkling 1.41 ERA is second only to Sutter among NL pitchers.

ANDERSON HAS NOT yet named his starter for the game, though he may go with his own man, Seaver. Seaver's regular turn in the rotation would have fallen on Tuesday while Carlton and Reuschel may start for their teams this weekend. Anderson's other possible starter could be Sutton, who may pitch Friday and have three days' rest before the game.

The American League pitchers will be announced Thursday.

Power blackout shuts off Cubs

NEW YORK — Here in the city where every two-bit actor dreams of seeing his name in lights, the Great White Way of Broadway was dark Wednesday night.

The lights of Gotham were snuffed out by a power failure that was variously described as "massive," "gigantic," "tragic," and "apocalyptic."

Not as widespread, apparently, as the legendary 1965 East Coast blackout, Wednesday's power failure was sufficient to interrupt in mid-inning the Cubs' baseball game against the Mets at Shea Stadium.

THE CUBS, on the strength of a two-run homer by Steve Ontiveros, held a 2-1 lead over the Mets with the New Yorkers at bat against Ray Burris in the bottom of the sixth. Burris had allowed just two hits — one of them a solo home run by Mike Vail — when the lights went out.

Approximately an hour and a half after the blackout shut down elevators, microwave ovens and ballparks across a five-borough area, the Mets-Cubs game was officially suspended. The contest will be continued from the point of suspension today at 12:45 immediately before the regularly-scheduled game, assuming the source of the problem has been located and New York is back on an even keel. Don't hold your breath.

All the power at Shea Stadium was supplied by Ontiveros and Vail. The Cub third baseman connected with one of Jerry Koosman's roundhouse curves in the second inning with Jerry Morales on base with a walk. The blast sailed over the fence in left field.

Vail, the Mets' pure hitter, slammed a Burris fastball into the darkness in right field with one out and nobody on in the fifth. It was an opposite-field homer for Vail.

EXCEPT FOR THE home run by Ontiveros and three harmless Cub singles, Met starter Koosman (6-10) pitched as if the lights had never gone on. The New York lefty struck out 11 in six innings, including nine between the second and the fifth. He fanned the side twice.

Burris, meanwhile, began the action with a 9-8 record but no wins since a June 26 victory over the same Mets. He looked sharp in setting down the first 11 Mets in order before Steve Henderson dribbled an infield hit off the plate with two outs in the fourth. Burris escaped that minor jam by getting cleanup hitter Bruce Boisclair to line out to Morales in center.

When the lights went out in the sixth, Burris had just retired Koosman on a grounder to Trillo. Leadoff man Lenny Randle — the man who put out Frank Lucchesi's lights in an infamous spring training incident — was at bat when the game had to be halted.

Fans in Shea Stadium, out on Long Island, sat patiently waiting for the power to return while, across the river in Manhattan, more than a million New Yorkers huddled in stalled elevators and darkened subway tunnels.

WHEN THE PROBLEM became more acute, the umpires decideed to suspend the game, sending everyone out to fend for themselves in the especially dark night.

The Cubs, who were forced to cancel their late-evening plans in the Big Apple, ended up groping in the dark, feeling along the edges of buildings for their hotel.

Sox split with Blue Jays

by BOB GALLAS

Oscar Gamble smiled as he looked at his taped-up right wrist, injured when he tried to check a swing Tuesday night.

"Maybe I swing too hard," he said as his smile grew broader.

It was Gamble who provided the excitement in the White Sox 6-3 win in the first game of a doubleheader with Toronto at Comiskey Park Wednesday night. The slim lefthander went 4-for-4 and powered two solo home runs into the right field upper deck despite a 15 mile-an-hour headwind.

The Sox lost the second game 5-3 in 11 innings on a two-run homer by Doug Rader.

Gamble's homers came in the sixth and eighth innings and gave reliever Bart Johnson some breathing rom to preserve the win for starter Chris Knapp. But they also marked a milestone for Gamble, who came to the Sox in spring training in the trade that sent Bucky Dent to New York.

The homers, Nos. 17 and 18 with the season just half over, surpassed the 17 home runs he hit all last season as the Yankees' regular right fielder. And Gamble is closing fast on his all time season homer production record of 20, which he set when he was with Cleveland.

Gamble's first homer Wednesday sailed five rows into the upper deck, and he admitted afterwards that it was one of the hardest balls he's hit all year.

"MOST ANY OTHER night, without the wind, it's on the roof," he said. "I can't say it's the hardest I've ever hit — I've hit so many." The smile again grew wide.

Gamble patrolled right field in the first game as Richie Zisk returned to the lineup as a designated hitter. Gamble says he's comfortable either in the field as the DH. "It (DHing) helps you stay strong. You might get a few more infield hits later in the year because your legs are strong enough to leg them out."

The Sox struck early in the first game, scoring four runs in the very first inning off righthander Bill Singer, now 2-8, making his first appearance in 42 days due to shoulder trouble. Singer hurt his back pitching to the third Sox hitter, Jorge Orta, who tripled in the first run, and had to leave the game after three innings.

Former Cub Chuck "Twiggy" Hartenstein came on in relief and gave up two runs over six innings, the two Gamble homers.

KNAPP BARELY managed to get through the first five innings of game one but that was enough to pick up his eighth win of the season against four losses. Johnson earned the save with four shutout innings from the bullpen and reached a milestone himself, picking up his 500th career strikeout in the process.

"I didn't have my control," said Kanpp who walked four in five innings and was in and out of trouble, especially in the fifth when he gave up all three Toronto runs.

"I was hoping to get stronger as I went along but that fifth inning took too much out of me," said Knapp, who retired with one out and a man on second in the sixth.

Looking for the sweep of the twinbill against the lowly Blue Jays, who are last in the American League East, the Sox started righthander Jack Kucek in the second game and Kucek fell behind at the onset.

TORONTO PUT UP three runs on three hits in the first inning against Kucek, who was making his second start since being recalled from Iowa. Kucek settled down after a shakey start, retiring the side in order in the second inning and facing the minimum in the third when he picked off a runner at first.

The Sox seemed destined to come back against Blue Jays starter Dave Lemanczyk and got one run back in the second inning when Gamble was hit by a pitch, went to third on a single by designated hitter Lamar Johnson and scored on a sacrifice fly to deep right-center by Jack Brohamer, who filled in at third for Eric Solderholm in the second game.

The Sox tied the game 3-3 in the third with a rally that started with an error by third baseman Doug Rader and ended up producing a pair of unearned runs.

Garr reached on Rader's miscue, advanced on a single by Alan Bannister then scored on Jorge Orta's single, which sent Bannister to third. Oscar Gamble struck out and Bannister was cut down trying to score on a ground ball, but Orta came home on a single by Jim Spencer that tied the score.

Kucek pitched his way out of trouble in the fourth by cutting down a runner trying to go to third on an infield grounder, then throwing a double play ball to end the inning. He retired 11 in a row before Hector Torres doubled with two out in the seventh.

The Sox got a runner to third on a single, walk and sacrifice fly in the seventh but could not score.

The Sox gambled and lost in the bottom of the ninth when Ralph Garr legged a one-out single into a double and went to third on the errant throw from right. Alan Bannister followed with a pop fly to short center and Garr was cut down trying to score on a perfect throw from center fielder Bob Bailor as the game went into extra innings.

SOX SHORTS: Ken Kravec (5-2) is manager Bob Lemon's choice to pitch the final game of the Toronto series this afternoon against lefthander Ted Garvin (7-8) . . . Baseball has never been more popular in the Windy City.

With both the Cubs and White Sox in first place as the All-Star break nears, both Chicago clubs are moving toward a record year at the box office and may draw a combined 3 million fans before the season is over.

The following of both teams has been erratic down through the years although each has averaged one million customers per year for the past 25 years. The all-time Chicago combined attendance record, 2,668,232, was set in 1973, when both teams similarly raced out to fast starts and were both in first place during June.

BARRING TOTAL collapse, the all-time attendance mark is definitely going to fall. During the record year of 1973 both teams slumped badly and both fell to fifth place by the finish. If one or both clubs are in the race come September, the city baseball turnstyle count could go even higher than expected.

The Cubs' attendance record is 1,674,993, set in 1969 when the team collapsed in September and ended up finishing second to the miracle Mets.

The White Sox mark was set in 1960 when Bill Veeck owned the team which had won the 1959 American League pennant. A total of 1,644,460 fans paid their way in to see the Sox that year.

Right now the Cubs have drawn 726,859 after 40 home dates, an average of 18,600 per contest. Projected out for the rest of the 37 remaining Cub home dates, the team will draw 1,415,000. But that 18,600 average is deceiving.

MANY OF THE early Cub games were played to near empty houses in terrible weather. The team is now playing to houses much larger than 18,000 but it will take the average a while to catch up.

During the recent 4-day series with the Cardinals at Wrigley Field, the Cubs drew 128,414, the highest series crowd since 1971. That's an average of 32,000 per game.

The White Sox crowds have been steadier. Going into Wednesday night's doubleheader with Toronto, the Sox have drawn 720,374 for 36 dates, an average of 20,010. Projected out for the rest of the season, the club would draw 1,480,000, again a number that could go lower or higher, depending on the team's standing come September.

THE FUTURE looks bright for both clubs. The Cubs' series later in the season with the Dodgers is already a sellout, through 20,000 seats won't go on sale until the days of the games. The Sox are expecting to add another 100,000 to their turnstyle count over the weekend when the Boston Red Sox come in for a three-game series.

You just can't beat fun at the old ballpark, especially this year in Chicago.

Claimers in spotlight today

Handsome Charger, a six-year-old gray son of Native Charger, heads a field of eight in today's feature offering at Arlington, a mile and one eighth jaunt on the grass for three-year-olds and up. Claimers in the $30,000 to $35,000 range will contest the issue.

Handsome Charger scored a one-length victory here June 14 at a mile and one-sixteenth on the sod as he turned back allowance company. His next start found him a fast-closing second behind stakes winning That's A Nice. Handsome Charger's most recent appearance was in the July 4 Stars and Stripes Handicap where he apparently was just outclassed, but he's back with his own kind today.

Hal Wallis, a stretch-running Chilean-bred, gets better with each outing and bears watching today. Trainer John Weipert has sedured the services of Miguel Rivera to handle the five-year-old.

Sarco recorded his first win of the campaign with a two and one-half length trimph on Independence Day but could find it tough to repeat as might Sensitive Stewjan, a winner here for a $20,000 tag on June 13.

Rooter, a big winner here a year ago, drops into the claiming ranks. In his last trip postward, the seven-year-old closed well to grab third money behind Archie Beamish and Native Praise.

Beau Bronze came home a winner on the turf here June 16 for his lone victory in 11 starts in 1977. Crebillon and Bold Persuasion round out the field.

Sting defeats St. Louis, 2-1

ST. LOUIS — The Chicago Sting battled the oppressive heat and overcame a one-goal deficit at halftime to vanquish the North Division-leading St. Louis Stars, 2-1, Wednesday night.

Sting forward Gene Geimer knocked in a pair of second-half goals, giving him four for the season, and goaltender Merwyn Cawston contributed a handful (and headful) of key saves in the stretch as the Sting kept alive their faint hopes for a NASL playoff berth.

Both of Geimer's goals were assisted by Billy Jennings. The winning score came with 25:30 left to play.

The victory puts the Sting's record at 8-13 while the loss dropped St. Louis' mark to 10-11. Both teams are in the Atlantic Conference's North Division, the weakest in the league.

CRICKET CLUB is the first around the corner in the opening race at Arlington Park Wednesday. The betting favorite held on to win, returning $4 to his supporters among the 14,626 on hand.

Power is happy with AL career

PHILADELPHIA — A player like Vic Power in his heyday could demand a pretty decent buck on the free agent market today, but the former American League star looks back and says he was lucky.

That's the same Vic Power who spent much of the early 1950's ducking bean balls from minor league pitchers who didn't like the idea of a black Puerto Rican battling his way to the majors.

That's the same Vic Power, a trim 6-foot, 185-pounds in his playing days, who bounced around to six different franchises during his excellent, 12-year career that came to an end after the 1965 season.

YOU PROBABLY SAW him on a baseball card. Now he's handing out his business card which identifies him as an employe of the Puerto Rican government's recreation department.

"I thought I was very lucky to play major league ball," said Power, now a portly 45. "I feel anybody who gets to play major league ball for even one or two years is very lucky. I was never worried about salary."

Power negotiated his salary with the likes of former Cleveland Indians General Manager "Trader" Frank Lane and the New York Yankees' Gabe Paul long before the era of the free agent. In those days, the reserve clause was merely a fact of baseball life. A player belonged to a team and that was it.

"I would just say to Frank and Gabe: 'Pay me what you think I'm worth, you know better than me,' " Power said during a recent visit to Philadelphia, where he started his major league career. "Maybe I was robbed, I don't know. But I thought I was treated very fairly."

WHEN THE ARECIBO, Puerto Rico, native was signed by the Yankees' organization, he was touted as the man who had the potential to be the first black player to wear Yankee pinstripes.

"They treated me fair," Power said. "But they kept me in the minors even though I was hitting like .340.

"Some of the pitchers in the minors were bean-balling. They were looking for me. Believe me, when I got to the majors, it was no problem. My reflexes were very good."

Power finally made it to the big leagues in 1954, but not with the Yankees.

"A LOT OF TEAMS were interested in me and pressuring them to trade me," he said. "And finally the (Philadelphia) A's got me."

It turned out that Power would play for the A's in both Philadelphia and Kansas City, the Cleveland Indians, Minnesota Twins, the Angels when their home was Los Angeles, Philadelphia Phillies and back to the California Angels. But never for the Yankees.

Power had a decent rookie season, hitting .266 while playing outfield, first base, and even a little bit of shortstop and third base.

Remember the so-called "sophomore jinx?" Power bucked the trend and really found himself in 1955, the year the Philadelphia American League franchise moved to Kansas City, emerging as one of the league's best first baseman. He clubbed 19 homers and hit .319.

the Indians in the middle of the 1958 season and found a home in Cleveland.

"Cleveland was my favorite team," he said. "We had guys like Billy Martin, (current Pittsburgh Pirates manager Chuck) Tanner, and (Rocky) Colavito and Lou Boudreau was my favorite manager.

"What I liked about Boudreau was that he was a student of the game," he said. The Ted Williams shift was his idea.

"Lou was firm," said Power. "Ball--players today are tough to handle.

"I THOUGHT IT would be tough on (fired Cleveland Indians manager Frank) Robinson. I don't think we're ready for a black manager or a Latin American. You have to start way down in the system and work your way up through the organization."

Power has been out of major league baseball for 12 years and he now works with young baseball talent. Among his prodigies are Willie Montanez and Jerry Morales.

But he says he still misses the big leagues.

"The thing I miss most about playing is the states, I really miss the states," said Power. "But I thought I had played enough. The young guys were coming along. I thought it was time for me to get out."

He had ducked enough bean balls to know when to get out of the way.

Speilmann qualifies for Western Jr.

Scott Speilmann of Mount Prospect qualified for the Western Junior Golf Tournament by shooting a 76-70-146 Wednesday at Purdue University's North and South course.

Gary Hallberg automatically had a spot in the tourney as last year's champion. The field of 354 that started play this week was cut to 32.

Fred Couples of Seattle, Wash., was the medalist Wednesday with a 70-68-138. Cutoff was 147.

Hallberg and Spielmann begin match play today.

Phils beat Cards

Major league baseball

From Herald Wire Services

The Philadelphia Phillies continued to haunt the St. Louis Cardinals as Steve Carlton pitched the second-place Phils to a 5-2 victory Wednesday night. Tom Underwood was the loser for the Cards.

John Candelaria pitched a six-hitter in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. Candelaria, 9-13, was helped by five Pirate runs in the seventh inning as Steve Rogers suffered his eighth loss against nine wins.

IN OTHER NATIONAL League play, the Atlanta Braves edged the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 with Buzz Capra getting the win against Jack Billingham.

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Yankees and Catfish Hunter 9-8. Jim Slaton got the victory. That loss helped both the Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox, who won their games.

The Orioles nudged the Texas Rangers, 4-3, with Jim Palmer getting the win against Dock Ellis. The Red Sox scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 9-7. Boston collected 14 hits to get a win for Bill Campbell. Bill Lee picked up a save.

At Kansas City, the Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 6-4. Four runs in the sixth provided the victory margin for the Royals and Doug Bird, now 5-1. Fernando Arroyo, 5-8, suffered the loss.

Claimers in spotlight today

Handsome Charger, a six-year-old gray son of Native Charger, heads a field of eight in today's feature offering at Arlington, a mile and one eighth jaunt on the grass for three-year-olds and up. Claimers in the $30,000 to $35,000 range will contest the issue.

Handsome Charger scored a one-length victory here June 14 at a mile and one-sixteenth on the sod as he turned back allowance company. His next start found him a fast-closing second behind stakes winning That's A Nice. Handsome Charger's most recent appearance was in the July 4 Stars and Stripes Handicap where he apparently was just outclassed, but he's back with his own kind today.

Hal Wallis, a stretch-running Chilean-bred, gets better with each outing and bears watching today. Trainer John Weipert has sedured the services of Miguel Rivera to handle the five-year-old.

Sarco recorded his first win of the campaign with a two and one-half length trimph on Independence Day but could find it tough to repeat as might Sensitive Stewjan, a winner here for a $20,000 tag on June 13.

Rooter, a big winner here a year ago, drops into the claiming ranks. In his last trip postward, the seven-year-old closed well to grab third money behind Archie Beamish and Native Praise.

Beau Bronze came home a winner on the turf here June 16 for his lone victory in 11 starts in 1977. Crebillon and Bold Persuasion round out the field.

Sting defeats St. Louis, 2-1

ST. LOUIS — The Chicago Sting battled the oppressive heat and overcame a one-goal deficit at halftime to vanquish the North Division-leading St. Louis Stars, 2-1, Wednesday night.

Sting forward Gene Geimer knocked in a pair of second-half goals, giving him four for the season, and goaltender Merwyn Cawston contributed a handful (and headful) of key saves in the stretch as the Sting kept alive their faint hopes for a NASL playoff berth.

Both of Geimer's goals were assisted by Billy Jennings. The winning score came with 25:30 left to play.

The victory puts the Sting's record at 8-13 while the loss dropped St. Louis' mark to 10-11. Both teams are in the Atlantic Conference's North Division, the weakest in the league.

CRICKET CLUB is the first around the corner in the opening race at Arlington Park Wednesday. The betting favorite held on to win, returning $4 to his supporters among the 14,626 on hand.

Power is happy with AL career

PHILADELPHIA — A player like Vic Power in his heyday could demand a pretty decent buck on the free agent market today, but the former American League star looks back and says he was lucky.

That's the same Vic Power who spent much of the early 1950's ducking bean balls from minor league pitchers who didn't like the idea of a black Puerto Rican battling his way to the majors.

That's the same Vic Power, a trim 6-foot, 185-pounds in his playing days, who bounced around to six different franchises during his excellent, 12-year career that came to an end after the 1965 season.

YOU PROBABLY SAW him on a baseball card. Now he's handing out his business card which identifies him as an employe of the Puerto Rican government's recreation department.

"I thought I was very lucky to play major league ball," said Power, now a portly 45. "I feel anybody who gets to play major league ball for even one or two years is very lucky. I was never worried about salary."

Power negotiated his salary with the likes of former Cleveland Indians General Manager "Trader" Frank Lane and the New York Yankees' Gabe Paul long before the era of the free agent. In those days, the reserve clause was merely a fact of baseball life. A player belonged to a team and that was it.

"I would just say to Frank and Gabe: 'Pay me what you think I'm worth, you know better than me,' " Power said during a recent visit to Philadelphia, where he started his major league career. "Maybe I was robbed, I don't know. But I thought I was treated very fairly."

WHEN THE ARECIBO, Puerto Rico, native was signed by the Yankees' organization, he was touted as the man who had the potential to be the first black player to wear Yankee pinstripes.

"They treated me fair," Power said. "But they kept me in the minors even though I was hitting like .340.

"Some of the pitchers in the minors were bean-balling. They were looking for me. Believe me, when I got to the majors, it was no problem. My reflexes were very good."

Power finally made it to the big leagues in 1954, but not with the Yankees.

"A LOT OF TEAMS were interested in me and pressuring them to trade me," he said. "And finally the (Philadelphia) A's got me."

It turned out that Power would play for the A's in both Philadelphia and Kansas City, the Cleveland Indians, Minnesota Twins, the Angels when their home was Los Angeles, Philadelphia Phillies and back to the California Angels. But never for the Yankees.

Power had a decent rookie season, hitting .266 while playing outfield, first base, and even a little bit of shortstop and third base.

Remember the so-called "sophomore jinx?" Power bucked the trend and really found himself in 1955, the year the Philadelphia American League franchise moved to Kansas City, emerging as one of the league's best first baseman. He clubbed 19 homers and hit .319.

the Indians in the middle of the 1958 season and found a home in Cleveland.

"Cleveland was my favorite team," he said. "We had guys like Billy Martin, (current Pittsburgh Pirates manager Chuck) Tanner, and (Rocky) Colavito and Lou Boudreau was my favorite manager.

"What I liked about Boudreau was that he was a student of the game," he said. The Ted Williams shift was his idea.

"Lou was firm," said Power. "Ball-players today are tough to handle.

"I THOUGHT IT would be tough on (fired Cleveland Indians manager Frank) Robinson. I don't think we're ready for a black manager or a Latin American. You have to start way down in the system and work your way up through the organization."

Power has been out of major league baseball for 12 years and he now works with young baseball talent. Among his prodigies are Willie Montanez and Jerry Morales.

But he says he still misses the big leagues.

"The thing I miss most about playing is the states, I really miss the states," said Power. "But I thought I had played enough. The young guys were coming along. I thought it was time for me to get out."

He had ducked enough bean balls to know when to get out of the way.

Speilmann qualifies for Western Jr.

Scott Speilmann of Mount Prospect qualified for the Western Junior Golf Tournament by shooting a 76-70-146 Wednesday at Purdue University's North and South course.

Gary Hallberg automatically had a spot in the tourney as last year's champion. The field of 354 that started play this week was cut to 32.

Fred Couples of Seattle, Wash., was the medalist Wednesday with a 70-68-138. Cutoff was 147.

Hallberg and Spielmann begin match play today.

Phils beat Cards

From Herald Wire Services

Major league baseball

The Philadelphia Phillies continued to haunt the St. Louis Cardinals as Steve Carlton pitched the second-place Phils to a 5-2 victory Wednesday night. Tom Underwood was the loser for the Cards.

John Candelaria pitched a six-hitter in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. Candelaria, 9-13, was helped by five Pirate runs in the seventh inning as Steve Rogers suffered his eighth loss against nine wins.

IN OTHER NATIONAL League play, the Atlanta Braves edged the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 with Buzz Capra getting the win against Jack Billingham.

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Yankees and Catfish Hunter 9-8. Jim Slaton got the victory. That loss helped both the Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox, who won their games.

The Orioles nudged the Texas Rangers, 4-3, with Jim Palmer getting the win against Dock Ellis. The Red Sox scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 9-7. Boston collected 14 hits to get a win for Bill Campbell. Bill Lee picked up a save.

At Kansas City, the Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 6-4. Four runs in the sixth provided the victory margin for the Royals and Doug Bird, now 5-1. Fernando Arroyo, 5-8, suffered the loss.

Lakers add strength with Jamaal Wilkes

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — The Los Angeles Lakers, who surprised everyone last season by sweeping to the NBA Pacific Division title under new coach Jerry West despite the lack of a strong rebounding forward, Wednesday announced the signing of forward Jamaal Wilkes of the Golden State Warriors.

The announcement was made by the Lakers at an 11 a.m. news conference at the Forum. Terms of Wilkes' multi-year contract were not disclosed.

The slender Wilkes was a first-round draft choice out of UCLA in 1974 and captured Rookie of the Year honors in helping the Warriors to their first NBA championship in the 1974-75 season.

At first considered too frail to play opposite bigger and stronger opponents, he had proved one of the most consistent players on the Warriors.

Wilkes, who was knicknamed "Silk" while at UCLA because of his smooth as silk performance at the forward position, is the third former Bruin on the Laker club. He joins other former UCLA All-Americas Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lucius Allen on the team.

NBA discusses Knicks-Nets dispute

Governors of the National Basketball Association Wednesday heard details — but took no action — on the legal dispute between the New York Nets and New York Knicks involving the future home site of the Nets.

However, Commissioner Larry O'Brien said "the door was left open" for future negotiations between the teams and that he intended to encourage such talks personally.

Mike Burke of the Knicks offered to accept binding arbitration of the dispute in the meeting. But Roy Boe of the Knicks at first refused to accept and then in a personal conference with O'Brien agreed to accept under certain conditions.

The conditions were not acceptable to Burke. The dispute stems from the desire of the Nets to move from Nassau Coliseum on Long Island to a new site in the Meadowlands complex in New Jersey and to play in a new building at Rutgers until the Meadowlands site is available.

Fidrych's pain shared by entire AL

DETROIT — The pain in Mark Fidrych's right arm could be felt all the way through the American League.

"The Bird" got the first sore wing of his short career Tuesday night 15 pitches into the Detroit Tigers' 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Fidrych started the All-Star game for the AL last year in his rookie season, but won't be permitted to even think about throwing a baseball until after this season's July 19 classic.

"He sure won't pitch until after the All-Star game," Manager Ralph Houk of Detroit said. "I just hope he's ready to pitch after the All-Star game." Billy Martin, the New York Manager who will be handling the AL squad this year, had reportedly planned to work California's Frank Tanana and Fidrych the first six innings against the National League stars, but now both are out of the game with sore arms.

Tanana is suffering from inflamed tendons in his elbow which he sustained in a game against Minnesota Monday night.

NHL officials still unsure on merger

TORONTO — The National Hockey League Board of Governors adjourned its meeting Wednesday without making a decision on the issue of merging with the World Hockey Association.

A change in league bylaws that determine which teams participate in the Stanley Cup playoffs was the only major result of the seven-hour meeting, officials said.

According to the new formula, the 12 teams will include the two top teams in each of the four NHL divisions and the next four highest point winners from any division.

But the major issue — expansion of the NHL to include at least six WHA teams — was left undecided due to a lack of information, according to NHL officials.

Noll defends his stand on Swann

SAN FRANCISCO — Pittsburgh Steelers coach Chuck Noll diagramed on a blackboard for a federal court jury Wednesday the play on which wide receiver Lynn Swann was injured last season.

Noll was on the stand all day in the slander suit brought against him and the Steelers by Oakland Raider defensive back George Atkinson.

Noll went to the blackboard late in the afternoon and gave a "chalk talk" to the six-person jury, showing that Swann was the secondary receiver on the play with the ball actually being laid off to fullback Franco Harris. Tight end Randy Grossman was the primary receiver.

Noll was called as an adverse witness hy Atkinson's attorneys and insisted throughout his testimony that movies of the play showed that Swann had slowed down after the ball was put in the air and that Atkinson should have known Swann was not the target of quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

Atkinson hit Swann on the play and the Steelers receiver suffered a concussion.

Meadows hands Arlington 2-1 loss

by VIC NOVAK

Rolling Meadows American Legion Baseball Coach El Berg must have felt like David going against Goliath before his team played Arlington Heights Post 208 at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights Wednesday night.

Berg's first-year District Nine squad had a one-player bench because four of his players were competing for the Rolling Meadows High School Summer League baseball team, one was vacationing, and one was working.

In contrast was Arlington Heights. The defending 1976 national runner-up more than filled its bench.

YET, WHEN THE SMOKE cleared from this modern-day battlefield, the result was the same. David, or Rolling Meadows, beat Goliath — Arlington. This time, the score was 2-1, ending Arlington's six-game winning streak.

Like David firing his slingshot, Rolling Meadows catcher Jim Berg's deep, rightfield double killed the Arlington victory hopes. The drive, coming with two out and the bases loaded in the last of the seventh, drove home all the Rolling Meadows runs as Tom Curran went the distance on the mound for the victory.

Berg, connected with the count at 2-2. Jim said the pitch from losing Arlington pitcher Bob Huber was a high outside fastball that he just tried to go with to rightfield.

That fateful seventh was the only inning Rolling Meadows seriously threatened Huber. Before then, he had permitted only four hits. Meadows never put more than one man on base in any inning until the seventh.

IN THE SEVENTH, Rolling Meadows leadoff hitter Ray Gawron singled over second base. Then Joe Woelfel drew a walk before Huber struck out Dale Kukla.

However, Tony Kees coaxed another walk from Huber.

Still throwing strong, Huber seemed to be making a comeback while trying to protect Arlington's 1-0 lead. He induced Rudy Hansen to hit a pop foul that Arlington catcher Gary Kempton caught for the second out.

ARLINGTON'S ONLY run came in the top of the fifth when John Vukovich's single drove home Dan Frase. Frase had leadoff with a single and reached second on Mike Jennings' single.

MOST OF Arlington's hitting trouble was Rolling Meadows pitcher, Curran. He walked four and struck out five, and said he was using a changeup that helped him maintain strong control the entire game.

In a last-minute change, Arlington Heights will host Park Ridge tonight at Recreation Park. Game time is 7 p.m. Arlington is now 4-3 in District Nine play and 25-6 overall.

ROLLING MEADOWS, 4-7 in the league and 11-11 overall, will be the home team against Logan Square at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights tonight. Game time is 6 p.m.

Plenty of groups to see the Bears

The Bears announced they have sold out group ticket orders in four of their nine home games for the 1977 season.

Team ticket manager George Arneson said single ticket purchases still may be made for all the home games.

There are no group tickets available for games against Detroit on Sept. 18; Los Angeles, Oct. 16; Minnesota, Nov. 11, and Green Bay, Dec. 11.

Lakers add strength with Jamaal Wilkes

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — The Los Angeles Lakers, who surprised everyone last season by sweeping to the NBA Pacific Division title under new coach Jerry West despite the lack of a strong rebounding forward, Wednesday announced the signing of forward Jamaal Wilkes of the Golden State Warriors.

The announcement was made by the Lakers at an 11 a.m. news conference at the Forum. Terms of Wilkes' multi-year contract were not disclosed.

The slender Wilkes was a first-round draft choice out of UCLA in 1974 and captured Rookie of the Year honors in helping the Warriors to their first NBA championship in the 1974-75 season.

At first considered too frail to play opposite bigger and stronger opponents, he had proved one of the most consistent players on the Warriors.

Wilkes, who was knicknamed "Silk" while at UCLA because of his smooth as silk performance at the forward position, is the third former Bruin on the Laker club. He joins other former UCLA All-Americas Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Lucius Allen on the team.

NBA discusses Knicks-Nets dispute

Governors of the National Basketball Association Wednesday heard details — but took no action — on the legal dispute between the New York Nets and New York Knicks involving the future home site of the Nets.

However, Commissioner Larry O'Brien said "the door was left open" for future negotiations between the teams and that he intended to encourage such talks personally.

Mike Burke of the Knicks offered to accept binding arbitration of the dispute in the meeting. But Roy Boe of the Knicks at first refused to accept and then in a personal conference with O'Brien agreed to accept under certain conditions.

The conditions were not acceptable to Burke. The dispute stems from the desire of the Nets to move from Nassau Coliseum on Long Island to a new site in the Meadowlands complex in New Jersey and to play in a new building at Rutgers until the Meadowlands site is available.

Fidrych's pain shared by entire AL

DETROIT — The pain in Mark Fidrych's right arm could be felt all the way through the American League.

"The Bird" got the first sore wing of his short career Tuesday night 15 pitches into the Detroit Tigers' 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Fidrych started the All-Star game for the AL last year in his rookie season, but won't be permitted to even think about throwing a baseball until after this season's July 19 classic.

"He sure won't pitch until after the All-Star game," Manager Ralph Houk of Detroit said. "I just hope he's ready to pitch after the All-Star game." Billy Martin, the New York Manager who will be handling the AL squad this year, had reportedly planned to work California's Frank Tanana and Fidrych the first six innings against the National League stars, but now both are out of the game with sore arms.

Tanana is suffering from inflamed tendons in his elbow which he sustained in a game against Minnesota Monday night.

NHL officials still unsure on merger

TORONTO — The National Hockey League Board of Governors adjourned its meeting Wednesday without making a decision on the issue of merging with the World Hockey Association.

A change in league bylaws that determine which teams participate in the Stanley Cup playoffs was the only major result of the seven-hour meeting, officials said.

According to the new formula, the 12 teams will include the two top teams in each of the four NHL divisions and the next four highest point winners from any division.

But the major issue — expansion of the NHL to include at least six WHA teams — was left undecided due to a lack of information, according to NHL officials.

Noll defends his stand on Swann

SAN FRANCISCO — Pittsburgh Steelers coach Chuck Noll diagramed on a blackboard for a federal court jury Wednesday the play on which wide receiver Lynn Swann was injured last season.

Noll was on the stand all day in the slander suit brought against him and the Steelers by Oakland Raider defensive back George Atkinson.

Noll went to the blackboard late in the afternoon and gave a "chalk talk" to the six-person jury, showing that Swann was the secondary receiver on the play with the ball actually being laid off to fullback Franco Harris. Tight end Randy Grossman was the primary receiver.

Noll was called as an adverse witness hy Atkinson's attorneys and insisted throughout his testimony that movies of the play showed that Swann had slowed down after the ball was put in the air and that Atkinson should have known Swann was not the target of quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

Atkinson hit Swann on the play and the Steelers receiver suffered a concussion.

Meadows hands Arlington 2-1 loss

by VIC NOVAK

Rolling Meadows American Legion Baseball Coach El Berg must have felt like David going against Goliath before his team played Arlington Heights Post 208 at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights Wednesday night.

Berg's first-year District Nine squad had a one-player bench because four of his players were competing for the Rolling Meadows High School Summer League baseball team, one was vacationing, and one was working.

In contrast was Arlington Heights. The defending 1976 national runner-up more than filled its bench.

YET, WHEN THE SMOKE cleared from this modern-day battlefield, the result was the same. David, or Rolling Meadows, beat Goliath — Arlington. This time, the score was 2-1, ending Arlington's six-game winning streak.

Like David firing his slingshot, Rolling Meadows catcher Jim Berg's deep, rightfield double killed the Arlington victory hopes. The drive, coming with two out and the bases loaded in the last of the seventh, drove home all the Rolling Meadows runs as Tom Curran went the distance on the mound for the victory.

Berg, connected with the count at 2-2. Jim said the pitch from losing Arlington pitcher Bob Huber was a high outside fastball that he just tried to go with to rightfield.

That fateful seventh was the only inning Rolling Meadows seriously threatened Huber. Before then, he had permitted only four hits. Meadows never put more than one man on base in any inning until the seventh.

IN THE SEVENTH, Rolling Meadows leadoff hitter Ray Gawron singled over second base. Then Joe Woelfel drew a walk before Huber struck out Dale Kukla.

However, Tony Kees coaxed another walk from Huber.

Still throwing strong, Huber seemed to be making a comeback while trying to protect Arlington's 1-0 lead. He induced Rudy Hansen to hit a pop foul that Arlington catcher Gary Kempton caught for the second out.

ARLINGTON'S ONLY run came in the top of the fifth when John Vukovich's single drove home Dan Frase. Frase had leadoff with a single and reached second on Mike Jennings' single.

MOST OF Arlington's hitting trouble was Rolling Meadows pitcher, Curran. He walked four and struck out five, and said he was using a changeup that helped him maintain strong control the entire game.

In a last-minute change, Arlington Heights will host Park Ridge tonight at Recreation Park. Game time is 7 p.m. Arlington is now 4-3 in District Nine play and 25-6 overall.

ROLLING MEADOWS, 4-7 in the league and 11-11 overall, will be the home team against Logan Square at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights tonight. Game time is 6 p.m.

Plenty of groups to see the Bears

The Bears announced they have sold out group ticket orders in four of their nine home games for the 1977 season.

Team ticket manager George Arneson said single ticket purchases still may be made for all the home games.

There are no group tickets available for games against Detroit on Sept. 18; Los Angeles, Oct. 16; Minnesota, Nov. 11, and Green Bay, Dec. 11.

Seek stricter guidelines for basketball recruiting

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stricter guidelines governing the recruiting of high school basketball prospects should be enforced by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a group of basketball coaches said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Barry Dond, assistant coach at Texas and president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, said the group would like the NCAA to provide a film for high school coaches and players on what is permissible in recruiting.

The coaches, meeting in conjunction with an NCAA conference to determine the site of the 1982 basketball finals, also asked that the time at which a player signs a letter of intent not be included as one of three permitted visits by a recruiter, as is now the case.

CONCERN WAS also expressed over the so-called "bump" rule, which allows a recruiter to attend a game or event in which a prospect is involved and speak to him informally without the visit counting as an official recruiting effort.

The rule got its name because the recruiter supposedly just bumps into the prospect accidentlly. The coaches said one school admitted to 47 "bumps" in the recruiting of one prospect and asked for clarification of rules governing such visits.

The coaches also urged that:

- College players be allowed to take part in organized summer leagues, with no more than two players from one college playing on the same summer team.
- The East-West all-star game be played on the Sunday between the NCAA semifinals and finals in the same city as the tournament, so that fans can see not only the nation's best teams but the best players as well.
- THE THIRD-PLACE game between the losers in the semifinals be retained and first-round qualification games for the 32-team NCAA tournament be expanded.
- A 27-game schedule plus two scrimmages be allowed, with the scrimmages not counting in a team's record.
- Assistant coaches be given contracts rather than serving at the whim of a school's head coach.

Evanses to defend Governor's Cup title

Many of the top amateur golfers in the greater Chicago area will compete this week in the 17th renewal of the Governors Cup Championship at Knollwood Club, Lake Forest. The two-man teams will play the one-best-ball, medal play event over 54 holes Friday through Sunday.

The team to beat is the defending champion father-son combination of Dick and Tom Evans, last year's winners by one stroke over the brother combination of John and Phil Kenny. Dick Evans is a former Ohio state amateur champion and Chicago District Golf Assn. champ and has competed in both the U.S. Amateur and U.S Open tournaments.

Indy stars to drive

Indianapolis 500 veterans Gary Bettenhausen and Johnny Parsons, Jr. headline the line-up of United States Auto Club midget drivers Friday night at Santa Fe Speedway in Willow Springs. More than 40 of the nation's top drivers are expected to vie for the 18 starting positions in the 40-lap USAC feature race. Starting time is 8 p.m.

Sutter Talks — 1-18

Bruce Sutter, the Cubs' star relief pitcher, will appear at the Mount Prospect State Bank Saturday, July 23, where he will be the guest speaker on the bank-sponsored "Sport's Page" live radio program on WWMM-FM, starting at 9 a.m.

Sutter will answer questions from the audience and give free autographed photographs.

Hilldale hosts meet

Hilldale Golf Course will be the site of a local state Scramble Golf Tournament event Sunday, where area amateurs will try and qualify for the state finals at Pontiac Elks C.C. in Pontiac Sept. 24. For further information contact the local pro at Hilldale.

Babe Ruth baseball to begin districts

District tournament play begins Friday at 5:30 p.m. for the Irving-Lake Senior Babe Ruth League in Brookfield.

The league teams are Hanover Park Sox (7-1), Woodfield Yankees (6-2), Streamwood (4-5), and Hanover Park Cubs (0-9).

"Buying fine furniture: a professional approach that you can use in selection and saving."

On Thursday, July 21 at 7:00 p.m. you can take advantage of Richard Honquest's 20 years of experience in buying quality furniture from all over the world.

Richard Honquest

What's good? What isn't?

During Mr. Honquest's hour-long seminar, you will learn:
- Manufacturing details you should look for
- What's in a brand-name
- Basic ground rules in selecting coverings
- How to best work with professional designers
- How to tell the difference between "look-alikes" and "price-alikes"
- What to look for on sale items
- What to do about potential problems after you buy

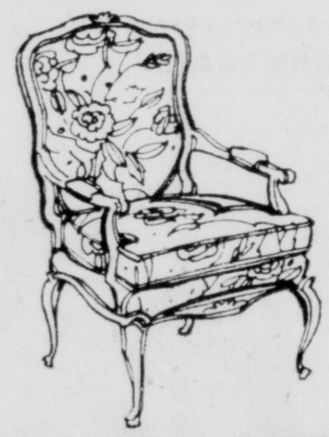
In short, here's an intelligent guide on how to get the most for your furniture dollar.



Is it really worth $450?

Buying fine furniture is basically an investment in the future. You live with it. And it should last for years. Learn why it pays to be particular.

Learn the difference craftsmanship makes.

Mr. Honquest will also show a film on how quality furniture is made. You'll discover how to tell the difference between just pretty and really enduring furniture.

Questions? Mr. Honquest and his staff of experienced designers will be available after the seminar.

Seek stricter guidelines for basketball recruiting

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Stricter guidelines governing the recruiting of high school basketball prospects should be enforced by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a group of basketball coaches said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Barry Dond, assistant coach at Texas and president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, said the group would like the NCAA to provide a film for high school coaches and players on what is permissible in recruiting.

The coaches, meeting in conjunction with an NCAA conference to determine the site of the 1982 basketball finals, also asked that the time at which a player signs a letter of intent not be included as one of three permitted visits by a recruiter, as is now the case.

CONCERN WAS also expressed over the so-called "bump" rule, which allows a recruiter to attend a game or event in which a prospect is involved and speak to him informally without the visit counting as an official recruiting effort.

The rule got its name because the recruiter supposedly just bumps into the prospect accidentlly. The coaches said one school admitted to 47 "bumps" in the recruiting of one prospect and asked for clarification of rules governing such visits.

The coaches also urged that:

- College players be allowed to take part in organized summer leagues, with no more than two players from one college playing on the same summer team.
- The East-West all-star game be played on the Sunday between the NCAA semifinals and finals in the same city as the tournament, so that fans can see not only the nation's best teams but the best players as well.
- THE THIRD-PLACE game between the losers in the semifinals be retained and first-round qualification games for the 32-team NCAA tournament be expanded.
- A 27-game schedule plus two scrimmages be allowed, with the scrimmages not counting in a team's record.
- Assistant coaches be given contracts rather than serving at the whim of a school's head coach.

Evanses to defend Governor's Cup title

Many of the top amateur golfers in the greater Chicago area will compete this week in the 17th renewal of the Governors Cup Championship at Knollwood Club, Lake Forest. The two-man teams will play the one-best-ball, medal play event over 54 holes Friday through Sunday.

The team to beat is the defending champion father-son combination of Dick and Tom Evans, last year's winners by one stroke over the brother combination of John and Phil Kenny. Dick Evans is a former Ohio state amateur champion and Chicago District Golf Assn. champ and has competed in both the U.S. Amateur and U.S Open tournaments.

Partners play rotten bridge

The unlucky expert had corraled us again. This time he had a question. It was: "How did my partner manage to go down at four hearts after picking up the queen of trumps?"

We couldn't work it out and before telling you what happened, we will give you a hint. West really took advantage of the unfortunate declarer.

West started out by leading the deuce of spades. Normally, it is really poor tactics to lead away from an ace against a suit contract, but this started declarer's downfall. The five was played from dummy and East's 10 forced South's king.

South played king and ace of trumps and then produced the key losing play. He led the 10 of clubs and let it ride to East's jack. There was no reason to give up a club trick, as South put up the king; West was in with the ace and led the six of spades.

Declarer played dummy's nine. We can't blame him for this. East took his jack and West's ace became the setting trick.

Ask Andy

Hurricanes are feminine by convenience

WHY DO HURRICANES HAVE GIRL'S NAMES?

When low air pressure forms over tropical regions, a hurricane can develop. In the North Pacific, such a storm is called a typhoon; one in the South Pacific or Indian Ocean is called a cyclone.

In the United States, most hurricanes are from the Atlantic Ocean or the Gulf of Mexico. They occur from June through November, with most of them coming in September.

In order to know which storm you are talking about, because there are times when perhaps three may be active or forming in the Atlantic between the Cape Verde Islands to the western Caribbean Sea, the U.S. Weather Service in the past simply numbered them. The numbering system was later changed to the Greek alphabet: alpha, beta, gamma, delta and so on.

Then, during World War II, the service decided to humanize the sytem by giving the hurricanes the names of women. Ten lists of names were made up, arranging the names of girls alphabetically but leaving out the letters Q, U, X, Y and Z. Every 10 years the list is repeated.

Here is the 1977 list of Atlantic hurricanes that will again be used in 1987:

Anita, Babe, Clara, Dorothy, Evelyn, Frieda, Grace, Hannah, Ida, Jodie, Kristina, Lois, Mary, Nora, Odel, Penny, Raquel, Sophia, Trudy, Virginia and Willene.

It is much easier for the weather bureau experts who are tracking a series of storms to talk about Dorothy, Evelyn and Frieda than to say Four, Five and Six.

Weather service also names the Pacific storms that move out of tropical Mexico. Here's the 1977 list of names:

Ava, Bernice, Claudia, Dorene, Emily, Florence, Glenda, Heather, Irah, Jennifer, Katherine, Lillian, Mona, Natalie, Odessa, Prudence, Roslyn, Sylvia, Tillie, Victoria and Wallie.

The Pacific tropical storm names are repeated every four years, rather than every 10 as with the Atlantic hurricanes. The current list, therefore, will be used again in 1981.

Some recent destructive hurricanes include Fifi in 1974 when about 8,000 persons were killed in Honduras. Agnes caused $2 billion in damage from North Carolina to New York and killed 122 persons in 1972. Hurricane Camille killed 250 persons in seven states from Louisiana to Virginia in 1969.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Michell Jolliffe, 10, of Arlington Heights, Ill., for her question:

WHAT MAKES A GEYSER ERUPT?

A geyser is a hot spring that throws hot water and steam high into the air with great force.

When an underground water supply is located in an area where the earth holds very hot rocks, the water near the bottom of a long column may reach the boiling point. Held down by cold water above it, the hot water will soon start to steam and form bubbles, pushing some of the water in the channel out of the opening. The column becomes lighter and more steam is formed. Soon the pressure is built up so that there's an explosion of steam and water. Water then seeps back into the channel, and a build-up of pressure starts again.

Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park erupts for about four minutes every 65 minutes. Water shoots up about 150 feet. It hasn't missed its schedule for 80 years at least.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

The unlucky expert had corraled us again. This time he had a question. It was: "How did my partner manage to go down at four hearts after picking up the queen of trumps?"

We couldn't work it out and before telling you what happened, we will give you a hint. West really took advantage of the unfortunate declarer.

West started out by leading the deuce of spades. Normally, it is really poor tactics to lead away from an ace against a suit contract, but this started declarer's downfall. The five was played from dummy and East's 10 forced South's king.

South played king and ace of trumps and then produced the key losing play. He led the 10 of clubs and let it ride to East's jack. There was no reason to give up a club trick, as South put up the king; West was in with the ace and led the six of spades.

Declarer played dummy's nine. We can't blame him for this. East took his jack and West's ace became the setting trick.

Ask Andy

Hurricanes are feminine by convenience

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Jean Keenan, 10, of Hunstville, Ala., for her question:

WHY DO HURRICANES HAVE GIRL'S NAMES?

When low air pressure forms over tropical regions, a hurricane can develop. In the North Pacific, such a storm is called a typhoon; one in the South Pacific or Indian Ocean is called a cyclone.

In the United States, most hurricanes are from the Atlantic Ocean or the Gulf of Mexico. They occur from June through November, with most of them coming in September.

In order to know which storm you are talking about, because there are times when perhaps three may be active or forming in the Atlantic between the Cape Verde Islands to the western Caribbean Sea, the U.S. Weather Service in the past simply numbered them. The numbering system was later changed to the Greek alphabet: alpha, beta, gamma, delta and so on.

Then, during World War II, the service decided to humanize the sytem by giving the hurricanes the names of women. Ten lists of names were made up, arranging the names of girls alphabetically but leaving out the letters Q, U, X, Y and Z. Every 10 years the list is repeated.

Here is the 1977 list of Atlantic hurricanes that will again be used in 1987:

Anita, Babe, Clara, Dorothy, Evelyn, Frieda, Grace, Hannah, Ida, Jodie, Kristina, Lois, Mary, Nora, Odel, Penny, Raquel, Sophia, Trudy, Virginia and Willene.

It is much easier for the weather bureau experts who are tracking a series of storms to talk about Dorothy, Evelyn and Frieda than to say Four, Five and Six.

Weather service also names the Pacific storms that move out of tropical Mexico. Here's the 1977 list of names:

Ava, Bernice, Claudia, Dorene, Emily, Florence, Glenda, Heather, Irah, Jennifer, Katherine, Lillian, Mona, Natalie, Odessa, Prudence, Roslyn, Sylvia, Tillie, Victoria and Wallie.

The Pacific tropical storm names are repeated every four years, rather than every 10 as with the Atlantic hurricanes. The current list, therefore, will be used again in 1981.

Some recent destructive hurricanes include Fifi in 1974 when about 8,000 persons were killed in Honduras. Agnes caused $2 billion in damage from North Carolina to New York and killed 122 persons in 1972. Hurricane Camille killed 250 persons in seven states from Louisiana to Virginia in 1969.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Michell Jolliffe, 10, of Arlington Heights, Ill., for her question:

WHAT MAKES A GEYSER ERUPT?

A geyser is a hot spring that throws hot water and steam high into the air with great force.

When an underground water supply is located in an area where the earth holds very hot rocks, the water near the bottom of a long column may reach the boiling point. Held down by cold water above it, the hot water will soon start to steam and form bubbles, pushing some of the water in the channel out of the opening. The column becomes lighter and more steam is formed. Soon the pressure is built up so that there's an explosion of steam and water. Water then seeps back into the channel, and a build-up of pressure starts again.

Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park erupts for about four minutes every 65 minutes. Water shoots up about 150 feet. It hasn't missed its schedule for 80 years at least.

Increase in spending budgeted

Dist. 23 tax rate drops 8 cents

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

The tax rate in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has dropped 8 cents at the same time the district's tentative $3 million budget for 1977-78 calls for an 11 per cent increase in expenditures over last year.

Making the tax rate decrease possible is an 11 per cent increase in the district's equalized assessed valuation, from last year's $54.2 million to $61.1 million, Business Mgr. James Hendren said.

Wheeling Township's quadrennial reassessment is most responsible for the district's increased tax base, but new construction played a substantial role as well, he said.

THE INCREASED tax base will give the district an additional $124,534 in property tax revenues although the tax rate fell from last year's $2.51 per $100 equalized assessed valuation to $2.43, Hendren said.

For the average homeowner with a house assessed at $10,000, the tax rate decrease will mean a savings of $8 on his tax bill.

Next year, however, because of a referendum passed by voters in December 1976, the district's tax rate probably will move back up toward the $2.51 mark, Hendren said.

While the district's local property tax revenue is on the rise, its state aid income will drop $19,000 in 1977-78. Under the Illinois state aid formula, which is based on the districts assessed valuation per student, a district with a large assessed valuation receives less state aid than a district of the same size with a smaller assessed valuation.

STILL, THE district's total revenues are up $168,000 over last year because of increases in its borrowing position, interest receipts and state reimbursements for specific programs, Hendren said.

With the increased revenues, the tentative 1977-78 budget presented to the Dist. 23 Board of Education Wednesday allows for the restoration of some of the $110,000 in budget cuts the board made last year.

This includes rehiring two classroom teachers and a coordinator for the gifted program, returning the principal's post at MacArthur Junior High School to a full-time position, increasing physical education time in the schools and stepping up the purchase of general supplies.

"With a reduction in staff and a 50 per cent reduction in general supply purchases, last year was a rough year to live through," Henoren said.

THE RESTORATION of the budget cuts is most evident in the district's education fund where expenditures are up 13 per cent over last year, bringing them from $1,988,659 to $2,262,447.

Also contributing to the fund's increased expenditures is an 8 per cent teachers' salary increase, administrative salary increases ranging from 4.8 per cent to 12.6 per cent and a 45 per cent increase in the district's health and accident insurance, Hendren said.

"When you look at the 13 per cent increase in the education fund you have to remember it's following the less than 1 per cent increase we had last year," he said. "If you average the two you'll see we're still doing fairly well."

Expenditures in the education fund will exceed revenues by $93,126 and will be made up by borrowing on tax anticipation warrants, Hendren said. The borrowing level will remain stable at $554,000, though most of the monies will be invested and spent only if a cushion is needed, he said.

THE DISTRICT'S building fund calls for expenditures of $182,560, up $10,000 over last year. Increased utility costs account for most of the rise, inexpenditures, Hendren said.

The bond and interest fund expenditures will drop from $221,000 last year to $205,854 as bonds are retired on three of the district's schools — Ross, Sullivan and MacArthur, he said.

Transportation fund expenditures are up from $147,300 last year to $181,114 this year.

The district also has $143,000 in the working cash fund, which can be used for loans to the education and building funds.

The board will vote on adopting a final 1977-78 budget at its Aug. 17 meeting. Bfore this date, the budget will be available for public inspection at the Administration building, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

6,000 pledge no vandalism, get free programs

The 6,000 Arlington Heights children who signed antivandalism pledge cards are eligible to participate in free programs beginning this weekend sponsored by the zero vandalism committee.

Children who signed the cards, which were circulated in school districts 214, 21, 25 and 59 in June, promised not to commit vandalism.

"From what parents were telling me kids were really excited about the program," committee member Art Gollberg said. "Hopefully, that enthusiasm will be carried over into the way they conduct themselves and the program will help reduce vandalism."

The number of reported incidents of vandalism so far this year is about the same as in 1976, said Capt. Paul Buckholz, Arlington Heights deputy police chief.

At this time last year 590 incidents of damage by vandals were reported. So far this year there have been 615, he said.

The free activities begin Saturday with a splash party and dance at Olympic Pool, 500 N. Ridge Ave.

Swim for kindergarten through fifth graders will be from 5 to 6 p.m. and for sixth through 12th graders from 6 to 7 p.m. The dance will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Students must sign up for the event by today.

Volleyball tournaments will be conducted throughout the summer at several parks. Games are from 1 to 4 p.m. at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr., Sunday; at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott Ave., July 24; at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., July 31; at Heritage Park, Fernandez Avenue and Victoria Lane, and Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Aug. 2; and at Pioneer Park, Aug. 14.

A concert will be held at Recreation Park from 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. 2. Local rock group, The Silver Arrow, will entertain.

Another splash party with the same hours as the first one will be at Olympic Pool Aug. 13. Children must sign up by Aug. 11.

"Almost Anything Goes" relay races are planned at Pioneer Park from 1 to 4 p.m. Aug. 20.

All events are free to students who have signed pledge cards. Cards are available at all local parks and the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Increase in spending budgeted

Dist. 23 tax rate drops 8 cents

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

The tax rate in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has dropped 8 cents at the same time the district's tentative $3 million budget for 1977-78 calls for an 11 per cent increase in expenditures over last year.

Making the tax rate decrease possible is an 11 per cent increase in the district's equalized assessed valuation, from last year's $54.2 million to $61.1 million, Business Mgr. James Hendren said.

Wheeling Township's quadrennial reassessment is most responsible for the district's increased tax base, but new construction played a substantial role as well, he said.

THE INCREASED tax base will give the district an additional $124,534 in property tax revenues although the tax rate fell from last year's $2.51 per $100 equalized assessed valuation to $2.43, Hendren said.

For the average homeowner with a house assessed at $10,000, the tax rate decrease will mean a savings of $8 on his tax bill.

Next year, however, because of a referendum passed by voters in December 1976, the district's tax rate probably will move back up toward the $2.51 mark, Hendren said.

While the district's local property tax revenue is on the rise, its state aid income will drop $19,000 in 1977-78. Under the Illinois state aid formula, which is based on the districts assessed valuation per student, a district with a large assessed valuation receives less state aid than a district of the same size with a smaller assessed valuation.

STILL, THE district's total revenues are up $168,000 over last year because of increases in its borrowing position, interest receipts and state reimbursements for specific programs, Hendren said.

With the increased revenues, the tentative 1977-78 budget presented to the Dist. 23 Board of Education Wednesday allows for the restoration of some of the $110,000 in budget cuts the board made last year.

This includes rehiring two classroom teachers and a coordinator for the gifted program, returning the principal's post at MacArthur Junior High School to a full-time position, increasing physical education time in the schools and stepping up the purchase of general supplies.

"With a reduction in staff and a 50 per cent reduction in general supply purchases, last year was a rough year to live through," Henoren said.

THE RESTORATION of the budget cuts is most evident in the district's education fund where expenditures are up 13 per cent over last year, bringing them from $1,988,659 to $2,262,447.

Also contributing to the fund's increased expenditures is an 8 per cent teachers' salary increase, administrative salary increases ranging from 4.8 per cent to 12.6 per cent and a 45 per cent increase in the district's health and accident insurance, Hendren said.

"When you look at the 13 per cent increase in the education fund you have to remember it's following the less than 1 per cent increase we had last year," he said. "If you average the two you'll see we're still doing fairly well."

Expenditures in the education fund will exceed revenues by $93,126 and will be made up by borrowing on tax anticipation warrants, Hendren said. The borrowing level will remain stable at $554,000, though most of the monies will be invested and spent only if a cushion is needed, he said.

THE DISTRICT'S building fund calls for expenditures of $182,560, up $10,000 over last year. Increased utility costs account for most of the rise, inexpenditures, Hendren said.

The bond and interest fund expenditures will drop from $221,000 last year to $205,854 as bonds are retired on three of the district's schools — Ross, Sullivan and MacArthur, he said.

Transportation fund expenditures are up from $147,300 last year to $181,114 this year.

The district also has $143,000 in the working cash fund, which can be used for loans to the education and building funds.

The board will vote on adopting a final 1977-78 budget at its Aug. 17 meeting. Bfore this date, the budget will be available for public inspection at the Administration building, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

6,000 pledge no vandalism, get free programs

The 6,000 Arlington Heights children who signed antivandalism pledge cards are eligible to participate in free programs beginning this weekend sponsored by the zero vandalism committee.

Children who signed the cards, which were circulated in school districts 214, 21, 25 and 59 in June, promised not to commit vandalism.

"From what parents were telling me kids were really excited about the program," committee member Art Gollberg said. "Hopefully, that enthusiasm will be carried over into the way they conduct themselves and the program will help reduce vandalism."

The number of reported incidents of vandalism so far this year is about the same as in 1976, said Capt. Paul Buckholz, Arlington Heights deputy police chief.

At this time last year 590 incidents of damage by vandals were reported. So far this year there have been 615, he said.

The free activities begin Saturday with a splash party and dance at Olympic Pool, 500 N. Ridge Ave.

Swim for kindergarten through fifth graders will be from 5 to 6 p.m. and for sixth through 12th graders from 6 to 7 p.m. The dance will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Students must sign up for the event by today.

Volleyball tournaments will be conducted throughout the summer at several parks. Games are from 1 to 4 p.m. at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr., Sunday; at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott Ave., July 24; at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., July 31; at Heritage Park, Fernandez Avenue and Victoria Lane, and Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Aug. 2; and at Pioneer Park, Aug. 14.

A concert will be held at Recreation Park from 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. 2. Local rock group, The Silver Arrow, will entertain.

Another splash party with the same hours as the first one will be at Olympic Pool Aug. 13. Children must sign up by Aug. 11.

"Almost Anything Goes" relay races are planned at Pioneer Park from 1 to 4 p.m. Aug. 20.

All events are free to students who have signed pledge cards. Cards are available at all local parks and the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Closings, budget on Dist. 25 agenda

School closings and a tentative budget for the 1977-78 school year will be discussed when the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education meets at 7:30 p.m. today at the district's administration building, 301 W. South St.

Faced with projections for declining enrollment and mounting budget deficits, the board has decided to close a junior high school in June and is in the process of selecting the school to be closed.

65-year-old faces fighting charges

A 65-year-old Chicago man is scheduled to appear in Cook County Circuit Court Friday to answer charges he fought with Arlington Heights police after they took a .22-caliber revolver from him, police reported.

Police said they arrested George K. Koranda July 6 night after a scuffle in Eddie's Lounge, 10 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Police said they were called to the restaurant after receiving a report of a disturbance, and found Koranda arguing with lounge employes when he was refused service.

Police said they took a gun from Koranda and placed him under arrest. Koranda allegedly resisted, and was subdued by two patrolmen, police said.

He is free on $1,000 bond.

Joint Chiefs oppose total Korea troop withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff did not want to withdraw all U.S. ground forces from Korea within a five-year period as decided by President Carter, Gen. Bernard W. Rogers testified Wednesday.

Rogers told the House Armed Services Committee the JCS recommended "there should be no significant reduction in the ground forces other than those already programmed" — which would limit the cutback to a missile unit that was to be turned over to the South Koreans and some other elements.

The general testified the recommendation was made March 17 while an interagency review on Korea was underway. That would be eight days after Carter outlined a four to five-year withdrawal of all ground forces.

AN ARMY SPOKESMAN said later, however, the actual date the recommendation went forward was March 7, two days before the President told a March 9 news conference his campaign commitment to withdraw American troops from the area was unchanged and "I think that the time period as I described in the campaign months — a four or five-year time period — is appropriate."

National Security Council deliberations followed and the formal decision process was not completed until May 5, when Carter issued his decision formally and "laid out some specifics on the process of withdrawal," Rogers said.

Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., who presided at the session, said the committee unsuccessfully sought White House documents used to make the withdrawal decision. He said the White House claimed they were internal documents.

The committee is conducting hearings on the withdrawal plan because of controversy stirred by public statements by Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub in May.

SINGLAUB, FORMER chief of staff of U.S. forces in Korea, was summoned to the White House for telling a reporter the troop withdrawals would lead to war and Carter later reassigned him to a post in the United States.

The Pentagon said Singlaub was removed because he made a public statement counter to announced administration policy.

Rogers, whose testimony is the first public statement on the matter by a senior military official, said he told Singlaub in late April the withdrawal decision had been made.

"He asked, 'What rationale have you been given for the withdrawal?' " Rogers said, "and I replied 'None.' "

Rogers said the chiefs, on March 17, had recommended "a phased partial reduction of 7,000 Army spaces" in Korea through Sept. 30, 1982, with a continuing review of the situation.

Other officials said that plan would have involved one third the force of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division, which Carter has said will be entirely withdrawn along with other forces totaling about 33,000 men by 1982.

"OUR OPTION was not the one adopted," Rogers said.

Asked his opinion of the Carter plan, Rogers said, "there is a risk involved, greater than the risk in retaining the status quo," but if the United States assists South Korea and remains a Pacific power "the risk will be an acceptable risk."

CIA director Stansfield Turner testified before the committee in closed session earlier Wednesday. Sources quoted Turner saying the pullout would increase the risk of war somewhat, but that South Korea would be able to handle the situation due to the manner in which the withdrawal is being made.

Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., complained Congress was unable to get details of the withdrawal schedule although they have been worked out.

"Only the President and secretary of defense seem to know what is going on," he said.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown is scheduled to visit Korea July 25 to discuss the withdrawal with Seoul officials.

Top CIA aide resigns to give boss freer hand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA chief Stansfield Turner Wednesday announced the resignation of his top aide, E. Henry Knoche, who said he left to give his boss more leeway in meeting the changes that "loom on the horizon" for the spy agency.

Both men issued statements on the resignation hours after informed sources told UPI Turner had forced the 52-year-old Knoche into early retirement and planned a similar fate for 20 members of the agency's top secret clandestine operations branch.

Turner said in his announcement that Knoche submitted his resignation to President Carter July 5 effective Aug. 1, but denied he had forced his second man out.

"There are no plans for forced retirements or removals of any top CIA officials," Turner said. "There are no plans for major changes in the CIA organization at this time."

BUT KNOCHE, who has been with the CIA 24 years and received the nation's highest award for distinguished civil service in January, indicated there are changes in the offing.

"We have successfully come through some difficult times together in recent years," he said. "More change looms on the orizon and properly so. Dealing with these challenges will be an exciting task.

"But in the end, having weighed all the factors, I concluded that it would be in the best interests of the agency and the nation's intelligence effort if I stepped aside now to facilitate the director's task as he prepares to make decisions about new organizational forms and the kind of new leadership that he will need to carry out his future plans."

Sources told UPI Turner is seeking early retirement of at least 20 members of the operations directorate, which handles clandestine activities, including the directorate's two top men — William Wells and Theodore Swackley.

ASKED ABOUT the CIA moves, White House Press Sec. Jody Powell said Turner "has discussed his plans with the President, (but) not with regard to every specific change."

And Powell said, "my understanding from the CIA is that those reports (on CIA changes) are somewhat exaggerated."

Turner, testifying at a closed hearing on Capitol Hill Wednesday on another matter, avoided reporters afterward, although he had promised before the session he would answer questions.

Knoche was confirmed in June last year as deputy CIA director under Republican George Bush, and was acting director during the change in administrations until Carter named Turner to head the CIA in February.

IN JANUARY, Carter presented Knoche the highest civilian award for distinguished civil service.

Sources said Knoch's replacement will be John McMahon, a former member of the CIA's clandestine operations team who now works in the administrative section.

Senior intelligence officers were reported puzzled at Knoche's ouster since, they said, he apparently got along well with Turner. There was speculation, however, that Knoche opposed Turner's moves against the clandestine operations branch, which one source described as a "whole-sale purge."

Hearing on Harper budget set tonight

A public hearing on a $15.8 million operating budget for 1977-78 will be conducted at the meeting of the Harper College Board of Trustees tonight.

The budget, which includes an $11 million education fund, $2.6 million building fund and $2.2 million for auxiliary services, represents the third consecutive year Harper's expenses will outstrip revenues.

Also on the agenda are approval of a three-year contract negotiated by Local 11 of the Service Employes Union, representing Harper custodians, and a request by the Harper College Educational Foundation for a $2,500 audit of the foundation's funds.

The foundation is the gift-giving organ of the college and has asked for the audit because of increasing contributions to the college.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the college board room, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The Ernsts find their dream home

Finding a dream home is one thing, financing it is another. Bill and Ellie Ernst had never done business with First Arlington until their realtor recommended our mortgage service. Now, Bill calls that service, "excellent." A successful importer of Italian furniture, Bill had recently moved his Ernst Associates, Ltd. into large quarters in the Merchandise Mart. Adding a new home purchase to that large business investment was something he had to consider very carefully. But he found the people at our bank "very friendly and considerate." He says our new management people were "most helpful" in solving his problem. So helpful that the Ernsts have opened a savings account with us. Accepting the keys to their dream from Florence Brehm, a 36-year employee of the bank, the Ernsts have found the New First Arlington really does work to their advantage.

Bus ridership up 35% here on NORTRAN

Business is booming on suburban buses. In fact, the North Suburban Mass Transit District is ranked fifth in the nation in terms of growth.

During the past year, NORTRAN has experienced a 35 per cent increase in ridership. The American Public Thansit Assn. says that makes NORTRAN the fifth fastest growing system in the country.

"It's a lot of things," said Joseph DiJohn, NORTRAN's executive director, when asked to explain the dramatic growth.

"It's the universal transfer," he said referring to a regionwide transfer sponsored by the Regional Transportation Authority. "It's the new routes. It's the new equipment. It's a result of both new riders and old riders riding more often."

RIDERSHIP HIT 429,348 in May, a new all time monthly high for the district. Last May, only 303,331 people rode NORTRAN buses.

Many people have doubted the need for public transportation in the suburbs, saying suburbanites prefer to drive. But DiJohn said NORTRAN's growth is disproving that theory.

"I think it is a great untapped market," DiJohn said of the suburbs. He said he is surprised that the system has grown so quickly, but said "I think there is a lot more there."

New service in the Northwest suburbs has added significantly to the increased ridership. In the past year, commuter bus service has been added from Buffalo Grove to the Arlington Heights train station. Ridership on this route hit 6,200 in June. The new commuter rout from Wheeling to Mount Prospect and the Des Plaines train station had 5,800 riders last month.

THE NEW ROUTE from Des Plaines to the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg, was not included in the transit association's ratings. That route, started June 19, has had steady growth.

During the first two weeks of service when no fares were charged the route averaged 400 to 500 riders a day. Last week, the first week of fares, ridership was averaging 250 riders per day.

NORTRAN, a relatively new operation, took over United Motor Coach routes in January 1975. It serves the north and Northwest suburbs, receiving substantial operating subsidies from the RTA.

Despite increasing prices, homes still affordable

by CHARLES E. DOLE

Is the home buyer these days really an "endangered species" as so many in the industry contend?

The average price of a new home in the United States may push $80,000 by the early 1980s, says the Joint Center for Urban Studies of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University. By the turn of the century, it could break $100,000.

Bernard Frieden and Arthur P. Solomon, co-authors of the study, charge that the U.S. "is neglecting the housing needs of the American people."

THE AVERAGE new house built last year sold for $47,700 and required an income of $21,200 a year in order to qualify a would-be buyer.

"Just 10 years ago, some 44 per cent of U.S. families could qualify to purchase new housing," asserts Michael L. Tenzer, president of Leisure Technology Corp., a national housing producer and planned adult community developer. "Today that figure is down to just 25.7 per cent," he says.

But what is average? some people ask. "Average don't mean a thing," replies Marsh P. Trimble, publisher of Professional Builder magazine, a trade monthly.

"If you take 25 houses that cost $45,000 each and one that costs $200,000, you get an average of nearly $51,000," he says. "Yet 25 of the 26 houses cost $6,000 less than the so-called average, while one house cost considerably more."

MEDIANS ARE not much better, Trimble says. "If, for example, the median cost of a new house is $45,000, it doesn't mean that all (or even most) homes are priced at this figure, but only that half are priced below it while half are priced above it.

"The buyer may have a wide selection of homes available with prices beginning at $25,000 or $30,000," he says.

Lower-cost housing is still available in some markets, such as Florida, although obviously the size of the house, and the amenities inside, are less than a few years ago.

General Development, a major developer in the state, has built 16,000 homes in the past 20 years. It now provides a three-bedroom, 1½-bath home with 1,152 square feet of space, including a garage. Cost: $20,990, plus homesite and lot-preparation costs. A larger three-bedroom house costs $25,495. Other builders also offer low-priced models.

DELTONA, ANOTHER high-volume Florida builder, offers a new line of homes which start at $20,725, including the homesite, up to $39,370.

Housing-cost figures are "terribly distorted" and consequently misleading, asserts John J. Stafford, director of research for the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

"A lot of housing is available in all price ranges," he says, "and much of it can be purchased even by those families living on what the government calls an 'austere budget.'" New houses which sold for $65,000 and more accounted for only one of every six homes built last year.

The average sales price of an existing house last year was $41,300, but nearly 56 per cent of the existing homes sold in 1976 cost less than that.

NEARLY 39 PER CENT of all existing homes sold last year, says Stafford, were priced between $15,000 and $32,000 and, he continues, "could be purchased by families with incomes ranging between $7,000 and $15,000."

American home buyers, offered lower-cost, no-frills houses over the last few years, have clearly rejected them for the larger, more expensive, better-equipped models. If home lookers were in such desperate need for housing, would they turn down the economy units in a time of steadily escalating costs?

For what it's worth, the highest prices are found in the West. The price of an existing single-family house in the Western region of the U.S. increased at more than twice the rate of homes on a national basis last year, according to the National Assn. of Realtors.

The median sales price of a single-family home in the West hit $46,100 last year, up 16.4 per cent over 1975 prices. This compares to a national median price of $38,100, a 7.9 per cent jump above 1975 levels.

THE LEAST-COSTLY existing single-family home market in 1976 was in the North-Central region where the median sales price was $32,900. In the South, the median price was $36,500; and in the Northeast, $41,800.

"Many of the increased costs are in areas in which the builder can exercise little control," Tenzer says. "Land and development costs are up nearly 65 per cent in the past five years, and environmental concerns and no-growth restrictions have added about $2,300 to the price of a $40,000 home."

Material costs are up an average 11 per cent in the past year; while labor has edged up 8 per cent in the same time period.

"What we are looking at is the potential for a full-scale consumer revolt," says Kenneth W. Agid,kmarketing director for the Irvine Co., Orange County, California.

YET DESPITE the squeeze on the home buyer, owner-occupied dwellings have climbed steadily since the end of World War II. In 1940, for example, 43.6 per cent of all Americans owned their own home. In 1950, it climbed to 55 per cent; and by 1960 it was up to 61.9 per cent. In 1970, the figure stood at 62.9 per cent; while in 1975, it hit 64.7 per cent.

The poet Edgar A. Guest once wrote: "It takes a heap o' living to make a house a home." To which Ogden Nash chimed in: "And it takes 'a heap o' paying' too."

Most Americans seem ready to pay the price.

Will homes such as this price themseves out of the market?

Renters nearly half of all single-family home buyers

The desire of the American consumer to own his own home has not slowed down, and in fact has accelerated, according to the National Assn. of Realtors.

In a study released recently, the association's department of economics and research provides data on the demographics of the home-buying public, as to age, sex, income, number of children, motives for moving and other information.

Titled "Profile of the Single-Family Home Buyer," the study is based on the Realtor researchers' analysis of the Census Bureau's "Annual Housing Survey," conducted for the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

"WHILE THE DATA are from the 1973 Census Bureau tape, the most recent one available at the time our study was made," said association president Harry G. Elmstrom, "most of the conclusions are still valid in today's market."

The initial intention, the report says, was to compare and contrast buyers of new homes with those of existing homes. While some differences were found between the two groups, the research team was more impressed by unexpected similarities between buyers of new and existing homes.

The "conventional wisdom" holds that current homeowners generally move up to new homes, while current renters and newly formed families tend to move into less-expensive resale homes. However, the study indicated that renters were as likely to buy new homes as were previous owners, and that newly formed families also were well represented in the new home market.

A thorough review of the data indicated that the most revealing comparison would be among these three groups: previous owners, renters and newly formed households, the report says.

THE RATE OF home ownership has risen steadily, according to the study, in all areas of the country, from the end-of-depression 1940 low of 43.6 per cent to 64.6 per cent in 1974 for the United States as a whole. The rate for that year was 59 per cent in the Northeast, 69 per cent in the North Central region, with the West and South between those two figures.

While the incidence of home ownership rises with income, as expected, homeowners constitute a majority in all but the lowest (under $5,000) income categories, rising from 48 per cent for those with incomes under $5,000 to 87 per cent for the $25,000 or more households.

The report shows a substantial increase in ownership among black households, from 23.6 per cent in 1940 to 43.9 per cent in 1974.

As to the three categories of buyers, the association regards as perhaps the most startling finding the discovery that previous renters accounted for nearly one-half of all single-family home purchasers, with 47.8 per cent of the market in 1973. Previous owners accounted for 41.7 per cent and newly formed households the remaining 10.5 per cent.

WHILE FIGURES indicate that 77 per cent of all households were headed by males in 1973, the report reveals that nearly 94 per cent of single-family home purchases were made by households headed by males.

The fact that home buyers are more likely to have children living at home (68.4 per cent) than the general population coincides with the finding that nearly half of the homebuying market consists of buyers under 35 years of age.

The percentage of buyers under age 35, with the median age in brackets, was 46.7 per cent (36) for all buyers; for previous owners it was 33.7 per cent (40); for previous renters, 63 per cent (32); and for new households, 62.9 per cent (30).

Although the buyers of single-family homes are younger than the average householder, the report says, they generally have higher incomes. In 1973 the median family income was $10,500, but the median income of the home-buyer was $13,300, 26.7 per cent greater than for all households.

Income levels varied among the three categories, with previous owners having a median income of $14,700. The median for previous renters was $12,800 and for newly-formed households, $11,300.

PEOPLE MOVE for a variety of reasons, and the study divides moving motives into three categories, as did the Census Bureau survey: employment, family and other. The latter category includes such items as the desire to become a homeowner, the desire to upgrade one's housing, either in terms of house size and amenities or neighborhood, and the quality of the community's educational system.

The motives of previous renters were quite different from those of previous owners, the study found. Among previous renters, the desire to own a home motivated 51.7 per cent, far outranking the need for larger accommodations (10.7 per cent), job transfer (5.1 per cent), need for a better house (4.1 per cent), the desire to set up one's own household (4.0 per cent) and obtaining a new job (3.5 per cent).

No such single motive dominated home purchases by previous owners. Nearly one out of five (19.4 per cent) needed a larger home, and 10.8 per cent needed a better home. Job transfers accounted for 11.2 per cent, and new jobs, 6.8 per cent. Neighborhood considerations motivated 6.4 per cent of this group of buyers.

Look for solar energy to be less costly: report

by R.M. SORGE

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Solar energy will be cheaper than nuclear power by 1986 and require smaller investment according to a new detailed research study.

The report says the price of solar energy, currently produced at a cost of $270 per megawatt hour of electricity, will be reduced in future solar conversion plants to $24 in sunny locations. The price will fall to $30.60 in composite sunny and overcast locations in the United States.

Nuclear energy, on the other hand, now costing $34.70 per megawatt hour, will go up to $48.10 during the same period due to escalating costs.

The report titled "Goals in a Global Community," includes a wide-ranging discussion of solar versus nuclear power as the main sources of energy for the future and their potential consequences for social and economic developments.

The report, prepared by a 100-member research team, was funded by the National Science Foundation.

Unitar startled U.S. energy officials earlier this year with a symposium report stating that oil and gas resources would be available for a long transition period even if it "should last a hundred years or more."

Introducing the new report at Unitar's offices, Dr. Ervin Lazlo, its editor, emphasized that "solar energy, through its many technologies, constitutes the best and only rational choice" for the future.

In a statement similar to one made by explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau at the U.N. on June 3, Lazlo said that the bulk of government research money is spent for the development of nuclear power and only a trifle for solar energy.

The report said if the market for solar cells were increased from about 100 kilowatts in 1975 to about 500,000 kilowatts in 1986, the cost of cells would drop from $17,000 in 1975 (and about $13,000 currently) to around $500 in 1986.

The report also points to the social advantages of solar energy, which it says is "structurally less coercive and more participative, compared to hard technologies such as nuclear energy." It is thus "an affirmation of human rights and freedom of expression."

In less philosphical terms, solar energy producing units will be built ings in accordance with needs and into private homes and public build-surroundings.

Other advantages mentioned are exclusion of environmental risks and reduction of nuclear proliferation. Solar energy plants will not require "security measures to protect a vulnerable and hazardous technology," the report says.

In international life, the report notes, solar energy will promote global solidarity. Solar establishments are "free of secrecy requirements" and "permit a full and open sharing of technology and economic information."

In a statement similar to one made by explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau at the U.N. on June 3, Lazlo said that the bulk of government research money is spent for the development of nuclear power and only a trifle for solar energy.

The report said if the market for solar cells were increased from about 100 kilowatts in 1975 to about 500,000 kilowatts in 1986, the cost of cells would drop from $17,000 in 1975 (and about $13,000 currently) to around $500 in 1986.

The report also points to the social advantages of solar energy, which it says is "structurally less coercive and more participative, compared to hard technologies such as nuclear energy." It is thus "an affirmation of human rights and freedom of expression."

In less philosphical terms, solar energy producing units will be built ings in accordance with needs and into private homes and public build-surroundings.

Other advantages mentioned are exclusion of environmental risks and reduction of nuclear proliferation. Solar energy plants will not require "security measures to protect a vulnerable and hazardous technology," the report says.

In international life, the report notes, solar energy will promote global solidarity. Solar establishments are "free of secrecy requirements" and "permit a full and open sharing of technology and economic information."

There's never been a better time to develop the habit of investing in yourself.

Everyone is a creature of habit — bad habits and good ones. At First Federal Savings we've observed the habit of saving in our customer friends for 42 years. # Sharp decline among those living in substandard units

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing conditions have improved dramatically in rural areas over the past quarter century, but twice as many rural families as urban families still live in substandard homes, an Agriculture Dept. study says.

The study, prepared by economists Ronald Bird and Ronald Kampe, said the number of American families living in substandard housing fell from 15.2 million to 3.8 million between 1950 and 1975.

In nonmetropolitan areas, the number of substandard homes declined 79 per cent during the quarter century compared with a 69 per cent drop in big urban centers, the study showed.

BUT WHILE THE proportionate gain was greater in rural areas, the Agriculture Dept. review showed that the percentage of families living in rundown housing, including homes without central heating or plumbing, remained greater in rural regions than in metropolitan centers.

According to the study, 8 out of every 100 families in nonmetropolitan areas still lived in substandard units in 1975. In metropolitan areas, only 4 out of every 100 households occupied housing classed as substandard.

"Despite nonmetro housing improvement, there were still 1.9 million households living in 1975 (compared with 9.1 million 25 years earlier). The poor, the blacks and the aged occupy a disproportionate share of such housing," the report said.

Bird and Kampe said their study showed that elderly families, where the household head is 65 or older, are occupying a growing percentage of substandard homes.

ESTIMATES INDICATE that in 1950 elderly households occupied 18 per cent of all substandard units in nonmetropolitan areas. By 1975, the percentage had risen to 35 per cent, the study said.

The sharpest gain came among households in which an elderly person lives alone or with non-relatives. Bird and Kampe said the problem may be that most of the people involved own their homes and may not be able to afford improvements.

Estimates for blacks showed that they, like the aged, got upgraded housing over the 25 years — but they still trail average conditions for whites.

In 1950 the study showed 96 out of every 100 black households living in nonmetropolitan areas were in substandard housing, compared with 32 in 1975.

For white rural families, an estimat showed 55 per cent living in substandard housing in 1950 but only 6 per cent in 1975. Considering these population shifts, the report estimated that 28 of every 100 substandard homes in nonmetropolitan areas in 1975 were occupied by blacks, compared with 15 of every 100 a quarter century earlier.

Plains land a deal—but for whom?

Bernard Meltzer

On real estate

I am often amazed at the ingenuity shown by American enterprise. The following example is one of the best land subdivision programs I have ever seen.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We recently saw an advertisement that showed we can become the official owner of a square inch of land known as a mini-plantation. It doesn't seem like much, but it's right next to President Carter's ranch in Plains, Ga.

I would think that this land may become valuable some day, being so close to a presidential property. Would you consider this a good investment? — Opportunist.

It certainly is a good investment. Not for you, but for the company which owns the land now. If you take the time to figure it out, there are over 6 million square inches in an cre of land. At a rate of $11 per square inch, this would probably be the most expensive parcel of land in the entire world.

It would be more expensive than downtown Manhattan, London or Tokyo. For $11, it may be a good joke to show your friends, but the one who will really be laughing is the smart entrepreneur who decided to subdivide this land in Plains.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: For all the years we lived in our other house, the landlord took care of repairs. We have recently moved, and we are again renting a house. But we're having troubles we didn't have before.

The air conditioning in the house is not working. We called the landlord after the first warm spell, but he says it's our responsibility to have it repaired. He and my husband had a yelling match over the telephone, but my husband certainly didn't come out the winner.

Isn't the landlord responsible for making all repairs when you rent a house? — We've been spoiled.

I assume that the lease you signed obligates you to make all repairs. This is fairly common in leases for rental houses.

This is another reason why it is so important to read your lease extremely carefully before you sign it. And that includes the fine print.

So unless you want to swelter this summer, you had better take on the responsiblity of having the air conditioning system repaired.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband and I are in a terrible bind. Our problem is very serious indeed. I hope you can help us.

Several months ago my husband was in an accident and was unable to work until very recently. As a result, we missed four mortgage payments. When he went back to work, we managed to scrape together the penalties and arrears.

But the bank refused to accept it! They want us to pay the entire amount of the mortgage, which is ridiculous. We don't have that kind of money, nor can we raise it.

When this happened, we called our lawyer immediately. He had the nerve to tell us that our mortgage contract contains an "acceleration clause," and that the bank is in the right to demand payment of the entire sum outstanding.

What kind of a bank and what kind of a lawyer do we have? — Who can we tust.

I'm afraid you really are in trouble. The bank is acting within its rights to enforce this claim. Your lawyer, too, is offering you proper advice.

Almost all mortgages contain "acceleration clauses." This means that when default occurs, the entire principal sum becomes due and payable immediately.

The fact that you have missed four payments constitutes default.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our new apartment has a garbage disposal unit in the kitchen. It's terrific!

What we don't know about it is how to keep it clean and in good working order. The apartment building's maintenance department didn't give us any instructions on its care. So we thought maybe you'd know.

Also, do you know what we can put into it for grinding and what we cannot? — Novices at this.

A garbage disposal unit will eliminate vegetable refuse, egg shells, fruit rinds and pits, soft foods and even will grind up bones. Some manufacturers claim that bones act as an abrasive cleaner on the disposals.

Not much care is required for a garbage disposal unit. It is not necessary to oil it, since the motor is permanently lubricated. The unit scours itself each time you use it, so it does not have to be cleaned internally.

Do not use drain-cleaning chemicals, as their action would be harmful to the unit. If something gets into the grinder that shouldn't be there turn the motor off, take off the top and remove the foreign object. You can tell when this happens because if something gets into the grinder that shouldn't be there, the motor will protest by making unusually loud noises.

Electric heat pump way of the future?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — The electric heat pump which has been around a lot of years but has not yet lived up to its potential, could be significantly improved to provide year-round heating and cooling even in the colder parts of the United States, according to the Electric Power Research Institute.

Heat pumps, which operate on the basic heat transfer principles enunciated by the famous English physicist Lord Kelvin, are used now to a considerable extent in the South, Southwest and Far West.

In summer, the pump removes heat from the inside air of the home and exhausts it into the exterior atmosphere. In winter, the pump extracts heat from the outside air or from water to heat the inside of the house.

The EPRI project manager, Joseph Pepper, said presently many homes equipped with heat pumps still require supplementary electric resistance heating.

Save on air conditioning by jacking up thermostat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cutting air conditioning costs can take some of the heat out of electricity bills during the hot summer months and Honeywell Inc., has come up with two ways to remain cool and still save on central air conditioning.

One method, designed for houses that are unoccupied during the day, can trim costs by roughly 20 per cent and the other for houses used almost around the clock, by 35 per cent.

"We ran tests on a model home and family and checked them against weather data from 26 cities for a 10-year period to create these two systems," said Wayne E. Petersen, vice president and general manager of Honeywell's residential division.

"HOMEOWNERS can start saving energy right now," Petersen said. "All they have to do is go to that round thermostat on the wall and turn it up for the cooling season. For the first method, which requires two changes a day, it's simpler to let a clock thermostat do it for you automatically."

For houses that are deserted during the day, Petersen said the thermostat setting should be 80 degrees from 5 a.m. to 4 p.m., then rolled back to 75 for the remaining 13 hours.

This approach translates into energy savings of 20.3 per cent in Los Angeles and 10.9 per cent in Miami, Petersen said.

Homeowners who use their houses most of the day should set the thermostat at 78 and leave it there throughout the summer, he said.

This method can slash energy costs by 35.6 per cent in Los Angeles and 14.2 per cent in Miami.

PETERSEN POINTED out that many consumers associate clock-thermostats and temperature setting adjustments with saving money on winter heating bills.

"But in some parts of the country air conditioning is a much bigger expense than heating," he said. "To save energy in winter you put on a sweater and turn the dial down. In summer you dress cooler and turn it up."

The cost of installing an automatic clock-thermostat would be covered, in most cases, by the energy saved over a period of less than two years, Petersen said. "And after that, the clock-thermostat keeps on saving every year, and saves more with every price increase for fuel."

Energy pinch may force rebirth of cities: Brown

The energy crunch may be the stimulant needed to rebuild our nation's cities, said U.S. Rep. Gary Brown, R-Mich.

Brown made that prediction and raised some questions about President Carter's proposed energy program in a recent address before The National Assn. of Realtors.

If the high cost of gasoline and expensive insulation standards for new housing have the likely inhibiting effect on suburban growth, Brown said, rehabilitation of existing housing in our cities would be the only option remaining.

WHILE THE CARTER program has essentially the same objectives and approaches as the Ford program, Brown said, the principal Carter strategy is to discourage the use of energy through financial disincentives.

An excise tax at the wellhead gradually will increase until the price of domestic oil reaches the world price, Brown told the real estate salesmen, and this could mean a price rise of as much as $10 a barrel, or 30 cents a gallon.

Such a tax would apply to crude oil before it ever reaches the gas pump, where an additional tax of up to 50 cents a gallon could be applied over the next 10 years.

This increase in the cost of energy may have a serious impact on mortgage finance concepts, he said. Until now, the cost of utilities has not been considered in determining mortgage eligibility. However, as the cost of utilities becomes a major factor in the homeowner's monthly payment obligations, lenders will have to consider them in reviewing an applicant's loan eligibility, Brown said.

WHILE THE PRESIDENT has proposed performance standards of energy efficiency for new construction, Brown said, it is not yet known whether achievement of such standards would be voluntary or mandatory.

Brown cited several instances of a lack of balance in government's approach to solving problems. Nuclear energy, for example, would seem to hold the most hope for a virtually limitless energy supply, Brown said, but a concern about nuclear accidents and disposal of nuclear wastes has caused heavy opposition to further development.

"What is lacking is a proper balance between our nation's needs and the problems that meeting those needs might bring about," he said.

Brown also said he was puzzled over what he sees as the conflict between the President's proposal to increase coal production and his support of the current bill to curb strip mining.

"The President has said we should increase our production of coal by 400 million tons," he said. "However, the strip mining bill which he supports is estimated to decrease coal production by as much as 100 million tons. Which proposal does he really favor?"

Energy pinch may force rebirth of cities: Brown

The energy crunch may be the stimulant needed to rebuild our nation's cities, said U.S. Rep. Gary Brown, R-Mich.

Brown made that prediction and raised some questions about President Carter's proposed energy program in a recent address before The National Assn. of Realtors.

If the high cost of gasoline and expensive insulation standards for new housing have the likely inhibiting effect on suburban growth, Brown said, rehabilitation of existing housing in our cities would be the only option remaining.

WHILE THE CARTER program has essentially the same objectives and approaches as the Ford program, Brown said, the principal Carter strategy is to discourage the use of energy through financial disincentives.

An excise tax at the wellhead gradually will increase until the price of domestic oil reaches the world price, Brown told the real estate salesmen, and this could mean a price rise of as much as $10 a barrel, or 30 cents a gallon.

Such a tax would apply to crude oil before it ever reaches the gas pump, where an additional tax of up to 50 cents a gallon could be applied over the next 10 years.

This increase in the cost of energy may have a serious impact on mortgage finance concepts, he said. Until now, the cost of utilities has not been considered in determining mortgage eligibility. However, as the cost of utilities becomes a major factor in the homeowner's monthly payment obligations, lenders will have to consider them in reviewing an applicant's loan eligibility, Brown said.

WHILE THE PRESIDENT has proposed performance standards of energy efficiency for new construction, Brown said, it is not yet known whether achievement of such standards would be voluntary or mandatory.

Brown cited several instances of a lack of balance in government's approach to solving problems. Nuclear energy, for example, would seem to hold the most hope for a virtually limitless energy supply, Brown said, but a concern about nuclear accidents and disposal of nuclear wastes has caused heavy opposition to further development.

"What is lacking is a proper balance between our nation's needs and the problems that meeting those needs might bring about," he said.

Brown also said he was puzzled over what he sees as the conflict between the President's proposal to increase coal production and his support of the current bill to curb strip mining.

"The President has said we should increase our production of coal by 400 million tons," he said. "However, the strip mining bill which he supports is estimated to decrease coal production by as much as 100 million tons. Which proposal does he really favor?"

Wallpaper, gypsumboard —tough to separate 'em

Herman Baum

The house doctor

Dear House Doctor: My wife and I intend to repaper several rooms in our home.

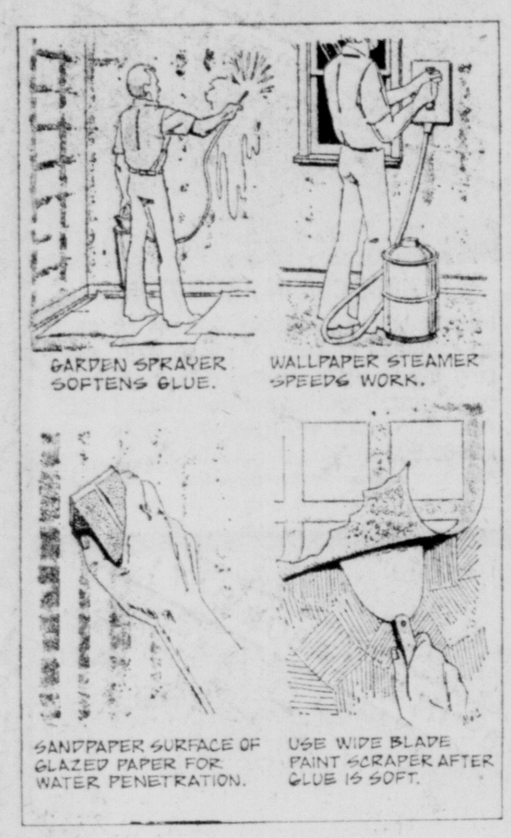
A salesman at the store where we were looking at wallpaper said the paper now on the walls must be removed first and this can be done by wetting it. However, he was a bit vague about how to do this. Please explain the procedure. P. H.

A. The procedure depends to some degree on the type of covering now on the wall and the material of the wall surface. A plastered wall presents no problem, but the operation can be difficult or impossible on gypsumboard.

Since you have a large area, it will make the job easier if you rent a wallpaper steamer from a store that specializes in wallpaper.

With the steamer in operation, start by holding the steamer plate against the wall in a lower right-hand corner. It should require only a few moments for the steam to soften the glue. Move the steamer up to the next area and pull the paper already heated away from the wall. The use of a broad blade paint scrapper may be helpful.



GARDEN SPRAYER SOFTENS GLUE.
WALLPAPER STEAMER SPEEDS WORK.
SANDPAPER SURFACE OF GLAZED PAPER FOR WATER PENETRATION.
USE WIDE BLADE PAINT SCRAPER AFTER GLUE IS SOFT.

A TANK-TYPE garden sprayer may be used for paper removal from plastered walls but not from gypsumboard. Cover the floor close to the walls with old newspaper, as some water will run down on it.

This process is slower since the cold water does not penetrate and soften the glue as rapidly as steam. You may have to spray an area several times before the glue is soft enough for the paper to be pulled and scraped away.

If you do not have a steamer for use over gypsumboard, apply hot water with a sponge, covering a small area at a time. This should permit softening the glue before the water soaks through to damage the paper covering of the gypsumboard.

Some papers have a glazed surface which neither water nor steam will penetrate. If you have this type, it is necessary to rub the paper with coarse sandpaper which will scratch through the glazed surface so water or steam will pass through it.

If the use of any of the methods covering of the gypsumboard, discontinue its use and plan to apply the new wallpaper over the old.

Outpatients' clinic

Dr. T. M. M. — I am not an authority on the repair of clothes dryers, but since you want to do the repairing yourself, have a bookstore order a copy of "How to Fix It — Clothes Dryers," published by Arco Publishing Co. The price is $4.95.

D. E. S. — An excellent product for the sealing of a crack in a plastered wall that continues to reopen is Krack-Kote. This is purchased as a kit and uses glass cloth instead of paper tape.

R. W. B. — Only high-gloss oil base enamel should be used on walls and ceilings of a bathroom. Any mildew now on the walls and ceilings must be removed and the surface washed with a strong disinfectant.

Dear House Doctor: Please tell me where I may obtain information about repairing a rain leak in a white tile roof. E. R. S.

A. I doubt that such instructions have ever been published.

The tile does not make the roof raintight — this is accomplished by the layers of heavy roofing felt beneath it. The tile only protects the felt from weathering. The removal of large areas of the tile is often required to locate the leak in the felt.

Dear House Doctor: Mildew is forming on the underside of our roof and on the rafters. If we replace the roof, what is the best thing to put under the shingles to prevent this from happening again? Mrs. T. E. W.

A. The roof has nothing to do with this condition and there is no reason to replace it if it is otherwise sound. High humidity in the attic is responsible for the mildew growth and insufficient ventilation in the attic produces the high humidity. Additional ventilating louvers should be added or existing louvers increased in size.

Paint over the fungus with either copper napthenate or pentachlorophenol. Both chemicals are extremely poisonous and precautions on the label must be followed.

Dear House Doctor: What can we do to seal a crack in a concrete cellar floor? After a heavy rain or rapidly melting snow, our cellar is flooded by water coming through this crack. Mrs. M. M. S.

A. The crack should be sealed with hydraulic cement.

It will be necessary to widen the crack to about three-fourths of an inch. A small amount of the cement is then packed into the opening. It hardens very fast and expands as it hardens, completely sealing the opening.

Dear House Doctor: We converted a carport into a screened porch. We added a three-foot-high wall around the perimeter with screens from there to the roof.

When the weather turns warm after several cold days, so much water forms on the floor that it is dangerous to walk on. How can this be corrected? T. H. E.

A. Moisture in the air is condensing on the cold surface of the concrete. In new construction, this trouble can be prevented by placing heating coils or electric heating cables beneath the concrete to prevent it from becoming so cold as to induce condensation.

In your case, the best solution is to install a wood floor over the concrete. The concrete should be made waterproof by covering it with roofing felt sandwiched between applications of hot asphalt. The wood flooring is installed over two-by-fours embedded in the asphalt.

This process is slower since the cold water does not penetrate and soften the glue as rapidly as steam. You may have to spray an area several times before the glue is soft enough for the paper to be pulled and scraped away.

If you do not have a steamer for use over gypsumboard, apply hot water with a sponge, covering a small area at a time. This should permit softening the glue before the water soaks through to damage the paper covering of the gypsumboard.

Some papers have a glazed surface which neither water nor steam will penetrate. If you have this type, it is necessary to rub the paper with coarse sandpaper which will scratch through the glazed surface so water or steam will pass through it.

If the use of any of the methods covering of the gypsumboard, discontinue its use and plan to apply the new wallpaper over the old.

Dr. T. M. M. — I am not an authority on the repair of clothes dryers, but since you want to do the repairing yourself, have a bookstore order a copy of "How to Fix It — Clothes Dryers," published by Arco Publishing Co. The price is $4.95.

D. E. S. — An excellent product for the sealing of a crack in a plastered wall that continues to reopen is Krack-Kote. This is purchased as a kit and uses glass cloth instead of paper tape.

R. W. B. — Only high-gloss oil base enamel should be used on walls and ceilings of a bathroom. Any mildew now on the walls and ceilings must be removed and the surface washed with a strong disinfectant.

Dear House Doctor: Please tell me where I may obtain information about repairing a rain leak in a white tile roof. E. R. S.

A. I doubt that such instructions have ever been published.

The tile does not make the roof raintight — this is accomplished by the layers of heavy roofing felt beneath it. The tile only protects the felt from weathering. The removal of large areas of the tile is often required to locate the leak in the felt.

Dear House Doctor: Mildew is forming on the underside of our roof and on the rafters. If we replace the roof, what is the best thing to put under the shingles to prevent this from happening again? Mrs. T. E. W.

A. The roof has nothing to do with this condition and there is no reason to replace it if it is otherwise sound. High humidity in the attic is responsible for the mildew growth and insufficient ventilation in the attic produces the high humidity. Additional ventilating louvers should be added or existing louvers increased in size.

Paint over the fungus with either copper napthenate or pentachlorophenol. Both chemicals are extremely poisonous and precautions on the label must be followed.

Dear House Doctor: What can we do to seal a crack in a concrete cellar floor? After a heavy rain or rapidly melting snow, our cellar is flooded by water coming through this crack. Mrs. M. M. S.

A. The crack should be sealed with hydraulic cement.

It will be necessary to widen the crack to about three-fourths of an inch. A small amount of the cement is then packed into the opening. It hardens very fast and expands as it hardens, completely sealing the opening.

Dear House Doctor: We converted a carport into a screened porch. We added a three-foot-high wall around the perimeter with screens from there to the roof.

When the weather turns warm after several cold days, so much water forms on the floor that it is dangerous to walk on. How can this be corrected? T. H. E.

A. Moisture in the air is condensing on the cold surface of the concrete. In new construction, this trouble can be prevented by placing heating coils or electric heating cables beneath the concrete to prevent it from becoming so cold as to induce condensation.

In your case, the best solution is to install a wood floor over the concrete. The concrete should be made waterproof by covering it with roofing felt sandwiched between applications of hot asphalt. The wood flooring is installed over two-by-fours embedded in the asphalt.

Realty classes offered in area

The Real Estate Education Co. of Chicago will sponsor an 8-week evening course in real estate practices beginning Aug. 2 in Palatine.

The free course will be conducted from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Palatine Howard Johnson's Motor Inn, Ill. Rte. 53 and Northwest Highway.

The course will give students a working knowledge of real estate practices and terminology, and will qualify one for the Illinois real estate licensing examination, said a spokesman for the firm.

ROBERT KYLE, president, said "In most cases, families can rely on the marketing skill and the ethical conduct of real estate brokers and on the legal advice of their attorney."

However, Kyle said, "A man or woman about to be involved in a real estate transaction should obtain a basic working knowledge of real estate practice and terminology. This can make dealing with real estate or law professionals more productive."

The course will be conducted by Wayne Michelsen, attorney, vice president and manager of operations for Employee Transfer Corp., a division of Chicago Title and Trust Co.

A home study program will be offered for persons who are unable to attend classroom sessions.

Preregistration is required through the Real Estate Education Co., 500 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610, 644-0475.

'Rates to stay between 8.5-9%'

The president of the nation's largest and oldest private mortgage insurance company said recently that he expects home mortgage rates to stay in the 8.5 to 9 per cent range "through this building season."

Leon T. Kendall, president of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corp., Milwaukee said mortgage rates have increased slightly in many markets during recent months because of "strength of demand for home loans, not any shortage of funds.

"However, savings flows, although slowing somewhat, continue to be quite respectable. As the year moves on, some new supplies of funds may begin to move toward home loans, and balance off that surge in demand. For one, commercial banks are looking at home loans again. Secondly, the mortgage-backed certificate can bring non-traditional funds to the shelter field — money from pension funds, bank trust departments, even international investors," Kendall said.

Builders vow to combat loss of businesses

Chicago area contractors, alarmed at sagging business confidence in Illinois and at detrimental government actions that they contend discourage new construction in the state, are uniting to fight these trends.

John C. Telander, president of the Builders' Assn. of Chicago, said, "Building contractors can no longer ignore the harsh facts: Illinois as an economic unit has lost its competitive edge in attracting business. Insurance, taxes, and labor costs are driving industry to new homes in other states, most noticeably the Sun Belt states."

To counteract this, Telander said, Chicago area contractors are combining to negotiate labor contracts more favorable to new construction, and sell business on the advantages of staying in the Chicago area.

WORKING THROUGH the builders assn., the contractors were successful for the first time last year in negotiating moderate wage settlements with the major construction trades. Three-year contracts were negotiated with moderate wage increases of about 5 per cent, below the national average.

The contractors also managed to gain some work rule changes that allowed for greater productivity. These changes were made with the cooperation of union leaders, who also realized the depressing effect high wage rates were having on Chicago area construction, Telander said.

Contractor unity also was a key factor in the recent defeat of the proposed "common situs/secondary boycott" bill in the U.S. House.

"The bill's sponsor admitted in defeat that the huge number of personal phone calls and letters from contractors and associations across the country did their job," Telander said.

He said the builders association, hoped to have similar successes in Illinois when it pursues the repeal of the Structural Work Act and revisions to the Workmen's Compensation Law later this year.

THE WORKMEN'S Compensation Act, revised in 1975 to include needed reforms, has put a heavy burden on Illinois business, he said. The new provisions raised Illinois compensation costs to the third highest in the nation. The number of Illinois businesses and industries applying to the state's assigned insurance risk pool nearly tripled in the first year after the law was enacted.

"The provisions of this act have subjected Illinois businesses to devastating cost increases and have driven many companies out of Illinois," Telander said.

He noted that just a few months ago Wisconsin sent a delegation of 28 businessmen and government officials into the Chicago area to recruit new businesses. They cited their more equitable compensation act as one of the main benefits of doing business in Wisconsin instead of Illinois, he said.

The Structural Work Act, more commonly known as the Scaffold Act, was enacted in 1907 by the Illinois General Assembly to provide protection for workers in the construction industry employed in and around scaffolds, hoists, ladders, or other mechanical contrivances. With the passage of a workmen's compensation law some years later the Scaffold Act became obsolete, since workers no longer needed the act's protection in order to recover against their employer, he said. Unlike most other states, Illinois never repealed its Structural Work Act.

AS A RESULT, Telander said, a construction worker in Illinois who can bring himself within the purview of the act has "two bites at the apple." He can recover against his employer under the Worker's Compensation Act and then under provisions of the Scaffold Act, recover again against some third person such as an owner, architect or other contractor who has the right to supervise or exercise some control over the work.

Such third person is generally able to pass the legal liability back to the employer, so that in effect the employer has to pay twice for the same accident, Telander said.

The high Worker's Compensation benefits now enjoyed by construction workers not only make such double recovery unnecessary, he said, but the windfall benefits have pushed insurance rates up to alarming levels and in some cases is making it difficult if not impossible, for some contractors to get insurance.

The Builders Assn. is helping to work for repeal of this outdated and punitive law, he said.

In addition to working to make the economic climate more favorable for business in Illinois, Builders' Assn. members are working to attract new business and encourage industry already located in the Chicago area to start new construction in 1977. The current "build now" campaign lists the advantages of starting construction this year and outlines Chicago's advantages as a business location, including its central location, its ample supply of water and electricity, its excellent transportation system, its econommc diversification and its large pool of skilled labor.

Builders vow to combat loss of businesses

Chicago area contractors, alarmed at sagging business confidence in Illinois and at detrimental government actions that they contend discourage new construction in the state, are uniting to fight these trends.

John C. Telander, president of the Builders' Assn. of Chicago, said, "Building contractors can no longer ignore the harsh facts: Illinois as an economic unit has lost its competitive edge in attracting business. Insurance, taxes, and labor costs are driving industry to new homes in other states, most noticeably the Sun Belt states."

To counteract this, Telander said, Chicago area contractors are combining to negotiate labor contracts more favorable to new construction, and sell business on the advantages of staying in the Chicago area.

WORKING THROUGH the builders assn., the contractors were successful for the first time last year in negotiating moderate wage settlements with the major construction trades. Three-year contracts were negotiated with moderate wage increases of about 5 per cent, below the national average.

The contractors also managed to gain some work rule changes that allowed for greater productivity. These changes were made with the cooperation of union leaders, who also realized the depressing effect high wage rates were having on Chicago area construction, Telander said.

Contractor unity also was a key factor in the recent defeat of the proposed "common situs/secondary boycott" bill in the U.S. House.

"The bill's sponsor admitted in defeat that the huge number of personal phone calls and letters from contractors and associations across the country did their job," Telander said.

He said the builders association, hoped to have similar successes in Illinois when it pursues the repeal of the Structural Work Act and revisions to the Workmen's Compensation Law later this year.

THE WORKMEN'S Compensation Act, revised in 1975 to include needed reforms, has put a heavy burden on Illinois business, he said. The new provisions raised Illinois compensation costs to the third highest in the nation. The number of Illinois businesses and industries applying to the state's assigned insurance risk pool nearly tripled in the first year after the law was enacted.

"The provisions of this act have subjected Illinois businesses to devastating cost increases and have driven many companies out of Illinois," Telander said.

He noted that just a few months ago Wisconsin sent a delegation of 28 businessmen and government officials into the Chicago area to recruit new businesses. They cited their more equitable compensation act as one of the main benefits of doing business in Wisconsin instead of Illinois, he said.

The Structural Work Act, more commonly known as the Scaffold Act, was enacted in 1907 by the Illinois General Assembly to provide protection for workers in the construction industry employed in and around scaffolds, hoists, ladders, or other mechanical contrivances. With the passage of a workmen's compensation law some years later the Scaffold Act became obsolete, since workers no longer needed the act's protection in order to recover against their employer, he said. Unlike most other states, Illinois never repealed its Structural Work Act.

AS A RESULT, Telander said, a construction worker in Illinois who can bring himself within the purview of the act has "two bites at the apple." He can recover against his employer under the Worker's Compensation Act and then under provisions of the Scaffold Act, recover again against some third person such as an owner, architect or other contractor who has the right to supervise or exercise some control over the work.

Such third person is generally able to pass the legal liability back to the employer, so that in effect the employer has to pay twice for the same accident, Telander said.

The high Worker's Compensation benefits now enjoyed by construction workers not only make such double recovery unnecessary, he said, but the windfall benefits have pushed insurance rates up to alarming levels and in some cases is making it difficult if not impossible, for some contractors to get insurance.

The Builders Assn. is helping to work for repeal of this outdated and punitive law, he said.

In addition to working to make the economic climate more favorable for business in Illinois, Builders' Assn. members are working to attract new business and encourage industry already located in the Chicago area to start new construction in 1977. The current "build now" campaign lists the advantages of starting construction this year and outlines Chicago's advantages as a business location, including its central location, its ample supply of water and electricity, its excellent transportation system, its econommc diversification and its large pool of skilled labor.

Chevrolet shows record July sales

Paced by a record sales performance by Chevrolet, U.S. automakers reported Wednesday early July new car sales were up 15 per cent over last year and the second best ever. Chevrolet, which completed a sales incentive contest in the July 1-10 period to boost its report, accounted for 72,768 of the 192,805 cars sold in the 10-day period — a 38 per cent share. The automakers sold 190,938 cars in the period last year. The percentages were computed on a rate of 27,544 cars sold in each of seven selling days this year and 23,867 in eight selling days last year. The record for the period was the 30,702 cars sold each day in the opening period of July in 1973. With the strong Chevrolet Division showing, General Motors recorded a 24 per cent gain. The Ford Motor Co. reported an 8 per cent gain, Chrysler was up 2 per cent and American Motors recorded a 12 per cent decline. Because of Chevrolet's record performance, GM grabbed on a 60 per cent share of the domestic market, compared with a normal 54 per cent. Ford's 26 per cent share was down from a year ago when its Ford division had a sales contest ending.

Miller sues Rheingold over 'Lite'

The Miller Brewing Co., makers of "Lite" beer, Wednesday sued Rheingold Breweries for allegedly adopting a similar trademark for its low-calorie suds. In a lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court, the Milwaukee firm of Miller charged that Rheingold infringed on Miller's "Lite" trademark for beer with fewer calories. Miller charged that Rheingold, based in Orange, N.J., began marketing its own version of light beer only aftr Miller spent $12 million to advertise and market the low-calorie product. "As a result of consumer acceptance evidenced by sales . . . Lite beer has come to be identified and recognized by a sizeable sgement of the public mind as a reduced calorie, low carbohydrate beer," the suit said. In 1975, Rheingold began advertising its beer, Gablinger's, as the "original light beer" as well as marketing a beer labeled "extra light."

Ford hopes for Fairmont success

The Ford Motor Co. is counting on its new compact Fairmont, with an estimated fuel economy rating of 26 miles per gallon, to help it meet the government's 1978 fuel economy standards. Preliminary Environmental Protection Agency tests released by the automaker Wednesday showed the new model, which will debut in late September, averaged 33 m.p.g. on the highway and 22 m.p.g. in the city for a combined 26 m.p.g. figure. Those results were with the base engine, a 2.3-liter (140 cubic inches) four-cylinder powerplant with an automatic transmission. Fuel economy figures with a manual transmission have not been tabulated, but they should be even better. The Fairmont and its look-alike cousin from the Lincoln-Mercury Division, the Mercury Zephyr, are replacing the venerable Ford Maverick and Mercury Comet models.

Gould looks to buy Calif. firm

Gould, Inc. of Rolling Meadows said Wednesday it is negotiating to acquire Hoffman Electronics, Inc., of El Monte, Calif., by exchanging 0.31 shares of Gould common for each share of Hoffman. Hoffman, which had sales of $62.8 million last year, makes avionic and audio-visual educational equipment.

U.S. investigates steel price fixing

The Justice Dept. Wednesday said it has begun a civil investigation into the possibility of price fixing in sales of hot rolled sheet steel by steel companies including some of the nation's major steel producers. The antitrust division has sent "civil investigative demands", equivalent to subpoenas, to a number of companies to obtain records of pricing influences on hot rolled sheet steel, spokesman Mark Sheehan said. Sheehan said the civil investigative demands, or "CIDs," are authorized by statute for use in antitrust investigations.

GMC, Chevy vans, trucks recalled

General Motors Wednesday is recalling 13,000 Chevrolet and GMC cutaway vans, light-duty motor homes chassis and light duty trucks because of possible brake failures. The automaker said the defect was discovered during in-plant testing. There have been no reports of actual brake failures, accidents or injuries as a result of the defect on 1976 and 1977 models, a spokesman said.

1st National's loan to Lance common in business world

by TONI GINNETTI

When the First National Bank of Chicago agreed in 1975 to loan Georgia millionaire Bert Lance $3.4 million to purchase stock in a bank, the procedure probably was as routine as a $50,000 mortgage loan.

For the average individual, whose biggest lifetime financial liability likely is a home mortgage loan, that might seem a startling fact.

But in the world of high finance, multi-million dollar loans to prominent individuals are hardly out of the ordinary, financial observers say.

AND HAD LANCE, President Carter's budget director, not been faced now with the prospect of divesting his interests in the bank at a time when the bank stock has lost value, the loan would hardly stand out among the hundreds like it that are typically transacted in the nation's major financial institutions.

Lance obtained the loan to purchase 190,000 shares of the National Bank of Georgia. Now Lance has been told to sell his bank stock, which is valued at about half the price he paid for it. The divestiture is part of the Carter administration's financial disclosure guidelines.

Lance said Wednesday he stands to lose $1.5 million if Congress orders him to sell the stock by Dec. 31, but First National Bank of Chicago chairman A. Robert Abboud said Wednesday the bank is not concerned about the loan to Lance.

Financial experts say loans of the type given Lance are "very frequently" transacted and not at all unusual at institutions as large as the First National.

"A LOAN LIKE THAT is not particularly large," one loan expert said. "Even with some of the smaller banks that wouldn't be a tremendous amount. A loan like that would be fairly routine in a bank like that (the First National.)"

Factors such as an individual's stature and reputation play a "very important" role in considering such large loans, the loan expert said. "The bank would look at the individual, his reputation, his 'track record' and I'm sure a personal financial statement," he said.

The loan and Lance's financial situation has come under scrutiny because the lowered current market value of the Georgia bank stock poses a bleak financial picture for Lance if he is required to divest his interests now.

CARTER HAS ASKED the Senate government affairs committee to waive a Dec. 31 deadline for Lance to sell his 21 per cent ownership interests because of the potential loss Lance could incur.

First National Bank of Chicago chairman Abboud said Wednesday the loan to Lance "was fully and satisfactorily collateralized" and a "good piece of business."

He said the bank has made no attempt to renegotiate the terms of the loan nor is there any plan to do so.

Stock market letter writers don't know much

Louis Rukeyser

Pity the poor stockmarket letter writers. People buy their wares to find out where the market is going to be next week, and the one sure thing is that they simply don't know.

As I write this, my day's mail consists of the usual wide assortment of such letters, ranging in sentiment from the wildest optimism to the most outlandish pessimism. There is no consistency to their analysis but there is total consistency to their tone: super-confidence, super-certainty. Why, a fellow reading them one at a time might never guess the underlying reality, which is that every single one of them is absolutely scared to death.

The reason they're actually terrified is that anyone who has gone on record with a series of short-term stock-market predictions knows that he has been totally wrong an embarrassingly large percentage of the time. The honest ones admit this; the majority try to bluff.

NOR IS THE REASON for such repeated failure difficult to discern. If the stock market were as readily predictable as they pretend, they would have no need to sell their literary services. They would, instead, be richer than Morgan, more powerful than Rockefeller. Are we to believe that everyone who peddles a get-rich-quick sheet to the public is doing so merely as a form of philanthropy?

There are, to be sure, several distinct varieties of stockmarket letter writers — none of which happens to be gifted with omniscience.

There is, for example, the fellow we might call The Postman — since he operates what is more accurately described as a mail-order business than an advice service. What he has done, very cleverly, is find a constituency that wants to hear a certain message, repeated regularly, on a year-round basis. It then matters little, at least to the writer's financial success, that his counsel turns out to be fallacious quite frequently. The Postman is often a specialist in such areas as precious metals, where there is a large, affluent audience eager to be told every week that the price of gold is about to soar, even when it is not.

Also likely to increase his own bank account, if not yours, is the fellow we might call The Fox. This gent is as crafty as his namesake. He specializes in hedging and gobbledygook. If you follow what seems to be his advice, and lose money, you will be informed loftily that you missed the point entirely. And that's entirely true, for the point is to keep you confused and him affluent.

CLOSELY RELATED TO The Fox, indeed sometimes found in the same skin, is the market letter writer describable as The Name-Dropper. This is a terribly important fellow, as he never hesitates to let you know. Bert Lance wouldn't think of touching the budget without asking his advice first. David Rockefeller humbly seeks his thoughts on banking. Why, it's a terrific honor for you just to be allowed to bask in his (postal) presence, even if you are paying handsomely for the privilege. And paying, and paying.

Then there's The Technician. He's the fellow who impresses you with arcane indicators, beautifully engineered charts and a vocabulary packed with such beguiling jargon as "upside breakouts," "head-and-shoulders tops" and "spike bottoms." The market to him is a mechanical marvel.

In contrast to him is The Fundamentalist, who fills you with more economic data that could br readily assimilated by a dozen computers. You are likely to wind up knowing an awful lot about productivity in Afghanistan. He has nothing in common with The Technician but fallibility.

There are other market letter-writing types, too — varying from The Sentimentalist ("We need a hair more negative sentiment to get this rally going . . .") to The Superman ("The Dow Jones Industrial Average will fall to precisely 817.34 at 2:29 P.M. Eastern time August 17 . . .") — linked only by their efforts to walk the tightrope between bankruptcy and fraud. In their hearts they know that the short-run market is unpredictable and multifaceted; but their deepest hope is that you won't figure that out, too.

"MONEY TALKS"

Here's how to cope with that escrow fund for Taxes & Insurance

DONALD F. MORTON
Chairman & President

Families entering into the purchase of a new home with its attendant costs occasionally have questions about the escrow required to assume the payment of taxes and insurance on the home.

The logic of the escrow fund is inescapable. The lender must protect the large investment he has in the home (generally far larger than what the buyer has usually provided in the down payment). He must therefore be sure that real estate taxes are going to be promptly paid and that insurance premiums are kept up in the event of damage or loss.

Therefore, the lender must require that the monthly payment toward principal and interest includes also the provision of one-twelfth of the funds that will be needed to pay taxes and insurance.

Some buyers are not bothered about this, and indeed are happy to have the lender spread the tax and insurance obligations over a monthly payment program and pay these bills for them. Others, however, question this additional monthly payment and inquire why the funds in escrow do not earn interest.

For this latter group, we have an alternative plan. We suggest that they make their own payments of real estate taxes, insurance, and special assessments on their property. As lenders, we must be assured that these payments are promptly made, and we therefore ask them to pledge a passbook savings account toward the fulfillment of these obligations in an amount at least one and one-half times the total of the previous year's general real estate taxes, the annual premiums on insurance relating to the mortgage and the amount, if any, to be paid on other assessments or taxes.

"All you have to do," we tell them, "is to furnish us within thirty days after due date receipts of payment for all assessments or taxes and within thirty days prior to expiration date receipts of payments for all policies of insurance."

The funds pledged in the savings account, we inform them, must be preserved intact with us at the required level throughout the period of the loan. But they earn our current passbook interest rate.

Most buyers do not take advantage of this opportunity to reduce their monthly payments by the amount of the escrow and to have these escrow funds earn as they are deposited with us. The reason? Some may not want to tie up the one lump-sum payment into a savings account, and in other cases the ease of having a budget established for the payment of their taxes and insurance is strongly preferred.

Whatever the reason, we continue to invite these buyers to take advantage of the alternative escrow program available to them.

NOR IS THE REASON for such repeated failure difficult to discern. If the stock market were as readily predictable as they pretend, they would have no need to sell their literary services. They would, instead, be richer than Morgan, more powerful than Rockefeller. Are we to believe that everyone who peddles a get-rich-quick sheet to the public is doing so merely as a form of philanthropy?

There are, to be sure, several distinct varieties of stockmarket letter writers — none of which happens to be gifted with omniscience.

There is, for example, the fellow we might call The Postman — since he operates what is more accurately described as a mail-order business than an advice service. What he has done, very cleverly, is find a constituency that wants to hear a certain message, repeated regularly, on a year-round basis. It then matters little, at least to the writer's financial success, that his counsel turns out to be fallacious quite frequently. The Postman is often a specialist in such areas as precious metals, where there is a large, affluent audience eager to be told every week that the price of gold is about to soar, even when it is not.

Also likely to increase his own bank account, if not yours, is the fellow we might call The Fox. This gent is as crafty as his namesake. He specializes in hedging and gobbledygook. If you follow what seems to be his advice, and lose money, you will be informed loftily that you missed the point entirely. And that's entirely true, for the point is to keep you confused and him affluent.

CLOSELY RELATED TO The Fox, indeed sometimes found in the same skin, is the market letter writer describable as The Name-Dropper. This is a terribly important fellow, as he never hesitates to let you know. Bert Lance wouldn't think of touching the budget without asking his advice first. David Rockefeller humbly seeks his thoughts on banking. Why, it's a terrific honor for you just to be allowed to bask in his (postal) presence, even if you are paying handsomely for the privilege. And paying, and paying.

Then there's The Technician. He's the fellow who impresses you with arcane indicators, beautifully engineered charts and a vocabulary packed with such beguiling jargon as "upside breakouts," "head-and-shoulders tops" and "spike bottoms." The market to him is a mechanical marvel.

In contrast to him is The Fundamentalist, who fills you with more economic data that could br readily assimilated by a dozen computers. You are likely to wind up knowing an awful lot about productivity in Afghanistan. He has nothing in common with The Technician but fallibility.

There are other market letter-writing types, too — varying from The Sentimentalist ("We need a hair more negative sentiment to get this rally going . . .") to The Superman ("The Dow Jones Industrial Average will fall to precisely 817.34 at 2:29 P.M. Eastern time August 17 . . .") — linked only by their efforts to walk the tightrope between bankruptcy and fraud. In their hearts they know that the short-run market is unpredictable and multifaceted; but their deepest hope is that you won't figure that out, too.

"MONEY TALKS"

Here's how to cope with that escrow fund for Taxes & Insurance

Families entering into the purchase of a new home with its attendant costs occasionally have questions about the escrow required to assume the payment of taxes and insurance on the home.

The logic of the escrow fund is inescapable. The lender must protect the large investment he has in the home (generally far larger than what the buyer has usually provided in the down payment). He must therefore be sure that real estate taxes are going to be promptly paid and that insurance premiums are kept up in the event of damage or loss.

Therefore, the lender must require that the monthly payment toward principal and interest includes also the provision of one-twelfth of the funds that will be needed to pay taxes and insurance.

Some buyers are not bothered about this, and indeed are happy to have the lender spread the tax and insurance obligations over a monthly payment program and pay these bills for them. Others, however, question this additional monthly payment and inquire why the funds in escrow do not earn interest.

For this latter group, we have an alternative plan. We suggest that they make their own payments of real estate taxes, insurance, and special assessments on their property. As lenders, we must be assured that these payments are promptly made, and we therefore ask them to pledge a passbook savings account toward the fulfillment of these obligations in an amount at least one and one-half times the total of the previous year's general real estate taxes, the annual premiums on insurance relating to the mortgage and the amount, if any, to be paid on other assessments or taxes.

"All you have to do," we tell them, "is to furnish us within thirty days after due date receipts of payment for all assessments or taxes and within thirty days prior to expiration date receipts of payments for all policies of insurance."

The funds pledged in the savings account, we inform them, must be preserved intact with us at the required level throughout the period of the loan. But they earn our current passbook interest rate.

Most buyers do not take advantage of this opportunity to reduce their monthly payments by the amount of the escrow and to have these escrow funds earn as they are deposited with us. The reason? Some may not want to tie up the one lump-sum payment into a savings account, and in other cases the ease of having a budget established for the payment of their taxes and insurance is strongly preferred.

Whatever the reason, we continue to invite these buyers to take advantage of the alternative escrow program available to them.

Economy's health puzzles experts

Hobart Rowen

Is the economy in a pause? If so, does it mean an economic slump? Or is it merely a "mini-pause," and therefore a good sign? The answers from economists, you will not be too surprised to read, is yes — and then again, no.

But something of significance seems to be going on, revealed by the fact that manufacturers' stocks climbed $2.1 billion in May, the fifth monthly increase in a row, and the largest in two years.

When factory inventories start to accumulate, it's a telltale sign that businesses are producing more than their customers are buying.

"NOT PARTICULARLY encouraging," was the verdict rendered by U.S. Commerce Dept. economist Courtenay Slater. "Things look pretty flat. You like to see things going up in a growing economy."

On the optimistic side, Citibank's "Economic Week" letter acknowledges a decline in May's leading indicator index, but says that is "not enough to suggest the economy is headed for trouble."

Other measures, says Citibank's letter, show that "the economy is still healthy. Price increases have slowed, retail sales have held up and industrial production has soared."

The most pessimistic among the private forecasters appears to be Michael K. Evans of Chase Econometric Associates, Inc. He says that "the U.S. economy is beginning its slide toward a growth recession in 1978."

A "GROWTH RECESSION" is one in which the Gross National Product doesn't increase enough to provide jobs for an expanding labor force. Evans puts real GNP growth at no more than 2 per cent in 1978 (compared to the Carter expectation of 5 per cent).

A man in the middle is Otto Eckstein of Data Resources, Inc., who says flatly that "the economy has entered a pause." But Eckstein cannot decide whether it is a "momentary hesitation" or something "more dramatic." Give it another four weeks, and one can tell better, Eckstein suggests.

The basic negative signs that Eckstein lays out are the inventory pile-up; the fact that the real volume of retail sales hit a peak in March, and is "edging sideways since;" no gain in the shipments of nondefense capital goods; and "surprising ease" in financial markets.

On the other hand, his analysis also shows many plus signs, including rising federal spending, and prospects that the potentially frightening U.S trade deficit will shrink, aided by a sharp revaluation of the Japanese yen.

"In summary," Eckstein says, trying to balance it all out, "the available evidence leaves no doubt that at the very least there is a mini-pause. That is sufficient to mark down the risks of a boom-bust development . . . Little pauses are to be expected in a recovery that is meant to be sustainable over quite a few years."

900-plus level kept as stocks close in rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, aided by fairly active trading, closed mixed Wednesday in a rally that prevented the Dow Jones industrial average from falling below the 900 level.

The closely watched Dow average, which dipped below 900 twice during the day, finished with a loss of only 0.42 points, ot 902.99 after being down nearly four points earlier.

Although the Dow has lost 6.52 points the past four sessions, tape watchers were encouraged that it was able to hold at the psychologically important 900 level.

That support sparked the late rally that kept the Dow from matching its low for the year of 898.66 set on May 31, the lowest level since early 1973. The Dow lost 2.12 points Tuesday.

Urgent need for multiple units: exec

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Government may try to "tell people where they will live" unless the production of private multi-family homes is stepped up, according to a leading spokesman of the nation's housing industry.

Robert Arquilla, president of the National Assn. of home builders, gave that warning recently in an address to the 19th annual Pacific coast builders conference.

"The real problem is that we are not able to increase multi-family housing production," Arquilla aid "If we can't do this, we will have a great shortage a few years down the road."

He said the alternative is a housing industry socialized under the wing of big government, as it is in many European nations.

Arquilla blamed government agencies for exacerbating spiraling costs by overspecifying requirements for wider streets in subdivisions, larger storm drains and related services.

In the news

Representing ANNEN & BUSSE, INC., recently at a management conference in St. Charles, sponsored by the Homes For Living Network, were Peter Rodgers, manager Palatine office, Ken Dubs, manager — Schaumburg office, Del Sears, manager — Mount Prospect office, and Earl Maize, manager — Arlington Heights office.

The management conference was conducted by John Grogan of Scottsdale, Arizona. Entitled "The Power Laws of Effective Management in the '70's," the program evaluated updated information on home buyers' habits and real estate sales associates' sales techniques. The meeting concerned itself with the development of human resources and emphasized selecting, training, motivating and retaining sales personnel.

Marion Kay

MARION KAY was named "sales leader for the month" of June at the Mount Prospect office of Century 21-Countryside Real Estate, Inc. Her total volume was $231,500. She has been a sales associate with Century 21-Countryside for the past year. She has lived in Mount Prospect for 17 years with her husband Don and three children.

Million dollar club

Wally Scherpelz

WALTER L. SCHERPELZ, broker/sales associate for Robert L. Nelson Real Estate, exceeded $1 million in sales for the first half of 1977. Scherpelz has been active in real estate and home remodeling in the area for the past 25 years. He resides with his family in Arlington Heights.

Five sales associates of LIEBERMAN, Inc., Realtors have achieved million dollar sales volume in the first six months of 1977. Jack Garber, Sharon Vaughn, Earl Sauter, Carol Hall and Bill Anderson were awarded citations for their sales accomplishments.

Lieberman has sales offices in Buffalo Grove and Schaumburg.

Terry Leighty

TERRY LEIGHTY, office sales manager for the Palatine-area office of Century 21-Arlington Realty, reached the $1 million sales figure for 1977 during the month of June.

Leighty is a repeat performer in the Million Dollar Club but this marks the earliest date he has ever reached the figure. He is a licensed broker, a graduate of the Realtors Institute and has completed management courses with Century 21. He is a longtime resident of Palatine, a former Village trustee and former Jaycee President. He recently took office as president of the Palatine Chamber of Commerce.

Should he buy when planning to sell in 4 years?

Don G. Campbell

About real estate

It always seems to come as a shock to find that the average American family will stay in its home for only about seven years before putting ut up for sale — for a variety of reasons.

Yet, it's probably safe to say that nine out of 10 families move into their newly purchased home with only the vaguest sort of time schedule in mind. But there are exceptions.

Dear Mr. Campbell: My annual salary is about $42,000. I have my wife and one child as dependents. I am foreign-born and plan to return to my native country in four or five years.

I presently live in an apartment with a monthly rent of $250. A house which we would like to buy will cost between $60,000 and $70,000. I can manage to pay about $12,000 to $15,000 as a down payment.

Considering my plan to go back home soon, is it advisable to buy a house or continue living in the apartment? — R. R. (Cincinnati, Ohio)

A. This is one of those situations where I could say, "Stay right where you are — don't buy," and you could disregard me, buy it, and sell it in four years at a whopping profit. I doubt it, though.

Under normal circumstances, we might assume this house would appreciate in value at the compounded rate of about 8 per cent a year. In your case, it would almost have to for you to come out ahead.

Remember that your principal and interest alone will cost you about $443 a month (assuming $15,000 down on a $70,000 house). That is about $193 more a month than you are now paying in rent.

On top of this there are about $2,000 in move-in expenses, utilities (which now may or may not be included in your rent), maintenance, taxes and insurance. And then, when it comes time to resell, you've got a whopping real estate sales commission.

Would it pay? On the basis of raw figures it would, but only if the house appreciates in value pretty sharply over the next four years. You could come out ahead but, as I said, I'm inclined to doubt it.

Dear Mr. Campbell: In a recent column about five cousins who jointly inherited an undivided, 20-acre section of land, you said, "Why do people leave wills making life so much more complicated than it has to be?" I would like to know how my sister and I can avoid a similar situation.

We are both in our late 50s and we inherited undivided property from our father many years ago. We now live on opposite sides of the country and we both have children who are not too well acquainted.

Our property is on the edge of a commercial area and there are some legal difficulties which currently prevent us from selling the land, unless we choose to practically give it away.

The legal problems are not of our making, but they involve city and township rulings on that particular section. It would not be feasible to divide the property because it involves a corner section which is more valuable. — Mrs. J.E.C. (Hayward, Calif.)

A. I admit you've got a situation that could be a headache to your four heirs if anything were to happen to you and your sister at the same time. And, I certainly wouldn't suggest that you sacrifice the property now, simply to tidy-up your estate.

But I also think you're both too young to panic about this. Expedite the clearing of the cloud over the property as much as possible, of course, so that you can sell it as soon as possible and not burden your children with it.

However, weighing the advantages of waiting until the property can be disposed of at a fair price against the disadvantages of possibly leaving these four children a cumbersome estate problem — but one that involves a valuable piece of property that is worth a little trouble — I would take the gamble of waiting.

Dear Mr. Campbell: I had no sooner signed a two-year lease on my apartment than my company transferred me out of state. I can't find anything in the lease that would get me off the hook. What now? — Mr. P.H.V. (Hartford, Conn.)

A. Most landlords are fairly understanding and will try to rent the property as soon as possible when the circumstances are beyond the control of the tenant. However, you may get stuck with the rental until a substitute can be found. Any OK on subletting mentioned?

THE HERALD suburban living Thursday, July 14, 1977 Section 5

Getting off the credit merry-go-round

by LEA TONKIN

(Last in a series)

For many Northwest suburban families, the Great American Dream of owning a home in a good neighborhood is where their credit nightmares began.

Social pressures to spend are tremendous in suburbia, according to Joseph C. Johnson of Suburban Financial Consumer Counseling Service, 800 Lee St., Des Plaines. By the time his clients decide to seek a way out of a credit pinch, they've usually run up $4,000 to $30,000 worth of outstanding debt.

"Take the guy earning $20,000 to $30,000 a year," Johnson said. "He goes out to restaurants. His house, his car are a little bit better. He entertains more." And the pressure to over-buy on credit is greater than the $10,000-a-year wage earner experiences.

"It's a big temptation to buy on credit," Johnson said. "Once you start the credit wheel spinning, it's difficult to make it stop."

Johnson emphasizes that there are several alternatives to bankruptcy when a suburban family is in a financial pickle. But for long term freedom from bill collectors, Johnson and other credit experts stress consumer education.

"GENERALLY, by the time people get in touch with us, their credit is sour," Johnson said. The suburban debtor who has already tied up all his installment debts in one long term package called a consolidation loan, followed up by a second mortgage on the house and still more unpaid bills hasn't learned how to control credit.

For many young couples who come into Johnson's office, the purchase of a new home was the start of financial headaches. It's not just the house they're buying, Johnson said. Appliances and furnishings, landscaping and the backyard barbecue grill are often included in the home buyers' expectations.

"These young couples want it all at once, instead of saving for it," he said. "If they don't have the cash, they're going into the store, and they're going to use their credit cards." Later, the couple starts adding up the high costs of buying on credit, and the bill collectors are making persistent calls.

"One of the biggest problems is the income tax refund. People get the money, and they spend it on another purchase instead of liquidating a debt," Johnson said. "For some people, buying on credit is a disease, almost like alcoholism."

"My experience — and I've been in this business 17 years — is that some people never learn," Johnson continued. He will help in the negotiation of a loan repayment schedule for suburban debtors who are willing to try.

FOR A MONTHLY fee, generally in the $5 to $15 range, Johnson will help debtors spread out payments for furniture, doctor's bills and other accounts. The success of the plan hinges on creditors' willingness to go along with the extended repayment schedule.

The credit crunch

If the alternative is a loss when the debtor files a bankruptcy petition, the creditor may decide it's a worthwhile plan. The debtor's incentive is a temporary respite from bill collectors and wage garnishment.

The debtor's incentive to keep up the repayment schedule is temporary freedom from bill collectors, Johnson said, noting that late medical bill payments were the cause of many collection harassment complaints. Johnson said his suburban clients generally decide to go it alone after several months to two years. But the consumers will be in trouble again within a few months unless they've gained an understanding of credit, Johnson said.

Consumer education on the cost of credit is needed, echoes Gary Reitz, vice president and cashier at Buffalo Grove National Bank, 555 W. Dundee. Reitz said customers will run up $2,000 worth of credit card purchases, buy a new house, purchase furnishings on installment loans and then seek a new car loan. If they haven't left enough income to pay for food and other essentials after monthly installment loan costs, he said, the bank takes "a hard look" at the loan application.

"The hardest thing is to get off the credit merry-go-round," Reitz said. "For some people, it's a way of life."

WHEN A CUSTOMER applies for a personal loan of several thousand dollars as a means of paying off other debts, Reitz said, the bank will require security. This means that the applicant's house, for example, may be pledged as security against default. An unsecured loan, in contrast, is made on the applicant's signature only.

The bank may make checks payable to the customer and his creditors to help ensure speedy repayment on other accounts, Reitz said. In some cases, Reitz said, "We ask them for their credit cards, and we cut them up."

Reitz emphasized that suburban consumers can save financing charges by shopping for the best loan terms. On a $10,000 installment loan, the savings can be substantial, he said.

Clearing up debts with even larger loans doesn't make any sense if a family's repayment load is increased, added Hattie Stewart, director of a United Charities financial counseling program being developed for the Chicago area.

"Too few debtors know how to plan, how to stay above water when they receive these loans," Ms. Stewart said. She has counseled families struggling with two to three consolidation loans, plus other debts. The so-called consolidation loan is one large loan designed to enable debtors to repay several smaller loans.

"REHABILITATION through counseling is important," Ms. Stewart said. "Relieving the pressure doesn't always help."

Before a debtor decides to go the consolidation loan or the bankruptcy route, Ms. Stewart advises an attempt to arrange a voluntary repayment schedule.

"Lay out your income, then a list of the people you owe money," Ms. Stewart said. "then, with list in hand, contact creditors." Consumers who ask for lenience may be allowed to pay off a loan in smaller installments.

"More people are using the credit system, as we know it today," said Ms. Stewart, former director of the Family Financial Counseling Servicie of Greater Chicago. She adds that personal money management expertise has not kept pace with increasing consumer credit.

"A person could earn $15,000 to $20,000 a year, but be financially distressed," Ms. Stewart said. "The ability to manage one's income has nothing to do with education, or your professional level."

We all pay for other folks' bad debts

by LEA TONKIN

American consumers are paying approximately $50 a year in higher prices due to bad debt losses, according to John W. Johnson, executive vice president of the American Collectors Assn., Inc. The ACA represents some 2,600 collection services.

"People are paying for purchases they never made because prices must cover the substantial losses that businesses incur through bad debts," Johnson said. "These losses figure between $10 billion to $15 billion annually, averaging approximately $50 per person in the United States."

Johnson said approximately 8 million consumer debtors are contacted each year by ACA members, after they have failed to respond to requests for payment from hospitals, stores, oil companies and other creditors. These consumer debtors account for 44.5 million unpaid accounts, Johnson said.

"OVER ONE million unpaid bills are left behind each month by people who move without notifying their creditors or leaving forwarding addresses," he continued. "Eleven million bad checks are written each month. And approximately 200,000 consumers totally erase their debts annually by declaring personal bankruptcy." This cost is passed along to consumers, Johnson said.

Another cost of bad debts is abuse and harassment by unethical debt collectors, according to U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Chicago. As chairman of the House Consumer Affairs Subcommittee, Annunzio has sponsored legislation to protect consumers from harrassment because of computer or office error.

Abusive or obscene language in telephone conversations with consumers, the use of phony documents sent to consumers by mail and harassing phone calls made to a debtor's place of employment would be prohibited under the Debt Collection Practices Act., HB 5294. Similar legislation has been introduced in the U.S. Senate.

Center aids emotionally disturbed at early age

"THEY ARE MY FUTURE," says Dr. Louise Sandler of children being treated for emotional problems at the Center for Pre-School Services at Philadelphia's Franklin Institute. She is the center director.

by VIVIAN L. ALUKO

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dave is 4, but looks like a child of 2. He is frail, pale and has a blank expression on his face.

He is among a group of children between the ages of 3 and 7 with emotional disorders who are being helped at a center here that is being used as a model for possible similar projects in other areas of the country.

Dr. Louise Sandler, a clinical psychologist and director of the Center for Pre-School Services at the Franklin Institute here, says Dave's condition reflects emotional disturbances he has suffered.

Agnes Bornemann, a master teacher at the center, says most of the children enter at the level of "run, hit and destroy."

"THEY TAKE things apart not because of curiosity, but just to destroy" as a child under 12 months does, she explained.

The aim of the center is to help such children very early when still in day care, kindergarten or "Get Set" programs to prevent them from becoming candidates for failure in school and for later serious mental problems.

The children with the emotional disorders are referred to the center from their school programs, foster care agencies or doctors.

Ten children each day spend half of their day in one of the center's two kindergarten-type classrooms and the other half in a school program.

They are taught such simple things as how to play with toys and how to relate to adults.

The center has a staff of teachers, social workers, psychiatrists, psychologists, speech therapist, and students working under college internships.

JOHN, 5, HAD a birthday party at the center for the first time in his life.

Ms. Bornemann said that when John entered last fall, he was a "psychotic child certainly on the way to an institution."

"He did not speak for the purposes of communication," she said. "All we got was parrot talk.

"He would yell out of context, usually scolding himself saying, 'sit down boy' and he would scream for hours."

She said when he was being tested, he would cry, but never turned to his mother for help.

"There was no going to momma," she said. "When he first came into the classroom, adults were not in his scheme of things."

Now, John can be seen quietly cuddled up in the lap of his teacher as she reads a book to him. Ms. Bornemann says he has made "excellent progress."

THE CENTER WAS proposed by Dr. Sandler eight years ago and began operating in September, 1970, initially serving only day care center children in the north-central area of Philadelphia.

In 1971, the original proposal by Dr. Sandler to make the center a national model was accepted by the federal Bureau of Education for the Handicapped which gave it a three year grant. In 1974, the center received an additional grant for another three years as a step in disseminating the model for use in other regions.

The BEH is expected to approve the center this month as a prototype.

Dr. Sandler says the center is also unique because it encourages a multi-divisional approach, attempting to bring the systems of welfare, mental health, education and medicine together to help the child.

Such an approach resulted in an agreement by the welfare department to pay the cost of sending children to the center.

Although the center is for children, social workers at the center also work with parents.

"The social workers sometimes begin as a mothering figure to the parents," said Ms. Bornemann.

MOST OF THE children at the center come from broken homes, or have one or both parents with serious physical or mental disabilities; or parents who had problems with alcoholism or drug addiction; or who have neglected their children because of the largeness of the family.

But Ms. Bornemann says most of the parents love their child, want to take care of them but are themselves "so overwhelmed."

"They never had nurturing themselves," she said, so that in turn the parents cannot give love and care to their children.

Dr. Sandler emphasizes that she wants to give the children, who she says have been "gyped," all they deserve.

"They are my future," she said.

Red Wing pottery has its devotees

Grace Carolyn

Collecting

I have a large jardiniere, darkish green in color, with a backstamp "Red Wing." My dear mother-in-law gave it to me years ago with a story that she had sent her husband to town in northern Wisconsin once upon a time to buy a flower pot for one of her plants. (She didn't have just a green thumb; her strong farm-woman hands could gently coax life into an unconscious plant or cause a Christmas cactus to burst into bloom in mid-November and again at Easter, right on cue. She talked to her plants long before it was the fashionable thing to do.)

Anyhow, her husband came back, not with a common clay pot which she had in mind, but the Red Wing jardiniere I still have, and he received a scolding for spending so much. The jardiniere still has the pencilled price: 95 cents.

RED WING POTTERY was made at Red Wing, Minn., from about 1878 to 1967. A great deal of the production was in stoneware crocks, jugs, water coolers, mixing bowls, "beater" jars, rolling pins — many with printed advertising for various companies. The advertising wares were given or sold with purchses as premiums.

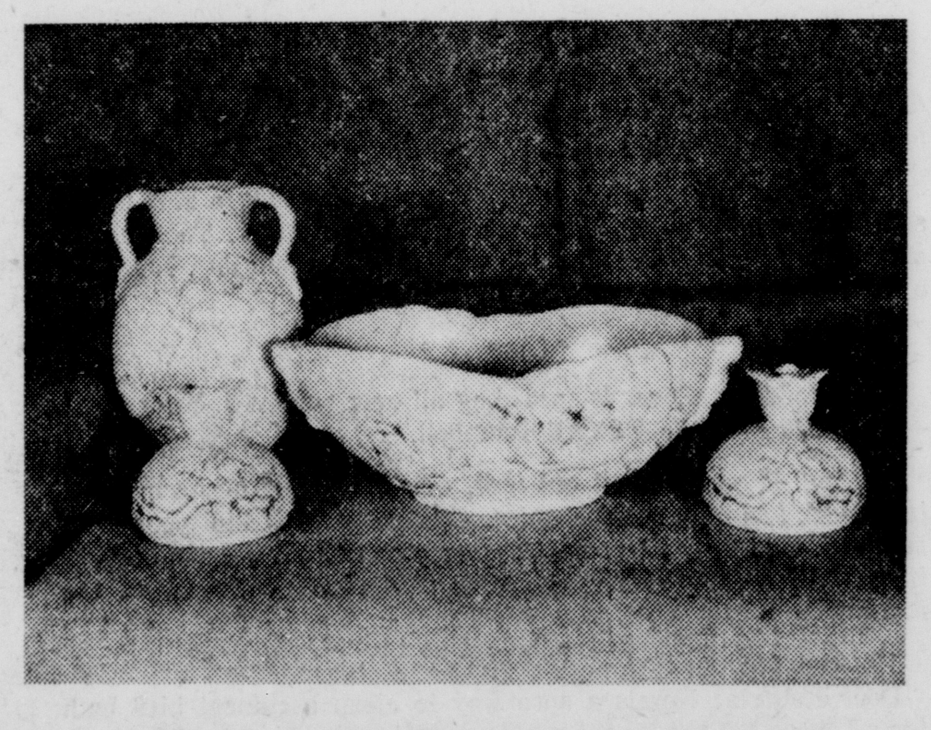
I have a small "beater" jar also, printed in blue and white, and the legend says "You beat eggs; we beat prices," together with the name of the grocer who gave it. I remember that I bought this jar just because I thought it was cute for 50 cents on a trip to Wisconsin about 25 years ago. I know you readers may get tired of my "good old days" price stories — but just listen to anyone who has bought and sold a couple of houses over the past few years. Their stories are just as revolting!

The town of Red Wing, and the pottery, were named for a chief of the Dakotah tribe, whose symbol was a scarlet wing. His name was "Koo-poo-hoo-sha," which meant "wing of the wild swan dyed scarlet."

THERE WERE ATTEMPTS at pottery making near Red Wing ever since the Civil War, but it was in 1878 that a group of businessmen formed a company and called it the Red Wing Stoneware Co., finding a ready market for their products. In the days before refrigeration, household items such as fruit, vegetables, even meat and lard, were stored in stoneware crocks. Many farm products were "salted down" in crocks which ranged from two-gallon to as large as 60 gallon capacities. Some items were used in connection with the dairy — churns, milk pans, butter bowls, etc., and jugs were needed for vinegar, molasses and stronger stuff to nip out behind the barn.

Some of these utility wares are white with the "Red Wing" design on front, some are brown. Lettering and marks vary greatly.

RED WING ALSO MADE a line of art ware including vases, flower pots, tea sets, mugs, cookie jars, etc. A console set in the Magnolia pattern and a matching vase are shown in the picture provided by David Newkirk of Monticello, Minn., who has long been interested in these wares and has started a society of other collectors now numbering more than 150 members. He told me there are members in 21 states and he has even received an inquiry from Alaska, which did not really surprise him, for Red Wing sold many of its wares through the Sears and Ward's catalogs around the turn of the century giving wide distribution of the products.



Newkirk also publishes a newsletter in connection with the collectors society, available on a subscription basis to members for $6 per year, printed quarterly. It may be ordered (membership is included in the price) from David A. Newkirk, Rt. 3, Box 141, Monticello, Minn. 55362.

AN INTERESTING BIT of information in his June newsletter tells that Red Wing made a few mugs for the Sleepy Eye Milling Co. (many people collect Sleepy Eye products, which show an Indian chief). The mugs are cream color, about six inches high, and have a printed verse.

Getting off the credit merry-go-round

by LEA TONKIN

(Last in a series)

For many Northwest suburban families, the Great American Dream of owning a home in a good neighborhood is where their credit nightmares began.

Social pressures to spend are tremendous in suburbia, according to Joseph C. Johnson of Suburban Financial Consumer Counseling Service, 800 Lee St., Des Plaines. By the time his clients decide to seek a way out of a credit pinch, they've usually run up $4,000 to $30,000 worth of outstanding debt.

"Take the guy earning $20,000 to $30,000 a year," Johnson said. "He goes out to restaurants. His house, his car are a little bit better. He entertains more." And the pressure to over-buy on credit is greater than the $10,000-a-year wage earner experiences.

"It's a big temptation to buy on credit," Johnson said. "Once you start the credit wheel spinning, it's difficult to make it stop."

Johnson emphasizes that there are several alternatives to bankruptcy when a suburban family is in a financial pickle. But for long term freedom from bill collectors, Johnson and other credit experts stress consumer education.

"GENERALLY, by the time people get in touch with us, their credit is sour," Johnson said. The suburban debtor who has already tied up all his installment debts in one long term package called a consolidation loan, followed up by a second mortgage on the house and still more unpaid bills hasn't learned how to control credit.

For many young couples who come into Johnson's office, the purchase of a new home was the start of financial headaches. It's not just the house they're buying, Johnson said. Appliances and furnishings, landscaping and the backyard barbecue grill are often included in the home buyers' expectations.

"These young couples want it all at once, instead of saving for it," he said. "If they don't have the cash, they're going into the store, and they're going to use their credit cards." Later, the couple starts adding up the high costs of buying on credit, and the bill collectors are making persistent calls.

"One of the biggest problems is the income tax refund. People get the money, and they spend it on another purchase instead of liquidating a debt," Johnson said. "For some people, buying on credit is a disease, almost like alcoholism."

"My experience — and I've been in this business 17 years — is that some people never learn," Johnson continued. He will help in the negotiation of a loan repayment schedule for suburban debtors who are willing to try.

FOR A MONTHLY fee, generally in the $5 to $15 range, Johnson will help debtors spread out payments for furniture, doctor's bills and other accounts. The success of the plan hinges on creditors' willingness to go along with the extended repayment schedule.

The credit crunch

If the alternative is a loss when the debtor files a bankruptcy petition, the creditor may decide it's a worthwhile plan. The debtor's incentive is a temporary respite from bill collectors and wage garnishment.

The debtor's incentive to keep up the repayment schedule is temporary freedom from bill collectors, Johnson said, noting that late medical bill payments were the cause of many collection harassment complaints. Johnson said his suburban clients generally decide to go it alone after several months to two years. But the consumers will be in trouble again within a few months unless they've gained an understanding of credit, Johnson said.

Consumer education on the cost of credit is needed, echoes Gary Reitz, vice president and cashier at Buffalo Grove National Bank, 555 W. Dundee. Reitz said customers will run up $2,000 worth of credit card purchases, buy a new house, purchase furnishings on installment loans and then seek a new car loan. If they haven't left enough income to pay for food and other essentials after monthly installment loan costs, he said, the bank takes "a hard look" at the loan application.

"The hardest thing is to get off the credit merry-go-round," Reitz said. "For some people, it's a way of life."

WHEN A CUSTOMER applies for a personal loan of several thousand dollars as a means of paying off other debts, Reitz said, the bank will require security. This means that the applicant's house, for example, may be pledged as security against default. An unsecured loan, in contrast, is made on the applicant's signature only.

The bank may make checks payable to the customer and his creditors to help ensure speedy repayment on other accounts, Reitz said. In some cases, Reitz said, "We ask them for their credit cards, and we cut them up."

Reitz emphasized that suburban consumers can save financing charges by shopping for the best loan terms. On a $10,000 installment loan, the savings can be substantial, he said.

Clearing up debts with even larger loans doesn't make any sense if a family's repayment load is increased, added Hattie Stewart, director of a United Charities financial counseling program being developed for the Chicago area.

"Too few debtors know how to plan, how to stay above water when they receive these loans," Ms. Stewart said. She has counseled families struggling with two to three consolidation loans, plus other debts. The so-called consolidation loan is one large loan designed to enable debtors to repay several smaller loans.

"REHABILITATION through counseling is important," Ms. Stewart said. "Relieving the pressure doesn't always help."

Lawrence E. Lamb

The doctor says

Diverticulosis calls for change in diet

My husband had a bad case of diverticulitis two years ago. He was put on a bland diet, a half-cup each of three vegetables a day, and lost 35 pounds. He was taking an antispasmodic and Maalox. He was doing real well for three months and ate popcorn — which is a no no. Now he has it again with lots of gas at night or after eating.

Would you please give us some advise as to how he should eat now? I cook with corn oil and no grease if possible. I broil steaks; I cream vegetables. It seems milk is one of his worst problems. His diet called for a glass of milk three times a day and a half cup of cream.

Concepts about treating diverticulosis have changed in the past few years. Bland diets used to be the rule, but now most doctors at least temper that approach.

Diverticulosis means small pockets of the colon. These are really small hernias where the inner lining of the colon has herniated through a rupture of the wall of the colon itself. These little pockets act like miniature appendicies and when one is inflamed it may resemble appendicitis. Since these pockets are usually on the left side of the colon, the condition is sometimes referred to a "left-sided appendicitis."

The colon is often plagued with spasms that some doctors think cause the herniation or the formation of the pockets. The gas and contents above the area of spasm in the lower colon over-stretch that area of the colon and cause a small "blow-out." That is why your doctor gave your husband an anti-spasmodic.

The diet is important and I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, to give you a better general picture of the dietary management. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. During the acute phase when one of the pockets is inflamed it may be necessary to curtail eating — and in an emergency situation no food at all is given, then finally soft foods such as gelatin. But that is only a temporary state and the ultimate goal is to get on a diet that improves bowel function.

THAT MEANS including more bulk in the diet. This is now done by increasing the cereal fiber in your menu. An easy way to do this is to eat a good-sized bowl of one of the prepared bran cereals each morning. Better sneak up on this gradually though since All-Bran and some of the pure bran products have a fairly strong laxative effect in some people. I usually recommend starting with 40 per cent Bran Flakes and seeing how you tolerate it.

For those who have trouble with bran it is sometimes necessary to take Metamucil daily. This agar substance swells when it is moist and adds bulk to the food residue to accomplish a lot of what you achieve from cereal fiber. Chemical laxatives should NEVER be used in this condition.

Why don't you start by having your husband discontinue all milk products and stop drinking any coffee. If he still has trouble, try him on some bran. He might like it with some fruit juice to moisten it if he needs to avoid milk. ProSobee, a soybean milk substitute for infants, works for some people. Milk sometimes causes gas and problems similar to a spastic colon.

Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

Wash bathing suit after each wearing

Dear Roberta: What is the best way to wash a swimsuit? And is it really necessary, when the garment looks clean and has just been sterilized by the chlorine in a pool?—Tania Halperin.

To keep swimwear bright, wash after every wearing. That chlorine you mentioned, as well as body oils and suntan lotions, dims colors and weakens the elastic. Wash swimwear in a tub of cold water and mild suds or in the automatic washer set to cold water and the delicate cycle. And never use chlorine bleach.

Dear Roberta: Clover is spreading all over our lawn. What can I — or should I — do?—Edward Campbell.

Nothing. If you yank it out now, chickweed and crabgrass will take over, and both are far worse. Console yourself that your lawn is green. And very early next spring consult your garden shop to find out what anti-clover herbicide is currently allowed on the market.

Christine Houchens – Charles Murphy

A ring for the bride, Christine Houchins, and a bracelet for the groom, Charles Murphy, were handcrafted by a friend of the couple and exchanged at their wedding June 4 at Yellow Springs in Glen Helen, a nature preserve owned by Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio.

A week later, on June 11, Chris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houchins, hosted a champagne brunch for 175 guests in their Mount Prospect home to honor the couple. The groom is the son of V. R. Murphy of Springfield, Ohio.

Gail Smiley, Yellow Springs, was maid of honor. Robert Klahn, also of Yellow Springs, was Chuck's best man, and Chris' brothers, Tom and John, ushered.

FOLLOWING THE wedding, the maid of honor welcomed 75 guests into her home for a garden reception. Then the newlyweds left for a short honeymoon at Burr Oak Lodge, Burr Oak Lake, Ohio.

Chris graduated in 1971 from Prospect High School, and received her bachelor degree in '75 from Antioch College. She then worked in the admissions office of the college for two years.

Chuck attended Wittenberg University, Wright State University and RETS Electronic School, Dayton, Ohio, where he received an A.A. in electrical engineering. He then worked at Systems Research Laboratories in Dayton.

The couple are now living in San Francisco, where they both work at New College of the West.

Lawrence E. Lamb

The doctor says

Diverticulosis calls for change in diet

My husband had a bad case of diverticulitis two years ago. He was put on a bland diet, a half-cup each of three vegetables a day, and lost 35 pounds. He was taking an antispasmodic and Maalox. He was doing real well for three months and ate popcorn — which is a no no. Now he has it again with lots of gas at night or after eating.

Would you please give us some advise as to how he should eat now? I cook with corn oil and no grease if possible. I broil steaks; I cream vegetables. It seems milk is one of his worst problems. His diet called for a glass of milk three times a day and a half cup of cream.

Concepts about treating diverticulosis have changed in the past few years. Bland diets used to be the rule, but now most doctors at least temper that approach.

Diverticulosis means small pockets of the colon. These are really small hernias where the inner lining of the colon has herniated through a rupture of the wall of the colon itself. These little pockets act like miniature appendicies and when one is inflamed it may resemble appendicitis. Since these pockets are usually on the left side of the colon, the condition is sometimes referred to a "left-sided appendicitis."

The colon is often plagued with spasms that some doctors think cause the herniation or the formation of the pockets. The gas and contents above the area of spasm in the lower colon over-stretch that area of the colon and cause a small "blow-out." That is why your doctor gave your husband an anti-spasmodic.

The diet is important and I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, to give you a better general picture of the dietary management. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. During the acute phase when one of the pockets is inflamed it may be necessary to curtail eating — and in an emergency situation no food at all is given, then finally soft foods such as gelatin. But that is only a temporary state and the ultimate goal is to get on a diet that improves bowel function.

THAT MEANS including more bulk in the diet. This is now done by increasing the cereal fiber in your menu. An easy way to do this is to eat a good-sized bowl of one of the prepared bran cereals each morning. Better sneak up on this gradually though since All-Bran and some of the pure bran products have a fairly strong laxative effect in some people. I usually recommend starting with 40 per cent Bran Flakes and seeing how you tolerate it.

For those who have trouble with bran it is sometimes necessary to take Metamucil daily. This agar substance swells when it is moist and adds bulk to the food residue to accomplish a lot of what you achieve from cereal fiber. Chemical laxatives should NEVER be used in this condition.

Why don't you start by having your husband discontinue all milk products and stop drinking any coffee. If he still has trouble, try him on some bran. He might like it with some fruit juice to moisten it if he needs to avoid milk. ProSobee, a soybean milk substitute for infants, works for some people. Milk sometimes causes gas and problems similar to a spastic colon.

Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

Wash bathing suit after each wearing

Dear Roberta: What is the best way to wash a swimsuit? And is it really necessary, when the garment looks clean and has just been sterilized by the chlorine in a pool?—Tania Halperin.

To keep swimwear bright, wash after every wearing. That chlorine you mentioned, as well as body oils and suntan lotions, dims colors and weakens the elastic. Wash swimwear in a tub of cold water and mild suds or in the automatic washer set to cold water and the delicate cycle. And never use chlorine bleach.

Dear Roberta: The aluminum parts of my porch chairs are dingy and caked with dirt. How can I get them shiny again?—Priscilla Sharp.

The Soap and Detergent Association advises using a stiff brush soaked with detergent to remove the dust and dirt. Then use a steel wool soap pad to polish the frames. Rinse and dry. Bring up a shine with auto paste.

Dear Roberta: Clover is spreading all over our lawn. What can I — or should I — do?—Edward Campbell.

Nothing. If you yank it out now, chickweed and crabgrass will take over, and both are far worse. Console yourself that your lawn is green. And very early next spring consult your garden shop to find out what anti-clover herbicide is currently allowed on the market.

Dear Roberta: Here's a sure way to clean a cement bird bath for all those baffled by the problem. Next time food is barbecued, empty the ashes into the bird bath and stir. After about 24 hours, squirt hose water into the bath. All the algae and slimy gook will dislodge and float to the top for easy removal.—Valeri H.

Christine Houchens – Charles Murphy

Weddings

A ring for the bride, Christine Houchins, and a bracelet for the groom, Charles Murphy, were handcrafted by a friend of the couple and exchanged at their wedding June 4 at Yellow Springs in Glen Helen, a nature preserve owned by Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio.

A week later, on June 11, Chris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houchins, hosted a champagne brunch for 175 guests in their Mount Prospect home to honor the couple. The groom is the son of V. R. Murphy of Springfield, Ohio.

Gail Smiley, Yellow Springs, was maid of honor. Robert Klahn, also of Yellow Springs, was Chuck's best man, and Chris' brothers, Tom and John, ushered.

FOLLOWING THE wedding, the maid of honor welcomed 75 guests into her home for a garden reception. Then the newlyweds left for a short honeymoon at Burr Oak Lodge, Burr Oak Lake, Ohio.

Chris graduated in 1971 from Prospect High School, and received her bachelor degree in '75 from Antioch College. She then worked in the admissions office of the college for two years.

Chuck attended Wittenberg University, Wright State University and RETS Electronic School, Dayton, Ohio, where he received an A.A. in electrical engineering. He then worked at Systems Research Laboratories in Dayton.

The couple are now living in San Francisco, where they both work at New College of the West.

Candice Lee Johnson – Dr. D. Kohn

Living in Philadelphia while the groom is a resident in pediatric dentistry at Children's Hospital are Dr. and Mrs. Donald William Kohn.

Married June 12 in Chicago, the bride is the former Candice Lee Johnson, daughter of the Robert Johnsons of Palatine.. She and Dr. Kohn met while they were doing graduate work at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., where he earned his dental degree and Candy earned a master's in maternal child health. Until her marriage she was an assistant professor of nursing at Rush University College of Nursing, Chicago.

Dr. Kohn is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Kohn of West Englewood, N.J.

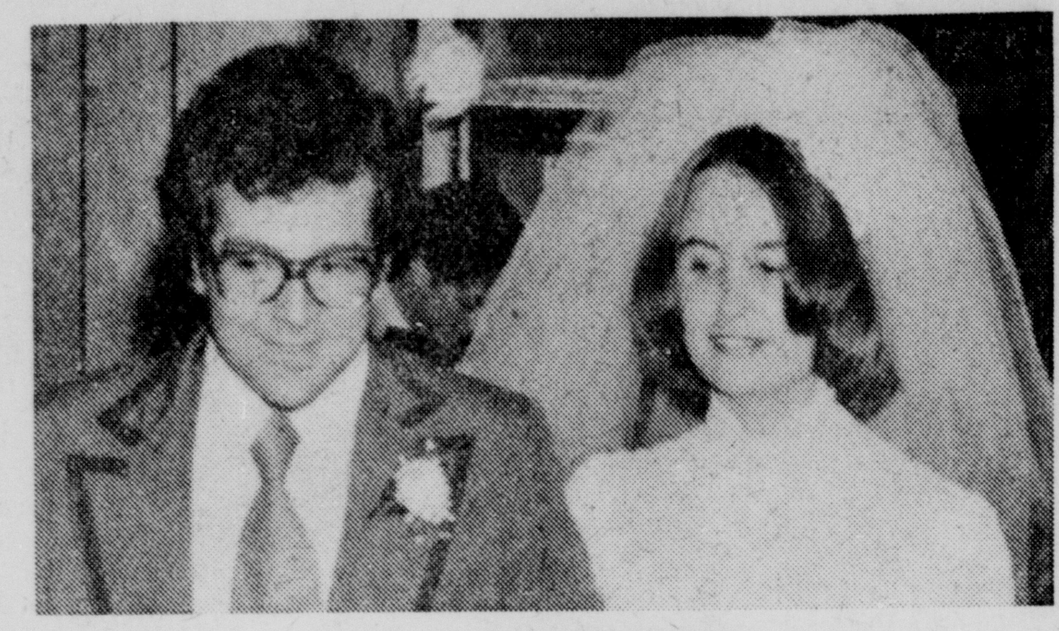
THEIR AFTERNOON wedding took place in Congregation Kol Ami with a reception for 50 guests following at The Bakery.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Diann Geronemus of New York City, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Glenda Morrison, Evansville, Ind., and Kathy Lamos, Chicago.

JAMES KOHN OF Ridgefield, N.J., was his brother's best man, with Dr. Steven Kohn, another brother, from Hackensack, N. J., and the bride's brother, Robert F. Johnson, as groomsmen.

Among the special wedding guests was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Amy Johnson of Greenwood, Ind.

Candy is a graduate of Palatine High School and Illinois Wesleyan University. Her husband attended Carnegie Institute and Northwestern University before going to Emory.



Dr. and Mrs. Donald W. Kohn

Melba Massie wed in Canada

Mrs. Melba Massie of Palatine was married June 18 to Eric S. Mitchell in St. James Westminster Anglican Church in London, Ont., Canada. The couple will make their home in Strathroy, Ontario, home of the bridegroom.

Among the wedding guests were Mrs. Massie's sons, Stephen of Palatine and Alan of Honolulu, Hawaii. Stephen's wife and sons, Richard and Kevin, also attended, as did the bride's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold VanderKoogh of Arlington Heights.

The new Mrs. Mitchell formerly lived in Arlington Heights, moved to St. Louis for a short time and then to Palatine for the past few years.

Make boyfriend aware he's been rude

Dear Marian,

I am a girl of 17, who is going out with a guy four years older than I. We have been going out for a year and a half. Our relationship has been good until lately. It seems now I get no consideration from him. For example, about a month ago, we went to a barbecue with all of his friends. I only knew two couples there. We were both having a good time and all of a sudden he got up and disappeared for two hours with a couple of friends, leaving me with no one to talk to. I got quite mad because everyone was eating dinner and he took off not telling me where he was going or if he had brought any food for the barbecue. When he came back he knew that I had become upset, yet he did not apologize. I still think I was right and I was quite disappointed in him. Another example happened last week. He told me that he would see me Sunday morning, if something came up he would call me and tell me. I waited all day for a call or for him to show his face. Finally at 8 o'clock that night he showed up. He had gone out with some friends. This also made me mad.

I do love him dearly and I can't let go, but now how do I cope with this if it is going to continue to happen? I would like consideration and I feel I deserve it. Please give me some advice.

Confused and Hurt but Won't Let go

Dear Confused,

Everyone is inconsiderate or forgetful once in a while, but it sounds as if your boyfriend is really overdoing it. This could be a sign either that he is getting tired of you or he is taking you for granted. I can't tell from your letter if you have tried calmly sitting down with him and telling him why you think he is being unfair to you and how much he is hurting your feelings. If you haven't, try it; maybe he doesn't realize how rude he is being. If he makes a habit of being late, next time give him half an hour and then leave. If you're not there when he shows up, maybe he'll realize that you aren't going to sit around all day waiting for him. If he's so late that you've already left and come back, tell him that you were ready to see him at the time planned but now you've got other things to do. If he really cares about you, he'll get the point.

Dear Marian,

I get into these moods of depression. I feel as though I have nothing to live for. Even once I tried to O.D. (My parents don't know). I feel as though everybody is better than me. Why do people get into these moods? And is there a way to make me feel better and happier with myself?

J.M.

Dear J.M.,

People get depressed for different reasons, sometimes for no reason that they themselves can figure out. Almost everybody gets depressed once in a while. Also everyone has feelings of inferiority occasionally. Usually these feelings pass, especially if you try to keep busy and don't think about how depressed you are.

However, if you've been feeling depressed for a long time, and especially if you've been feeling suicidal, you should go to a counselor. Counseling can help you to feel better about yourself, and help you to discover why you are depressed and what to do about it. Call the Northwest Mental Health Center at 392-1420.

Make boyfriend aware he's been rude

Dear Marian,

I am a girl of 17, who is going out with a guy four years older than I. We have been going out for a year and a half. Our relationship has been good until lately. It seems now I get no consideration from him. For example, about a month ago, we went to a barbecue with all of his friends. I only knew two couples there. We were both having a good time and all of a sudden he got up and disappeared for two hours with a couple of friends, leaving me with no one to talk to. I got quite mad because everyone was eating dinner and he took off not telling me where he was going or if he had brought any food for the barbecue. When he came back he knew that I had become upset, yet he did not apologize. I still think I was right and I was quite disappointed in him. Another example happened last week. He told me that he would see me Sunday morning, if something came up he would call me and tell me. I waited all day for a call or for him to show his face. Finally at 8 o'clock that night he showed up. He had gone out with some friends. This also made me mad.

I do love him dearly and I can't let go, but now how do I cope with this if it is going to continue to happen? I would like consideration and I feel I deserve it. Please give me some advice.

Confused and Hurt but Won't Let go

Dear Confused,

Everyone is inconsiderate or forgetful once in a while, but it sounds as if your boyfriend is really overdoing it. This could be a sign either that he is getting tired of you or he is taking you for granted. I can't tell from your letter if you have tried calmly sitting down with him and telling him why you think he is being unfair to you and how much he is hurting your feelings. If you haven't, try it; maybe he doesn't realize how rude he is being. If he makes a habit of being late, next time give him half an hour and then leave. If you're not there when he shows up, maybe he'll realize that you aren't going to sit around all day waiting for him. If he's so late that you've already left and come back, tell him that you were ready to see him at the time planned but now you've got other things to do. If he really cares about you, he'll get the point.

Dear Marian,

I get into these moods of depression. I feel as though I have nothing to live for. Even once I tried to O.D. (My parents don't know). I feel as though everybody is better than me. Why do people get into these moods? And is there a way to make me feel better and happier with myself?

J.M.

Jamie Koelliker— Richard Ostriker

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Ostriker

A dance hosted by Acacia Fraternity at Purdue University brought about the meeting of Jamie Kim Koelliker of Arlington Heights and Richard Alan Ostriker of Chicago. A romance followed and the couple were married this past June 11 in St. Simon Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights.

Jamie, daughter of the James E. Koellikers, was a member of Phi Mu Sorority at Purdue and graduated this year in interior design. She is also a Forest View High School graduate.

Rich graduated from Purdue in '73 but had returned to attend his fraternity dance at the time he met Jamie. Son of the Henry Ostrikers, he is now with Owens/Corning Fiberglas in Houston, Tex., and has taken his bride there to live.

THEIR WEDDING ceremony was followed by a reception at Indian Lakes Country Club for 150 guests, after which the couple left for a 10-day honeymoon in the Bahamas.

As she exchanged vows and rings, Jamie wore an ivory organdy gown with Alencon lace appliques and a lace and pearl camelot headpiece with a fingertip veil edged in lace. Her bouquet was of phalaenopsis, apricot roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her attendants all wore apricot, knit jersey, halter gowns with chiffon capes in an apricot and grey print. They had apricot headpieces and carried apricot roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

KORIE LYNN Koelliker, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Proctor, Des Plaines, Rhonda Dieckman from Indiana and Sharon Ostriker, the groom's sister-in-law from Romeoville, Ill.

Rich's brother, Michael, of Romeoville, was his best man, and groomsmen included Jamie's brother James, Joseph Mahoney from California and Charles Martin, Chicago.

CANCER DETECTION
HEART ATTACK PREVENTION

A resting electrocardiogram is taken at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. to detect any heart abnormalities.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. (According to American Cancer Society publication '76 Cancer Facts and Figures.)

The health examination services available at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection include all cancer detection procedures recommended by the American Cancer Society, Illinois Division.

Heart Disease accounts for nearly half of all deaths each year. Unlike most Cancer, Heart Attack can be postponed through reducing one's risk factors such as diet, exercise, blood presure, smoking, etc. Dr. Morris Collen, a well-known specialist in preventive medicine, was quoted in the January, 1977 Issue of FORTUNE "if one has a checkup every year or two at age thirty-five and thereafter, directed at postponable diseases, the mortality rate from those diseases after seven years is approximately 50 percent of what it would have been without exams."

The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a preventive health screening examination designed for three purposes:

1. To establish a health profile for each individual to be used as a baseline for future care.
2. To analyze an individual's risk factors for heart disease and cancer and statistically forecast probable life expectancy and suggest ways it might actually be increased by reducing the risk factors found.
3. Screen for treatable disease. Early detection and prompt treatment increase the probability of a favorable outcome.

This meticulous 3 hour, low cost examination includes a computerized medical history, health risk analysis, physical examination, proctosigmoidoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine, vision, audiometry, spirometry, glaucoma test, body measurements. Women also receive a pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination. Exercise stress test, 24 hour holter monitor, and echocardiography are available as options.

Give yourself the best protection available today against cancer and heart disease by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Illinois (Near Woodfield Mall.) Master Charge accepted. Telephone (312) 885-1360.

'Glitter' folds but McCall stays on air

When the traditional ladies' man is asked to play the part of a submissive male in a daring situation comedy that dwells on reverse sex roles, it could cause problems.

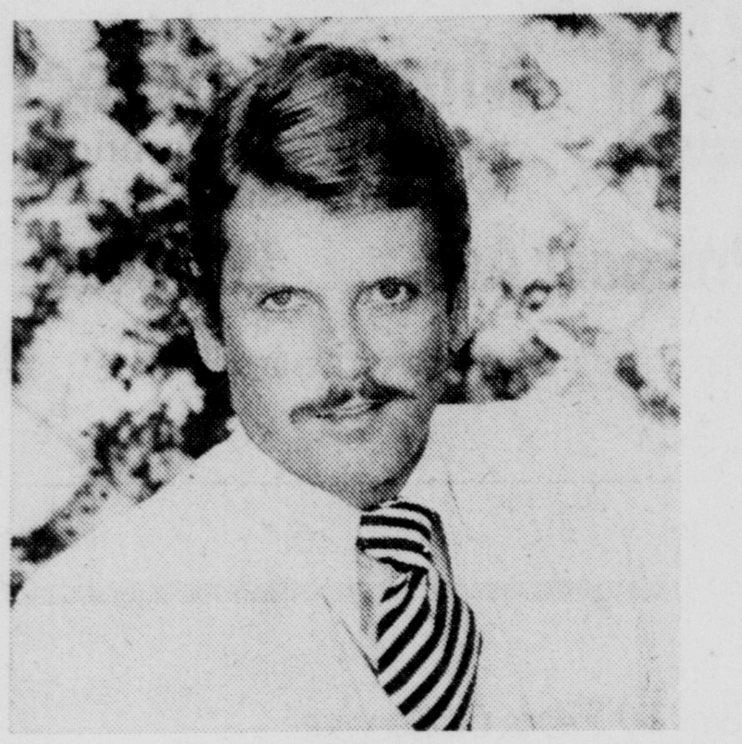
But, Ron McCall took it all with a grain of salt.

His role as Plato in the Norman Lear series "All That Glitters" was a nice deviation from the usual suave, leading man roles that McCall has played.

"I've always thought that it's the character roles, not the glamorous, leading roles that lend themselves to the greatest lines and most esciting situations. I was ready for something different," said McCall who is starring as the leading man, Clive, in "See How They Run" at the Pheasant Run Playhouse, St. Charles, through July 31.

UNFORTUNATELY, LEAR'S bold attempt at breaking the sex barrier was executed in a mediocre fashion and the half hour comedy, seen weekdays at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 32, has been canceled as of later this month.

"Why it's been canceled is basically because it didn't have high enough ratings across the country," McCall said. "Maybe the subject matter or the way we went about it turned some people off. But, I believe that most people look at the show as an experiment that was exciting."



Ron McCall

McCall's character, Plato, was less submissive to the corporation and society dominated by females than the rest of his male counterparts on the show. In the setting where men served as secretaries to the firm's bigwigs and were patted lightly on the rears, Plato faired farily well.

"Personally, my own security and male ego wasn't threatened. In fact, I think that playing that part or watching that kind of reverse interaction take place gave me and other men an insight into the situation that we never had before," he said.

McCALL MAY BE BEST known for the untold number of television, magazine and billboard advertisements he's appeared in for such products as Coppertone, Dodge, Honda minibikes and Winston cigarettes.

He has gone by the names of the Coppertone boy, the National Ice House wine man and the good looking fellow who expertly fingers a slim cigarette while blowing smoke rings off a billboard.

The fact that more people recognize him by sight rather than by name doesn't bother him.

Passing through an airport terminal or restaurant, he's inevitably in for a round of, "Oh, there's what's his name." That's why McCall is doing a cross country tour, guest spots on talk shows and theater work before resuming roles in regular television series this fall.

"I'm not in the business for glory and fame. I'm in it for the work. I'm in a creative business and it's satisfying to me to be able to express myself on stage or in front of the camera. And I love to meet people," McCall said.

HE IS SCHEDULED to appear in episodes of "Police Story," "Switch" and "Starsky and Hutch" next season in addition to starring in an underground spy film entitled "Flee the Captor." There is even a possibility that McCall could star in a mid-season series for the winter, although plans for such a project are still uncertain, he said.

In most of those upcoming jobs, he will portray the slick, suave male. But that's OK because it was his appearance and manner that, after all, got him into show business in the first place.

"I appeared on 'The Dating Game' and got a telephone call from Universal Studios to come in for an interview. I was a college student in psychology and advertising at the time and decided to turn the interview down," he said.

"I appeared on the show a second time a few months later and they called me again. This time I went on the interview and suddenly found myself doing television commercials," McCall said.

There have been a flock of stage plays and films in addition to the commercials since then, but nothing like "All That Glitters," he said.

"The 70 episodes we did in the 13 weeks we were filming were a real experience for me. Lear and his crew are geniuses. It's just too bad it didn't work, but there will be other things," he said.

TV NOTES:

- John Chancellor, co-anchor with David Brinkley of the "NBC Evening News," has come to terms with the network after a brief flirtation with CBS. CBS apparently was making advances toward Chancellor to succeed retiring Eric Sevareid as the network's commentator. Chancellor and NBC have agreed on a new contract that replaces his five-year contract which expires this fall. NBC has refused to comment on Chancellor's salary or the length of the contract except to say that it is "longer than three years." There has been speculation that Chancellor was vying for a hefty salary along the lines of Barbara Walters' $1 million annual salary from ABC.
- ABC is launching its fall season early this year on Sept. 6 with the showing on six consecutive nights of "Washington: Behind Closed Doors," which looks to be a blockbuster. The network will present an overview of its fall line-up of returning and new shows and specials Sept. 7 in "The Magic of ABC."

What ABC is telling us about the returning hits so far is:

- "Welcome Back, Kotter" will open the season Sept. 22 with a two-part, 90-minute segment when wife Julie gives birth to twins.
- The entire cast of "Happy Days" takes off for Hollywood in the two-part season premiere Sept. 20 to see the Fonz become a movie star.
- "Charlie's Angels," with newcomer Cheryl Ladd, begins Sept. 14 with a special twophour season premiere of intrigue in Hawaii.
- The two-part premiere of "Barney Miller" set for Sept. 15 will be devoted to the retirement of Detective Fish.
- Starsky and Hutch" kicks off Sept. 17 with a two-hour special, "Murder on Playboy Island."
- "Family" begins the season Sept. 13 with a special two-part story about Willie's first bittersweet romance.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- Michael Landon stars in the 1976 movie he produced, wrote and directed, "The Loneliest Runner," at 7 p.m. on Channel 5. It is a sensitive drama about teen-age bed-wetting.
- CBS correspondent Bill Moyers examines the fast-growing group of Americans who call themelves born-again Christians in the 9 p.m. news special on Channel 2, "Born Again."

'Glitter' folds but McCall stays on air

When the traditional ladies' man is asked to play the part of a submissive male in a daring situation comedy that dwells on reverse sex roles, it could cause problems.

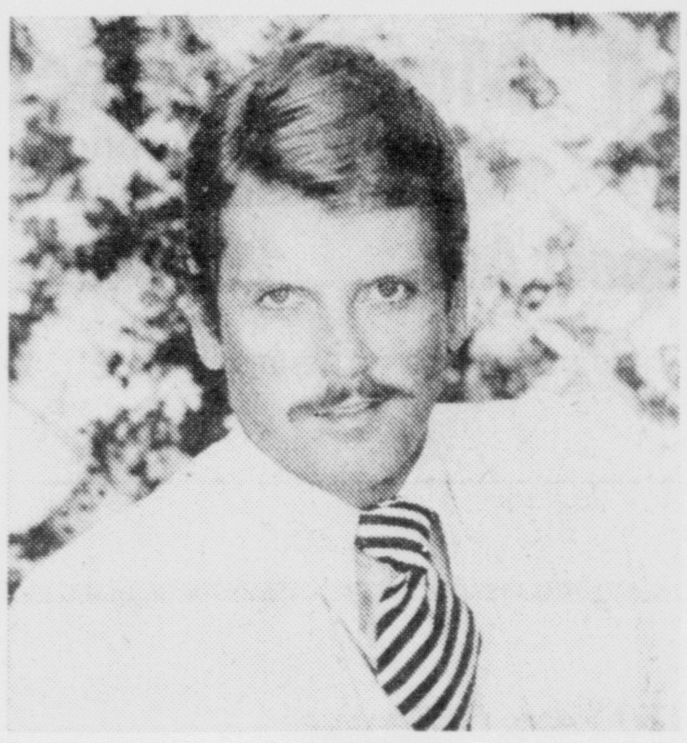
But, Ron McCall took it all with a grain of salt.

His role as Plato in the Norman Lear series "All That Glitters" was a nice deviation from the usual suave, leading man roles that McCall has played.

"I've always thought that it's the character roles, not the glamorous, leading roles that lend themselves to the greatest lines and most esciting situations. I was ready for something different," said McCall who is starring as the leading man, Clive, in "See How They Run" at the Pheasant Run Playhouse, St. Charles, through July 31.

UNFORTUNATELY, LEAR'S bold attempt at breaking the sex barrier was executed in a mediocre fashion and the half hour comedy, seen weekdays at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 32, has been canceled as of later this month.

"Why it's been canceled is basically because it didn't have high enough ratings across the country," McCall said. "Maybe the subject matter or the way we went about it turned some people off. But, I believe that most people look at the show as an experiment that was exciting."



Ron McCall

McCall's character, Plato, was less submissive to the corporation and society dominated by females than the rest of his male counterparts on the show. In the setting where men served as secretaries to the firm's bigwigs and were patted lightly on the rears, Plato faired farily well.

"Personally, my own security and male ego wasn't threatened. In fact, I think that playing that part or watching that kind of reverse interaction take place gave me and other men an insight into the situation that we never had before," he said.

McCALL MAY BE BEST known for the untold number of television, magazine and billboard advertisements he's appeared in for such products as Coppertone, Dodge, Honda minibikes and Winston cigarettes.

He has gone by the names of the Coppertone boy, the National Ice House wine man and the good looking fellow who expertly fingers a slim cigarette while blowing smoke rings off a billboard.

The fact that more people recognize him by sight rather than by name doesn't bother him.

Passing through an airport terminal or restaurant, he's inevitably in for a round of, "Oh, there's what's his name." That's why McCall is doing a cross country tour, guest spots on talk shows and theater work before resuming roles in regular television series this fall.

"I'm not in the business for glory and fame. I'm in it for the work. I'm in a creative business and it's satisfying to me to be able to express myself on stage or in front of the camera. And I love to meet people," McCall said.

HE IS SCHEDULED to appear in episodes of "Police Story," "Switch" and "Starsky and Hutch" next season in addition to starring in an underground spy film entitled "Flee the Captor." There is even a possibility that McCall could star in a mid-season series for the winter, although plans for such a project are still uncertain, he said.

In most of those upcoming jobs, he will portray the slick, suave male. But that's OK because it was his appearance and manner that, after all, got him into show business in the first place.

"I appeared on 'The Dating Game' and got a telephone call from Universal Studios to come in for an interview. I was a college student in psychology and advertising at the time and decided to turn the interview down," he said.

"I appeared on the show a second time a few months later and they called me again. This time I went on the interview and suddenly found myself doing television commercials," McCall said.

There have been a flock of stage plays and films in addition to the commercials since then, but nothing like "All That Glitters," he said.

"The 70 episodes we did in the 13 weeks we were filming were a real experience for me. Lear and his crew are geniuses. It's just too bad it didn't work, but there will be other things," he said.

Seafood for great grilling

Summer days in New England inspire cookouts, just as they do elsewhere. The only difference is that the main dishes are likely to be seafood instead of hot dogs and hamburgers.

But backyard chefs in the Midwest can bring the flavor of the sea to their patios, too. Fish is a good source of protein, as well as a tasty change from the ordinary barbecued fare.

Flounder and sole are members of the flatfish family. The meat is white and tender yet firm. In fillet form they can be pan fried or broiled and taste excellent when stuffed, rolled and baked.

Scallops should be plump, white and creamy. If they are oversized, they can be cut into halves or quarters. They should not be overcooked, and are tender and sweet enough to eat raw.

SKEWERED SCALLOPS AND BACON

1 pound sea scallops, fresh or frozen, defrosted
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup lemon juice
8 slices bacon
4 cherry tomatoes or tomato wedges

Remove any shell pieces from scallops and rinse well. Drain. Combine honey with soy sauce and lemon juice. Put scallops in a flat pan and pour honey mixture over. Refrigerate from 30 minutes to 2 hours. Drain off sauce and reserve. Meanwhile, cook bacon slices over moderate heat about 4 minutes and drain off fat.

Put scallops on skewers, stringing bacon between and around scallops. Top skewers with tomato. Grill about 3 inches from heat for 5 to 7 minutes, basting with sauce and turning to brown all sides. Serves 4.

GRILLED STUFFED FLOUNDER FILLETS

2 pounds fresh flounder fillets
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 slice white or whole wheat bread
2 tablespoons brandy
1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried basil
2 or 3 sprigs fresh thyme or 1/8 teaspoon ground thyme
1/2 teaspoon salt
Fresh ground pepper to taste
2 long slices natural Swiss cheese
Softened butter or margarine
Sauteed zucchini squash to serve 4

Sort out the largest fillets (about 8 inches long) and if there are not 4, combine smaller pieces to make four 8-inch long fillets about 4 inches wide. They can be held together with a small skewer or toothpicks. Place flat on a sheet of wax paper or fish wrapping. Trim off end pieces to "square" fillets. There should be at least 1/2 cup of end pieces, but if more use all.

Saute onion in oil until tender but not browned. Add fish pieces left from arranging the fillets and cook several minutes until fish can be flaked. Crumble bread into skillet. Add brandy and seasonings and stir until well blended. Spoon about 2 tablespoons down the center of each fillet. Cut Swiss cheese slices in half lengthwise and place on filling. Roll fillets, starting at narrow end. If cheese sticks out, bend slice back so it is covered by fish. Place stuffed fillets in an oiled fish grill. Spread fillets with softened butter. Grill about 3 inches from heat about 15 minutes, turning to cook both sides. Remove any skewers and serve with sauteed zucchini. Serves 4.

Barbecue overworked? Fish gives tasty change

Eileen Kelly

Let's learn to micro-cook

Summertime! The outdoor barbecue is working overtime and you need a change of eating pace from all the hamburgers, hot dogs and steak! Try fish baked in a microwave oven and you will taste fish that is flaky, tender and so delicate to the palate. I hope you will start your fish experience with fresh fish because it is so readily available in the area, but you certainly can use frozen fish if you thaw it first.

I remember when I first started buying fish. I was a young bride living on Long Island, N.Y. I found a great little fishery and began a romance with fillet of sole in lemon and butter. I've stayed closely with this fish recipe because it tastes good, is practically boneless and my family loves it.

When you decide to have fish for dinner, plan on cooking it last because it really takes such a short time. You don't want to overcook fish because it will become tough.

TO COOK ONE pound of fillet of sole, cut the fillets into serving-sized pieces. Melt about three tablespoons of butter in an 8 x 8-inch glass baking dish. Add the juice of one lemon or two tablespoons of lemon juice. Coat the fillets with the lemon butter and lay them in a single layer in the dish with the thickest fillets towards the outside.

Cover the dish with plastic wrap and microwave on high for 6 to 8 minutes. Do not turn the fish. Thicker fillets will take longer to cook and the reverse for very thin fillets. fish is done when it flakes easily with a fork. Let stand covered for five minutes.

It's fun to crunch some seasoned croutons over the cooked fish if you have some on hand. I really am very basic when it comes to fish. I believe that if the fish is good, then the lemon butter is enough. Salt and pepper to taste, of course.

If you must use frozen fish, you will need 10 to 12 minutes to thaw one pound of frozen fillets in your microwave oven. Place the fish, still in its original closed wrappings, in a glass baking dish. Microwave one pound of fish on the defrost setting for 10-12 minutes. Complete the thawing by holding the fish under cold running water.

Keep cooked chicken safe

Fried chicken is a favorite for summer picnics whether they're box lunches for two or family reunions.

The question arises: how long is cooked chicken safe unrefrigerated?

The National Broiler Council says it's safe to keep fried or baked chicken indoors or in a cool atmosphere for four hours. However, chicken salad or creamed chicken dishes always should be refrigerated until they're ready to be eaten.

After frying chicken for a picnic, cool the chicken in the refrigerator rather than at room temperature. Pack in a plastic container or aluminum foil for short periods without refrigeration. If you're driving a long distance or if the temperature is extremely high and it will be some time before the chicken is to be eaten, it's best to pack it in an insulated container or ice chest.

Series aids fresh produce hunt

by AILEEN CLAIRE

The variety of fresh fruits and vegetables available to Americans stuns the minds of those in other countries.

Once upon a time, the selection or buying of freshly grown, seasonal fruits and vegetables posed few problems for most Americans. Since Colonial days, this was a country that revolved around the agrarian or farming community — until World War II and the major shift to urban living. We are in another period of changing lifestyles.

The shift in recent years of Americans of all ages back to the suburbs as they seek a little piece of land finds many looking for help on how to grow their own vegetables and herbs, for example. But they're also looking for help in buying the produce in the market.

This still is a problem because of major changes in growing and distributing fruits and vegetables, and because at least two generations have grown up without being very close to the soil.

MEANWHILE, transportation of fresh fruits and vegetables is highly sophisticated. Once it was a Christmas treat to have fresh oranges in winter unless you lived in Florida or California.

Fresh approach

Now they're available year-round, coast-to-coast. Fresh strawberries, fresh melons, exotic Oriental, Central and South American, African and Israeli fruits and vegetables find their way more and more to supermarkets, no matter the size of the village or city.

This special 17-part Fresh Approach series is geared to help those of all ages select the best in fresh fruits and vegetables available in their markets throughout the year.

It explains some of the less familiar items such as sapote (a Mexican custard apple); how to tell when a fruit or vegetable is fresh or undamaged; how to ripen them; how to serve them in many ways; and what vitamins and minerals these fresh items contain.

This is a clip-and-save approach to your fruit and vegetable needs.

Vegetables and fruits offer health benefits

Why is food fiber so essential in the diet?

Claims are now being made by researchers including Drs. Denis Burkitt, Neil S. Painter and Hugh C. Trowell of England that lack of fiber in food correlates with high incidence of colon and rectal cancer. Dr. Burkett found that rural Africans who had a high fiber diet had fewer intestinal and bowel problems.

When these same Africans went to the cities and took on Western diets, including refined and processed fods, they fell victims to the "diseases of civilization" — diverticulitis, appendicitis and the cancers referred to above, these investigators state.

FRESH FRUITS AND vegetables have excellent fiber to offer in connection with this new research insight. What's easier than eating an apple, chewing a crisp, raw carrot or enjoying a tossed green salad? These all add fiber to your diet. Have some fresh vegetables and fruit every day, not only for their fiber content, but for their fine suply of vitamins and minerals.

Cooked vegetables also add important fiber to a meal. Just be sure to cook them briefly in a minimum of water. Avoid letting them get too soft.

Keep a bowl of fresh fruit handy for snacking. Carrot sticks, green pepper wedges, cucumber spears, radishes, and ready to eat in the refrigerator, encourage more eating of food fiber.

NUTRITIONISTS AND doctors now advise that most Americans increase consumption of fresh fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals. Check out your produce department today to find a dozen different ways to add fiber to your diet through foods your family likes.

However, the effects of dietary fiber (and even its definitions) are complex and there is much controversy about the whole subject among experts.

Campfire stew satisfies hunger

Tomato Vegetable Beef Stew

Whatever your reason for backpacking — a desire to get away from it all, or a love of the outdoors, you'll find what you're looking for in the nation's forests and state and national parks.

There the wilderness lies preserved and undisturbed to be enjoyed, studied and explored by backpackers of all ages. Backpacking is a rugged activity, far removed from the "comforts" of camping with a trailer and all the conveniences. But this challenge is what makes it so popular and exciting. With your "home" on your back you're free to explore areas inaccessible to those traveling by car.

What should you take along? That's something that depends on your own size and strength and the type of terrain you'll be crossing. Generally, it is recommended that a man carry no more than 35 to 40 pounds, and a woman no more than 25 to 30 pounds. Lightweight equipment is important to the extent that food should be repackaged from a heavier container to a lighter one, such as a plastic bag.

ALTHOUGH LISTS of necessary backpacking equipment differ in content and you will eventually develop one for your own specific needs, the basics generally include a packframe and backpack; a sleeping bag; a change of clothing; rain gear such as a lightweight poncho; a first-aid kit; insect repellent; and a supply of food and eating equipment.

A lightweight camping stove can be invaluable should rain or dampness make firewood impossible to use, or if your own weariness makes the thought of collecting wood a distressing one. A stove weighs only a few ounces and folds to practically nothing, which makes it ideally suited for backpacking. It's safe to use since it uses canned heat fuel, which won't spill and can be extinguished with water.

Want to eat? Dehydrated and freeze-dried foods have an obvious advantage of backpackers — their light weight. But their cost and sometimes even your flavor can leave much to be desired. If you check your supermarket, you'll find it can offer you regular foods that adapt well to treks in the great outdoors without inflating your budget. Choose from dried soups and juices, powdered milk, one-dish dinners, hard salami and firm cheeses. Energy-giving snacks along the trail can include raisins, nuts, chocolate, dried fruit or homemade fruit and nut bars.

TOMATO VEGETABLE BEEF STEW

1 package (2½ ounces) dry tomato vegetable soup mix
1 4-serving package instant mashed potatoes
1 quart water
1 package (2½ or 3 ounces) sliced dried beef.

In a 2-quart mess kit over camp stove combine soup mix, instant mashed potatoes and water. Cook, stirring frequently, until mixture comes to a boil. Add beef and cook 5 minutes longer, stirring frequently.

It makes a quart of stew or two hearty bowls for two persons. Bread, cheese, some dried fruit and coffee or tea can round out your dinner.

Dont forget to put out all fires when leaving your campsite. And leave the area just as clean as you found it — dispose of garbage properly, or take it with you until you find a proper receptacle.

WAFFLES MAKE good eating for supper and dessert as well as breakfast, as Norma Tofall of Des Plaines can attest.

Waffles do double duty as main dish and dessert

Lois Seiler

Cook of the week

Waffles need not be relegated to the breakfast table. Indeed, Norma and Bob Tofall of Des Plaines enjoy them anytime — breakfast, lunch, dinner or as a snack, and also serve them to guests. They are ideal for Sunday, as a brunch after church or an evening supper.

Norma and Bob often attend flea markets and antique shows with friends on Sunday afternoon, and find waffles an easy main course and dessert to serve for supper afterwards. This was the Tofalls' lifestyle when they lived in Quincy, Ill., but it is a novel idea among their suburban friends and always makes a big hit.

Norma has several appealing waffle recipes, two of which are favorites. One is made with 7-Up and the other with bran. Only four ingredients go into one recipe: Bisquick, oil, egg and diet or regular 7-Up. This makes an excellent light and crispy waffle, and leftovers freeze well. To reheat, the waffles are simply popped into a toaster, making a quick and tasty snack.

THE BRAN WAFFLE takes a little more time to prepare, and is more cake-like and heavier than the 7-Up waffles. Cinnamon adds a subtle, spicy touch to the mild, bran-flavored batter. Sometimes Norma adds nuts, bacon bits or applesauce to the batter, and serves the waffles with a variety of toppings.

One topping that Norma devised herself is made by cooking apples with brown sugar, ground cinnamon, cinnamon candy hearts and raisins. This is delicious served warm over the 7-Up or bran waffles, or also may be added to the bran batter itself or the waffle recipe on the Bisquick box. Maple syrup may be poured over the apple-topped waffles, if desired.

During the summer months, this good cook combines four to six fresh fruits with an equal amount of a non-dairy whipped topping or sour cream and uses the mixture as a topping. If you don't want the calories, the fruit

Contest entries show nutrition consciousness

A Houston food manufacturer who sponsored a nationwide rice cooking contest got 30,000 entries and some insights into home cooking trends in the United States.

Company executive Thomas G. Armstrong said the entries revealed high interest in nutrition and health awareness. Many entries called for fresh vegetables, yogurt, sunflower seeds, whole grains, dried fruits, honey and nuts.

Stir-frying was a popular cooking method, Armstrong said, both for nutrient retention and saving energy. Most of the recipes called for range-top cooking.

Other trends: ethic dishes, especially Mexican and Oriental, with some Middle Eastern and African.

Armstrong, vice president for marketing for Uncle Ben's Products, said some entrants even used rice in bread baking and selected spices for curries instead of ready-mixed currry powder.

Ideas for chicken lovers

Always keep chicken refrigerated until ready to place on the grill. Never thaw chicken at room temperature. Thaw slowly in the refrigerator when possible or quick-thaw in a microwave oven. If frozen chicken is placed on the grill, allow extra time for cooking.

If you're cooking chicken on the grill and you don't plan to serve it immediately, remove and wrap in aluminum foil or place in an insulated container. Chicken will dry out rapidly and lose some of its natural tenderness and flavor if it is left on the fire after it is done.

Dinnertime waffles please friends

IN WINTER, NORMA makes a fruit salad topping with a variety of canned fruit and juices combind with instant lemon pudding. The pudding thickens in the juices, and the mixture may be served as a waffle topping, a breakfast fruit or a salad. It looks pretty served in a glass bowl or individual sherbet glasses.

Norma always keeps melted butter and warm maple and blueberry syrups and jam available, and always serves hot chocolate with her waffles. They may be accompanied by bacon and pork link sausages, if desired.

For dessert, Norma prefers to use the light, 7-Up waffles, topping them with ice cream, chocolate sauce and whipped cream. Or the waffles may be used as a shortcake, topped with fresh strawberries or peaches and whipped cream.

Collecting is related to both of Norma's hobbies. She collects recipes and admits to loving every aspect of cooking. She also collects antique crocks and jugs, and likes to refinish furniture. Both Bob and Norma are active in Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights. They have two married sons and a granddaughter, all living in Quincy.

LIGHT 7-UP WAFFLES

2 cups Bisquick
1 egg
½ cup vegetable oil
1-1/3 cups regular or diet 7-Up

Mix all ingredients together by hand until well mixed. Pour batter onto hot waffle iron and bake until done. (Use all batter, as it does not keep well in refrigerator.) Leftover waffles will freeze well and can be reheated in toaster. Makes 7 to 8 round 8-inch waffles. (The batter may be cut in half, but still use one whole egg.)

TASTY BRAN WAFFLES

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup all-bran cereal
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 egg whites

Sift first 6 ingredients into mixing bowl. Stir in buttermilk and beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold in bran cereal and butter.

In small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into bran mixture. Bake in a hot waffle iron. Makes five 8-inch waffles.

CINNAMON APPLE TOPPING

5 or 6 medium-size Jonathan apples, peeled, cored and thinly sliced
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup cinnamon candy hearts
½ cup water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ to 1 cup raisins (optional)

Combine all ingredients and cook over low heat 20 to 30 minutes, uncovered, stirring occasionally until apples are tender. Cook served warm over either Light or Bran waffles, or add ½ to 1 cup to a full recipe of bran or regular Bisquick batter.

FRUIT SALAD TOPPING

1 can (11 ounces)
mandarin oranges
1 can (11 ounces) pineapple chunks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 large box or 2 small instant lemon pudding
Maraschino cherries (optional)
1 to 1½ cups miniature marshmallows (optional)

Do not drain juices from fruit. Mix all ingredients together and let set in refrigerator several hours or overnight.

Serve over waffles or as a fruit cocktail or breakfast fruit.

Turkey brings islands to backyard

Can't go on a vacation this year? Dining at home on Barbecued Turkey Hawaiian will make you feel like Polynesian breezes are blowing in your backyard.

To make a flavorful feast guests won't forget, accompany with fluffy lemon-flavored rice and your favorite salad and dessert.

BARBECUED TURKEY HAWAIIAN

1 8- to 10-pound turkey
Salt
Pepper
Oil
1 (8¼-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
Dash salt

If the turkey is frozen, thaw according to the wrapper directions, rinse and pat dry. The wings securely to breast with twine and tie drumsticks securely to tail. Do not stuff turkey for rotisserie cooking. Insert spit rod in front of tail; run diagonally through breast bone. Fasten tightly with spit forks at both ends and test for balance, readjusting until satisfactory. If desired, insert meat thermometer into thickest part of breast thigh, parallel to the spit. Brush turkey with oil and seasoning.

Cook 1 hour, then brush with basting sauce prepared by mixing together pineapple, brown sugar, lemon juice, prepared mustard and dash of salt. Continue cooking, basting turkey every 30 minutes. Total cooking time will be 3½ to 4 hours.

Before carving, let turkey rest at least 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Serves 10 to 15.

SAVORY LEMON RICE

2 tablespoons butter
¼ clove garlic, minced
1½ cups chicken broth
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups long grain instant rice
1½ tablespoons parsley
2 teaspoons lemon juice

In medium-sized saucepan, saute garlic in butter. Add chicken broth and salt bring to boil. Stir in rice. Cover, turn off heat and let stand 5 minutes. Add, fluffing with a fork, the parsley and lemon juice. Serves 4 to 6.

REMODELING SALE
WANTED PIANO AND ORGAN MOVERS! Everybody qualifies.
MUST SELL THESE BRAND NAME PIANOS AND ORGANS OR PAY TO HAVE THEM MOVED TO NEW PART OF STORE.

Even though our new music center is under the same roof as our old one, when it comes to moving pianos and organs, our new music center could just as well be in Seattle.
First, the pianos and organs are in the way of the remodelers.
Second, they have to be dismantled to be moved to the new part of the store.
As long as we're taking them apart to move them next door, and as long as we're going to have to take them apart when we do move them to your house, we'll pay you now in the form of handsome discounts for deciding to buy a little sooner than you intended.
Here's the kinds of buys you can make by acting now:

Dinnertime waffles please friends

may be served in its own juices.

IN WINTER, NORMA makes a fruit salad topping with a variety of canned fruit and juices combind with instant lemon pudding. The pudding thickens in the juices, and the mixture may be served as a waffle topping, a breakfast fruit or a salad. It looks pretty served in a glass bowl or individual sherbet glasses.

Norma always keeps melted butter and warm maple and blueberry syrups and jam available, and always serves hot chocolate with her waffles. They may be accompanied by bacon and pork link sausages, if desired.

For dessert, Norma prefers to use the light, 7-Up waffles, topping them with ice cream, chocolate sauce and whipped cream. Or the waffles may be used as a shortcake, topped with fresh strawberries or peaches and whipped cream.

Collecting is related to both of Norma's hobbies. She collects recipes and admits to loving every aspect of cooking. She also collects antique crocks and jugs, and likes to refinish furniture. Both Bob and Norma are active in Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights. They have two married sons and a granddaughter, all living in Quincy.

LIGHT 7-UP WAFFLES

2 cups Bisquick
1 egg
½ cup vegetable oil
1-1/3 cups regular or diet 7-Up

Mix all ingredients together by hand until well mixed. Pour batter onto hot waffle iron and bake until done. (Use all batter, as it does not keep well in refrigerator.) Leftover waffles will freeze well and can be reheated in toaster. Makes 7 to 8 round 8-inch waffles. (The batter may be cut in half, but still use one whole egg.)

TASTY BRAN WAFFLES

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup all-bran cereal
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 egg whites

Sift first 6 ingredients into mixing bowl. Stir in buttermilk and beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold in bran cereal and butter.

In small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into bran mixture. Bake in a hot waffle iron. Makes five 8-inch waffles.

CINNAMON APPLE TOPPING

5 or 6 medium-size Jonathan apples, peeled, cored and thinly sliced
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup cinnamon candy hearts
½ cup water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ to 1 cup raisins (optional)

Combine all ingredients and cook over low heat 20 to 30 minutes, uncovered, stirring occasionally until apples are tender. Cook served warm over either Light or Bran waffles, or add ½ to 1 cup to a full recipe of bran or regular Bisquick batter.

FRUIT SALAD TOPPING

1 large can fruit cocktail
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges
1 can (11 ounces) pineapple chunks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 large box or 2 small instant lemon pudding
Maraschino cherries (optional)
1 to 1½ cups miniature marshmallows (optional)

Do not drain juices from fruit. Mix all ingredients together and let set in refrigerator several hours or overnight.

Serve over waffles or as a fruit cocktail or breakfast fruit.

Turkey brings islands to backyard

Can't go on a vacation this year? Dining at home on Barbecued Turkey Hawaiian will make you feel like Polynesian breezes are blowing in your backyard.

To make a flavorful feast guests won't forget, accompany with fluffy lemon-flavored rice and your favorite salad and dessert.

BARBECUED TURKEY HAWAIIAN

1 8- to 10-pound turkey
Salt
Pepper
Oil
1 (8¼-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
Dash salt

If the turkey is frozen, thaw according to the wrapper directions, rinse and pat dry. The wings securely to breast with twine and tie drumsticks securely to tail. Do not stuff turkey for rotisserie cooking. Insert spit rod in front of tail; run diagonally through breast bone. Fasten tightly with spit forks at both ends and test for balance, readjusting until satisfactory. If desired, insert meat thermometer into thickest part of breast thigh, parallel to the spit. Brush turkey with oil and seasoning.

Cook 1 hour, then brush with basting sauce prepared by mixing together pineapple, brown sugar, lemon juice, prepared mustard and dash of salt. Continue cooking, basting turkey every 30 minutes. Total cooking time will be 3½ to 4 hours.

Before carving, let turkey rest at least 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Serves 10 to 15.

SAVORY LEMON RICE

2 tablespoons butter
¼ clove garlic, minced
1½ cups chicken broth
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups long grain instant rice
1½ tablespoons parsley
2 teaspoons lemon juice

In medium-sized saucepan, saute garlic in butter. Add chicken broth and salt bring to boil. Stir in rice. Cover, turn off heat and let stand 5 minutes. Add, fluffing with a fork, the parsley and lemon juice. Serves 4 to 6.

Oriental-style vegetables

Dish uses garden fare

There's more than one way to serve fresh vegetables. Now is the time to take advantage of those available in your area during the height of the growing sason.

Make a special treat for family and friends in the oriental vein—garden patch tempura. Dip each piece of vegetable in a corn meal-beer batter and fry in deep hot oil in an electric mini-fryer or a wok. A deep, heavy stainless steel fry pan also will turn out good tempura.

Serve the vegetables with a soy-sauce, cocktail or mustard sauce or other favorite dip. Almost all vegetables make good tempura — zucchini, potatoes, cauliflower, broccoli, sweet potatoes, green peppers, onions or carrots.

GARDEN PATCH TEMPURA

1 cup enriched corn meal
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
1 12-ounce can (1½ cups beer)
2 eggs, beaten
2 medium-sized zucchini, sliced ¼-inch thick
2 medium-sized potatoes, cut into thin strips
2 cups cauliflower pieces
2 cups broccoli pieces
1 large sweet potato, cut into thin strips
1 cup parsley sprigs
Vegetable oil

Combine corn meal, flour, baking powder and salt. Add beer and eggs, mixing until well blended. Dip vegetables into batter. Fry in deep hot oil (375 degrees) until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve warm with soy sauce, if desired, or other favorite dips. Serves 4 to 6.

VARIATION: Substitute 2 medium-sized carrots, cut into thin strips, for sweet potato.
